MEANING OF TERMS

USED IN CLASSIFYING ANNOTATING CASES.

THE different expressions used to describe the effect of the annotating cases have the following meanings, and the classification of the annotating cases has been done strictly in accordance with these meanings. The annotating cases are listed chronologically except such as are classified as " Referred to " or " Mentioned." These come at the end and are arranged inter se in chronological order. The terms used in classifying the annotating cases are as follows :—

" APPLIED " (Apld.).—This expression is used to denote the fact that the principle of law enunciated in the annotated case has been applied to a new set of facts and circumstances in the annotating case.

" APPROVED " (Apprvd.).—This expression is used to denote the fact that the annotated case has been considered to be good law in the annotating case where the latter is in a higher court than the former.

" CONSIDERED " (Consd.).—This expression is used where the remarks in the annotating case are devoid of adverse criticism and merely denote the giving of more or less careful consideration to the annotated case.

" DISTINGUISHED " (Distd.).—This expression is used where the earlier case is not necessarily doubted, but where some essential difference (either on the facts or in law) between it and the annotated case is pointed out.

" DOUBTED " (Dbtd.).—This expression is used where the court in the annotating case, without definitely going to the length of saying that the annotated case is wrong, adduces reasons which seem to show that it is not accurate.

" EXPLAINED " (Expld.).—This expression is used where the earlier case is not necessarily doubted, but the decision arrived at is justified or accounted for by calling attention to some point of fact or of law which is usually, but not necessarily, one not obvious on the face of the report.

" EXTENDED " (Extd.).—Compare " APPLIED," supra.

" FOLLOWED " (Folld.).—This expression is used to denote that the same principles of law are applied in the two cases. It does not necessarily imply that the facts are substantially identical in the two cases.

" NOT FOLLOWED " (N.F.).—Compare " FOLLOWED," supra, to which it is the adverse.

" OVERRULED " (Overd.).—This expression is used where the annotating case is on substantially identical facts with the annotated case and in a higher court and the rule in the latter case is held to be wrong.

" REFERRED " (Refd.).—This expression is used only where the annotating case deals with the point of the Digest paragraph and is without comment of any definite character on the case annotated, and where there is no delicate shade of approval or disapproval which would justify the use of any of the foregoing words.

" MENTIONED " (Mentd.).—This expression is used only where none of the foregoing terms apply. In other words, it is used only where the case annotated is cited on a point having nothing to do with the point in the Digest paragraph.

Part XIX.—Statement of Affairs & Discovery of Property.

SECT. 1.—STATEMENT OF AFFAIRS.

5460. Nature of statement—Not statement made in compulsory examination—Admissible in evidence to prove misappropriation of trust funds.]—The statement of affairs made by bkpt. in compliance with 1883 Act, s. 16, is not a statement made in a compulsory examination within 1890 Act, s. 27 (2); & it is admissible in evidence against bkpt. charged with appropriating trust money to his own use under Larceny Act, 1861 (c. 96), s. 80.—R. v. PIKE, [1902] 1 K. B. 552; 71 L. J. K. B. 287; 86 L. T. 205; 66 J. P. 296; 50 W. R. 672; 18 T. L. R. 285; 46 Sol. Jo. 268; 20 Cox, C. C. 164; 9 Mans. 121, C. C. R.

5461. What it must contain—Everything saleable for debtor's benefit — Officer's half-pay.]—Debtor must include in his schedule everything that he can sell for his own benefit; but the half-pay of an officer is not the subject of sale, & need not be included.—FLARTY v. ODLUM (1790), 3 Term Rep. 681; 100 E. R. 801.

See, now, 1915 Rules, Form No. 34.

5464. —— Petition filed by partner — Joint & several assets & liabilities — Account between himself & partner.]—Debtor, who carries on one business alone, & another in partnership, must when he files a liquidation petition (his partner being solvent) set forth in his statement of affairs the assets & liabilities of the partnership business in detail, as well as his own separate assets & liabilities, i.e., in each case he must give the names of the creditors, with the amount due to each & the names of debtors, with the amount due from each. He must also state the account between himself & his partner, so as to show the balance (if any) due to him.—Re AMOR, Ex p. AMOR (1882), 21 Ch. D. 594; 52 L. J. Ch. 138; 48 L. T. 16; 31 W. R. 282, C. A.

5465. —— Petition filed by continuing partner after dissolution of firm — Joint & several assets & liabilities to be distinguished.]—Debtor filed a liquidation petition describing himself as carrying on business alone. He had formerly been in partnership, but the partnership had come to an end more than a year before the petition was filed. There were debts of the firm remaining unpaid. Debtor's statement did not show which were his joint & which were his separate assets or debts:—Held: it was the duty of debtor in his statement of affairs to distinguish between his joint & separate assets & liabilities.—Re COCKAYNE, Ex p. COCKAYNE (1873), L. R. 16 Eq. 218; 42 L. J. Bcy. 71; 28 L. T. 678; 21 W. R. 749.

PART XIX. SECT. 1.

5466. —— —— —— Or statement that no joint assets or liabilities.]—Debtor, who has been in partnership, ought in his statement of affairs to distinguish between his joint & separate debts & assets, or to state expressly that no debts & no assets of the former partnership exist.—Re BUCKLEY, Ex p. BUCKLEY (1881), 16 Ch. D. 513; 44 L. T. 39; 29 W. R. 920, C. A.

5467. Sufficiency of statement—Debt on bill of exchange—Bill of exchange transferred.]—If an insolvent debtor knows, at the time of filing his schedule, that a bill of exchange has been indorsed to a particular person some time before, he is bound to give notice to that person, although he cannot tell whether he continues to be holder at the time of filing the schedule.—PUGH v. HOOKHAM (1832), 5 C. & P. 376.

See, also, No. 5640, post.

5468. —— —— ——.]—The requirements of 1869 Act, as to the entry in a statement of affairs of a debt due upon a bill of exchange, where the holder is unknown to debtor, are substantially complied with if it can be proved that the entry was such, that notices sent in accordance therewith were actually received by the creditor.—WOOD v. BATES (1882), 46 J. P. 280.

See, also, cases in Part XVIII., Sect. 7, sub-sect. 2, C., ante.

5469. Evidence of inaccuracy—What amounts to.]—Registration of the resolutions passed by the creditors under a liquidation petition having been refused, leave was given to debtor, a trader, to summon a fresh first meeting of the creditors. The fresh meeting was held more than two months after the original meeting, but debtor produced the same statement of his affairs, as he had produced at the original meeting :—Held : there being no evidence that the state of debtor's affairs had changed in the interval, it could not be taken that the statement was necessarily inaccurate.—Re GOLDING, Ex p. EARLY (1879), 13 Ch. SECT. 2.—FILING ACCOUNTS.

See, now, 1914 Act, s. 22 (2), & 1915 Rules, r. 325.

5470. Discretion of court—To be exercised only in special circumstances.]—The ct. has jurisdiction to order bkpt. to file a cash account of his receipts & payments for a specified period before his bkpcy., & where the file of proceedings shows a state of circumstances calling for such an order, the ct. has power to make it without further evidence. Such power, however, is discretionary, & is only exercised in special circumstances.—Re MOIR, Ex p. MOIR (1882), 21 Ch. D. 61; 51 L. J. Ch. 931; 47 L. T. 267; 30 W. R. 738, C. A.

5471. In what cases—Important items concerned with partnership dissolved several years previously.]—Bkpt. four years previously to his bkpcy. had been engaged in a partnership business, & two important items in his accounts were connected with the transactions of that partnership business :—Held : the trustee was entitled to demand a cash account of that business, notwithstanding the lapse of time.—Re CRAWFORD, Ex p. CRAWFORD (1873), 28 L. 5472. —— Company promoter keeping no books.]—Bkpt., who had been engaged in an extensive business as a promoter of public cos., had kept no accounts, & could produce no record whatever of his transactions, except his bankers' pass-book, & some counterfoils of recent cheques :—Held : this was a sufficient reason for ordering him under 1869 Act, s. 19, to file a cash account of his receipts & payments for two years before his bkpcy.—Re MOIR, Ex p. MOIR (1882) 21 Ch. D. 61; 51 L. J. Ch. 931; 47 L. T. 267; 30 W. R. 738, C. A.

5473. —— Business alleged to belong to bankrupt's wife.]—At the public examination of an undischarged bkpt., he was questioned about a business, which it was alleged that he had, since the date of the receiving order, been carrying on under a name not his own. He asserted that this business was not his, but was his wife's, & that he had only acted as her clerk. The registrar did not believe bkpt's statements, &, on the application of the official receiver, ordered bkpt. to file an account of his dealings in the business in question. This order was made without any notice to bkpt's wife, who was not present :—Held : the registrar had jurisdiction to make the order, which did not amount to a final adjudication upon the title to the business.—Re CRONMIRE, Ex p. CRONMIRE, [1894] 2 Q. 5481. —— ——.]—Bkpt. was, on his return home from his examination, arrested on an attachment for not paying money pursuant to an order of the Ct. of Ch.:—Held: he was protected from arrest.

An attachment for contempt for non-payment of money is in the nature of civil process, & the invariable rule is that whoever is attending a ct. of justice, either as a party, or as a witness brought there not by his own voluntary act, but by a subpœna, or other legal mandate requiring his attendance, is protected at common law, eundo, morando, et redeundo (LORD BROUGHAM, C.).—Ex p. JEYES (1834), 3 Deac. & Ch. 764, L. C.

5482. —— —— Limited to actual attendance.] —The Crown not being bound by the Statutes of Bkpcy., the protection of bkpt. from an extent is limited to actual attendance, upon the common law privilege of a witness or party, & does not extend through the intervals of adjournment by the statute.—Ex p. TEMPLE (1814), 2 Ves. & B. 391; 35 E. 5483. —— —— Deviation.]—Qu.: whether a deviation by bkpt., returning from examination, for the purpose of leaving his books at the house of the assignee, will deprive him of his privilege. —Ex p. DONLEVY (1802), 7 Ves. 317; 32 E. R. 129, L. C.

5484. —— Security for.]—If the description of property mentioned in the form of a recognisance for insolvent's appearance be insufficient in value, the ct. will accept a deposit of money to the amount required in lieu thereof, with an undertaking that in the event of insolvent not appearing the money deposited shall be forfeited.—ANON. (1849), 13 L. T. O. S. 530.

5485. Conduct of examination—Power of registrar—To stop examination—To order trustee to deliver requisitions.] — A trustee in bkpcy. examined bkpt. at his public examination concerning certain alleged fraudulent transactions, on which he had previously examined him in private, but failed to obtain satisfactory explanation. The registrar, against the wish of the trustee, stopped the public examination, considering that it was a waste of public time, & adjourned it to a future day, ordering the trustee in the meantime to deliver written requisitions to bkpt. as to the points on which he required information:—Semble: the registrar had no power to order the trustee to deliver such written requisitions.—Re HENDREY, Ex p. CRUMP (1876), 1 Ch. See, also, 1915 Rules, r. 195.

5502. —— —— Conditions imposed.]—The examination ought to be adjourned till bkpt. has done all that is required by the Act & the Rules, & if any conditions are to be imposed, the examination ought to be adjourned till they have been complied with.—Re ANGERSTEIN, Ex p. SMITH (1872), 7 Ch. App. 662; 41 L. J. Bcy. 44; 27 L. T. 330; 20 W. R. 851, L. JJ.

See, now, 1914 Act, s. 15 (8), & 1915 Rules, r. 195.

5503. —— Debtor's conduct—Failure to account for assets.]—Bkpts. failed to account for the loss of a sum of £9,000 to their estate, & in their examination stated that they did not know what had become of the amount:—Held: their last examination had been properly adjourned sine die.—Re BROOK & CROSLAND, Ex p. BROOK (1863), 8 L. T. 375, L.C.

5504. —— Pending criminal proceedings.]—An application by debtor for the postponement of his public examination, till after the trial of criminal proceedings pending against him, must be made to the registrar.—Re BUTTERFIELD (1890), 7 Morr. 293.

5505. —— —— When granted—Debtor likely to be extradited.]—The usual practice of not pressing against debtor, in custody or under remand on a criminal charge incriminating questions in relation to the alleged offence while the criminal charge is hanging over debtor, but of adjourning the public examination until after the trial, is only a rule of convenience.

There may be occasions where it will be desirable not to follow [the above rule of convenience]. Such an occasion would occur where bkpt. is likely to be extradited or to be handed over to colonial authorities under Fugitive Offenders Act, 1881

l. —— —— —— Questions as to property of wife.]—Debtor upon his examination refused to answer questions as to his wife's property:—Held: his refusal was justifiable.—MONKMAN v. ROBINSON (1886), 3 Man. L. R. 640. —CAN.

5501 i. Adjournment of examination—Duty of court to adjourn—To compel discovery.]—An adjournment sine die ought to be confined to the purpose of compelling discovery as to the property of bkpt., & ample time will be given for that purpose.—Re BECK (1867), 1 I. L. T. Jo. 543.—IR.

m. —— Discretion of court to adjourn—Notwithstanding full disclosure—Fraudulent circumstances.]—The ct. is not bound to pass the final examination of bkpt., merely because he has made a full disclosure of his affairs, if there be fraudulent circumstances in his conduct which, in the opinion of the ct. would disentitle him to his certificate, as the time to consider such circumstances is at the passing the final examination, it being impossible to refuse the certificate after the final examination has been passed. —Re KEON (1860), 10 I. Ch. R. 111; 12 Ir. Jur. 107.—IR.

n. —— —— —— Fabricated accounts & criminal conduct.]—If a trader, to obtain forbearance & fresh credit submits fabricated accounts & is guilty of criminal acts, the ct. is not bound to pass the examination, although he may account fully.—Re LYSTER (1863). 15 Ir. Jur. 176.—IR.

p. —— —— —— Reckless trading, forgery, & fraud.]—If bkpt. makes a full disclosure, but has been guilty of reckless trading, of forgery, & of fraud upon his general creditors, the ct. is not bound to pass the final examination, which would entitle him to his certificate at the end of three years at the farthest, but the ct. has perfect jurisdiction, in any state of facts, to adjourn the examination sine die.—Re M'ILROY (1863), 15 Ir. Jur. 218.—IR.

r. —— —— —— Misconduct.]—Semble: the ct. has no power to adjourn the final examination of bkpt. sine die for any misconduct of bkpt., if his disclosures be full & true.—Re BURKE (1863), 14 I. Ch. R. 107.—IR.

s. —— Pending appeal against arrangement being turned into bankruptcy.]—An arrangement case was turned by the ct. into bkpcy., & the trader appealed against that ruling. The appeal not having yet been heard, the trader did not attend on the day named for surrender & final examination. The ct. recorded his non-attendance, & adjourned the case for a month to give time for the appeal to be heard.—Re M'CLELAND (1868), 2 I. L. T. Jo. 689.—IR.

t. —— To rectify omission to send notices to examination.]—Where the ct. has made an order for the public examination of bkpt., & the official assignee has omitted to send notices by post-card to all the creditors of the time & place appointed, the omission may be rectified by the ct. under 1883 Act, s. 216, & the public examination of bkpt. adjourned for the purpose.—Re SLATER, Ex p. OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE (1890), 8 N. Z. L. R. 717.—N.Z.

5503 i. —— Debtor's conduct—Failure to account for assets.]—When there is a deficiency unaccounted for, the examination will be adjourned sine die.—Re CLEARY (1869), 3 I. L. T. Jo. 253.—IR.

5503 ii. —— —— —— After removal of property.]—Property was removed, but there was evidence that it had all been replaced. The creditors were unable to trace any other property, or give evidence of its removal, but a deficiency unaccounted for remained. Bkpt.'s evidence was contradicted, & his only explanation was that he did not remember. The examination was adjourned sine die, with liberty to reopen it when bkpt. could make a better case, & satisfy the creditors that all the property had been restored.—Re HENNESSY (1863), 15 Ir. Jur. 139.—IR.

5503 iii. —— —— —— Loss from alleged theft.]—A trader, having engagements to meet in England, started for London, carrying £1,390 in gold & £100 in notes, in a carpet bag. He stated in his examination that the bag was stolen, & on several occasions positively stated that he could give no other account of the loss. In all other respects his sched. was accurately vouched, & his general conduct satisfactory. The ct., being dissatisfied with the account of the loss, & the conduct of bkpt. in relation thereto, refused to pass the final examination.—Re COOTE (1861), 12 I. Ch. R. 454.—IR.

a. —— —— Absconding & not surrendering.]—When bkpt. has absconded & never surrendered, the practice is to adjourn the hearing sine die, when the case comes on for final examination.—Re STEPHENS (1869), 3 I. L. T. Jo. 449.—IR.

b. —— —— Betting losses.]—Where an attorney was adjudicated bkpt. as a bill broker, & he had lost large sums by betting, his examination was adjourned sine die.—Re PARSONS (1862), 14 Ir. Jur. 206.—IR.

(c. 69). In such a case bkpt. might leave the country & perhaps not come within the jurisdiction again. There it would be the duty of the official receiver to examine him before he leaves the country (PHILLIMORE, J).—Re ATHERTON, [1912] 2 K. B. 251; 81 L. J. K. B. 791; 106 L. T. 641; 28 T. L. R. 339; 56 Sol. Jo. 446; 19 Mans. 126.

5506. —— To day fixed with liberty to apply for earlier day — Notices of such earlier day to all creditors.] — Where the public examination of bkpt. has been adjourned to a day fixed, with liberty to apply for an earlier day upon payment of a sum named, & bkpt. applies for & has an earlier day appointed upon which to pass his public examination, the notices required by 1870 Rules, r. 111, must be given to each creditor.—Re WOODHOUSE, Ex p. HEAVEY (1883), 48 L. T. 912.

5507. Order concluding examination—Declaration must be previously sworn.]—It is a necessary preliminary to an order that bkpt. do pass his public examination that he should have sworn the required declaration.—Re ANGERSTEIN, Ex p. SMITH (1872), 7 Ch. App. 662; 41 L. J. Bcy. 44; 27 L. T. 330; 20 W. R. 851, L. JJ.

5508. —— ——.]—The order concluding the public examination will not be drawn up until debtor has sworn the necessary declaration.—Re RIGG (1891), 7 T. L. R. 423.

5509. —— Adjourned first meeting of creditors not concluded.]—If the first meeting of creditors has been adjourned, the public examination cannot be concluded until the adjourned first meeting has been concluded.—Re WILLIAMS (1884), 1 Morr. 16.

See 1914 Act, s. 15 (9).

5510. —— Form of—Should not be conditional.] —The ct. has no power to make an order that bkpt. do pass his public examination conditional on his doing certain acts.—Re ANGERSTEIN, Ex p. SMITH (1872), 7 Ch. App. 662; 41 L. J. Bcy. 44; 27 L. T. 330; 20 W. R. 851, L. JJ.

5511. Contract to suppress evidence—Against policy of bankruptcy laws.]—A promise made by a friend of bkpt. that, in consideration that the assignees & comrs. would forbear to examine him touching certain sums which he was charged with having received & not accounted for, he would pay such sums as bkpt. had received & not accounted for is void, as being against the policy of the bkpcy. laws.—NEROT v. WALLACE (1789), 3 Term Rep. 17; 100 E. R. 432.

5512. —— Whether money paid thereunder recoverable—Contract partly performed.]—Defts. were solrs. to petitioning creditor in certain bkpcy. proceedings, & had incurred costs which were to be paid out of the estate. Pltf., a friend of bkpt., offered to pay to defts. a sum of money for these costs, which had not been paid owing to want of assets, on their undertaking not to appear at the public examination of bkpt. Defts., with the consent of their client, agreed to this, & received the money. They did not appear at the public examination of bkpt., &, before any application for his discharge had been made, pltf. brought an action to recover back the money from defts.:—Held: though the contract was illegal, the partial performance of it prevented pltf. from recovering back the money paid under it.—KEARLEY v. THOMSON (1890), 24 Q. B. D. 742; 59 L. J. Q. B. 288; 63 L. T. 150; 54 J. P. 804; 38 W. R. 614; 6 T. L. R. 267, C. A.

c. —— —— Failure to keep proper accounts.]—Regular accounts not kept, & the entire accounts not satisfactory:—Held: evidence that a true disclosure had not been made, & examination adjourned sine die.—Re LYSTER (1863), 15 Ir. Jur. 176.—IR.

d. —— —— Failure to disclose property.]—Under 12 & 13 Vict. c. 107, s. 56, the comrs. will close the examination of bkpt. & disqualify him from applying for a certificate, if it appear to them that there is any reason to doubt the truth or fulness of the discovery he has made of his dealings.—Re FURLONG & SHIELDS (1850), 2 Ir. Jur. 266.—IR.

f. —— —— Forgery — False entries in books—Credit obtained by fraud.]—Where bkpt. is charged with forgery, & with making false entries in his books, & obtaining credit by false representations, his examination will be adjourned sine die.—Re M'NEVIN (1864), 16 Ir. Jur. 197 (B).—IR.

g. —— —— Issuing fictitious bills of exchange.]—Where bkpt. had systematically issued bills of exchange with fictitious names thereon, the ct. postponed the final examination sine die.—Re KEON (1860), 10 I. Ch. R. 111; 12 Ir. Jur. 107.—IR.

h. —— —— Manufacturing accommodation bills.]—Where a trader's books had been accurately kept, & he had accounted fairly & vouched his sched., but he had carried on a system of manufacturing accommodation bills, the ct. adjourned the examination sine die.—Re ASKEN MORRISON (1865), 17 Ir. Jur. 197.—IR.

j. —— —— Removal of property —Under collusive agreement with creditor —Non-production of books.]—Where bkpt. comes up for final examination, & evidence is given that he made a collusive arrangement with one creditor to enable him to obtain a judgment & execution, under which all his property was sold, the other creditors getting nothing, the ct. will not pass the final examination, & where evidence was given that property had been removed, which was positively denied by bkpt., the ct. adjourned the examination sine die, bkpt. producing no books to prove the truth of the case he submitted to the ct.—Re STEWART (1867), 1 I. R. Eq. 223; 1 I. L. T. Jo. 281.—IR.

k. —— —— —— Pending arrangement—No books kept.]—A trader petitioned under the arrangement clauses, & upon untrue statements obtained protection for person & property. Pending the arrangement, he disposed of his property, & kept no books. On adjournment into bkpcy. the final examination was adjourned sine die.—Re KELLY (1862), 14 Ir. Jur. 122.—IR.

l. —— —— Reckless trading.]—Where a trader's books had been accurately kept, & he had accounted fairly & vouched his sched., but he had traded recklessly, the ct. adjourned the examination sine die.—Re ASKEN MORRISON (1865), 17 Ir. Jur. 197.—IR.

m. —— —— ——.]—The final examination of bkpt., whose case presented a disastrous course of trading, was adjourned sine die.—Re O'DWYER (1874), 8 I. L. T. Jo. 401.—IR.

n. —— —— —— Credit obtained by fraud.]—Where bkpt. had traded recklessly, by means of accommodation bills, & had got extensive credit by representations that he was solvent, & that the bills were for value, the ct. adjourned his final examination sine die, upon the state of facts disclosed by his sched.—Re LOCKHART (1860), 11 I. Ch. R. 68.—IR.

p. —— —— Unfounded criminal charge put forward—Absence of books.]—Where bkpt. put forward an unfounded & impudent imputation of forgery, & kept no books, the passing of his final examination was suspended for four months.—Re DEVLIN (1867), 1 I. L. T. Jo. 634.—IR.

r. —— To enable committed debtor to be released from custody.]—A., a bkpt., was committed to prison for unsatisfactory answering with respect to the removal of property by himself & his shop assistants, & failing to discover or disclose a portion of such property:—Held: bkpt.'s final examination should be postponed, & bkpt. discharged from custody to enable him to make such inquiries as might lead to the discovery of the missing property.—Re CUMMINS (1871), 5 I. L. T. 85.—IR.

s. —— On debtor's undertaking to assist trustee to realise estate.]—The final examination was allowed to be passed upon a distinct undertaking by bkpts. that they would assist the assignees in every way in winding up the matter & realising the outstanding state.—Re SPOTTEN & CO. (1876), 10 I. L. T. Jo. 402.—IR.

t. —— Application by debtor for —When granted—Debts contracted before full age.]—The final examination of bkpt. was adjourned on his application, it being stated that the debts, in respect of which the adjudication took place, had been contracted when the bkpt. was an infant.—Re DOHERTY (1877), 11 I. L. T. Jo. 41.—IR.

5513. Offer of bribe to suppress evidence—Contempt of court.]—It is a contempt of ct. to offer money to bkpt., to induce him at his public examination to suppress evidence which, although capable of satisfactory explanation, would be liable to misconstruction, & which might damage a limited liability co., of which the offerer is a director.—Re HOOLEY, RUCKER'S CASE (1898), 79 L. 5516. Court fees—When payable.]—Held: the ct. fee payable in respect of public sittings held in any bkpcy. before Oct. 12, 1861, when 1861 Act came into operation, was due immediately upon the sitting being held, & the mere fact of the taxation being deferred till after that date made no difference.—ANON. (1861), 5 L. T. 367.

SECT. 4.—PRIVATE EXAMINATION OF DEBTOR AND OTHER PERSONS.

SUB-SECT. 1.—SUMMONS FOR EXAMINATION.

5517. Jurisdiction of court—1869 Act, s. 96—To order examination of trustee in bankruptcy.]—The ct. has power under the above Act, to order the examination of the trustee in bkpcy.—Re TAYLOR, Ex p. CROSSLEY (1872), L. R. 13 Eq. 409; 41 L. J. Bcy. 35; 20 W. R. 400.

5518. —— —— To order examination of stranger to bankruptcy — Irrespective of utility of examination.] — The trustee in a liquidation sought to impeach a transaction entered into by the liquidating debtor with F., on the ground that it was a fraud upon the creditors, & issued a summons for the private examination of F., under 1869 Act, s. 96:—Held: the ct. had jurisdiction to order the examination for the purpose of discovery, irrespective of any consideration as to whether the ct. would entertain subsequent proceedings arising out of such examination.—Re LEWTAS, Ex p. ECKERSLEY (1883), 48 L. T. 832.

5519. —— Limited to places abroad within jurisdiction of Crown.] — The power of the ct. to make an order for the private examination of witnesses is limited as to places abroad within the jurisdiction of the British Crown.—Re DRUCKER, Ex p. BASDEN, [1902] 2 K. B. 210; 71 L. J. K. B. 688; 86 L. T. 692; 50 W. R. 592; 46 Sol. Jo. 570; 9 Mans. 241.

v. —— Grounds of application treated as settled by previous proceedings.]—In the course of bkpcy. proceedings, in consequence of what had happened in the early stages thereof, the official assignee filed a charge to which were filed several discharges, & when same came on for hearing, on May 5, 1905, the matter was settled on the dischargeants undertaking to pay into ct. £150, & observe certain terms contained in a written undertaking, & in a report of the chief registrar, & in a report of the official assignee, the matter, so far as realisation was concerned, was treated as having been settled. When the matter came before the ct. on the final examination, it was contended by the official assignee that, notwithstanding what occurred in May, 1905, the ct. should take into consideration the general conduct of bkpt., & as that was unsatisfactory the final examination should be adjourned, with a view to making further inquiries with respect to bkpt.'s property:—Held: the ct. was precluded from going into earlier transactions, & there was no sufficient reason for adjourning the final examination.—Re HESKIN (BANKRUPT) (1908), 42 I. L. T. 161.—IR.

w. —— Reopening examination — On debtor's return from abroad.]—Where bkpt. in 1810, after he had surrendered himself, but before he had passed his final examination absconded, & did not return until 1828, he was allowed, on petition, the Attorney-General not opposing it, at his own peril & the peril of all consequences, to call a meeting of the comrs., & also to tender himself for further examination.—Ex p. MULLAY (1828), 3 Mol. 70; 2 Ir. L. Rec. 1st Ser. 209.—IR.

x. —— —— ——.]—Application by bkpt., after an absence of eight years in America, for liberty to surrender himself to the commission, & pass his final examination, refused, petitioner not having used due diligence since his return, in communicating with his assignee, or seeking personal interviews with his creditors.—Re WYSE, Ex p. WYSE (1841), 3 I. Eq. R. 361.—IR.

y. —— —— After committal for giving unsatisfactory answers.]—A bkpt., on examination before the comr., gave such unsatisfactory evidence that his examination was adjourned sine die. On petition, stating that his state of mind while undergoing examination was such as to impair his intellect, that he had not wilfully omitted or concealed any evidence, that he aided the assignee to make his estate available, &, if allowed, would give such explanations, & make such amendments in the evidence, as would satisfy the comr., & cause him to close bkpt.'s final examination, the assignees not opposing, the Lord Chancellor directed the re-examination to proceed.—Re WALL, Ex p. WALL (1851), 3 Ir. Jur. 137.—IR.

a. Order concluding examination—Previous mistake in schedule—Explanatory affidavit by trustee necessary.]—Where a final examination had been adjourned sine die & an order was thereafter obtained that the examination might be reopened, on the ground of mistake in the sched., a wrong explanation being there given of matters since cleared up to the satisfaction of both the official & creditors' assignee, the ct. refused to pass the final examination without an affidavit from the creditors' assignee explaining the grounds of the change in his opinion.—Re DODD (1859), 9 I. Ch. R. 191.—IR.

PART XIX. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 1.

a. Jurisdiction of court — Acting in aid of another court.]—The Victorian Insolvency Ct. requested the New South Wales Bkpcy. Ct. to act in aid & be auxiliary to the Victorian Ct., for the purpose of examining certain persons with a view to discovering assets belonging to the estate of insolvent:—Held: the registrar had power & jurisdiction to issue a summons, calling upon the witnesses to submit to examination in pursuance of such request.—Re NALL (1899), 20 N. S. W. B. 25.—AUS.

5519 i. —— To order examination outside jurisdiction.]—No order can be made under Queen's Bench Act, 1895, r. 733, for the examination out of the jurisdiction of an officer of a judgment debtor corporation for discovery of assets, etc., & it is doubtful whether, under r. 732, an individual judgment debtor, who is resident abroad, can be so examined, unless he comes within the jurisdiction.—GREY v. MANITOBA & NORTH WESTERN RY. 5526. —— —— On making out primâ facie case.]—Where a person is entitled to stand as a creditor of debtor whose estate is being wound-up in liquidation, he is entitled to have an order for the examination of debtor under 1869 Act, s. 96, on making out a primâ facie case for such examination.—Re RUSSELL, Ex p. SWIFT (1872), 26 L. T. 226, C. A.

Annotation:—Extd. Re Wright, Ex p. Willey (1883), 23 Ch. D. 118, C. A. In Ex p. Swift there was a question of examining the debtor; I take it you could always examine the debtor (JESSEL, M.R.).

5527. —— —— —— Trustee declining to examine.]—Where the trustee declines to examine, & a creditor applies to the ct. for leave to summon witnesses for examination as to a bkpt., his trade dealings or property, the creditor is bound to show a primâ facie probability that some benefit will result to the estate or to the creditors from the proposed examination.—Re WILLSON, Ex p. NICHOLSON (1880), 14 Ch. D. 243; 49 L. J. Bcy. 68; 43 L. T. 266; 28 W. R. 936, C. A.

5528. —— —— Not set out in list of creditors—Property sold to bankrupt's brother at price sufficient to pay listed creditors.]—The trustee sold bkpt.'s property to bkpt.'s brother, for sufficient to pay in full all the creditors whose debts were set out in the statement of affairs. A creditor, whose debt was not so set out, applied for an examination of the trustee, bkpt. & his brother as to the sale:—Held: the creditor was entitled to apply for the examination.—Re WHICHER, Ex p. STEVENS (1888), 5 Morr. 173, D. 5529. Service of notice of application—For examination of trustee.]—Where application is made under 1883 Act, s. 27, for the examination of a trustee in bkpcy.:—Semble: notice of such application should be served on the trustee.—Re WHICHER, Ex p. STEVENS (1888), 5 Morr. 173, D. C.

5530. Who may oppose application—For examination of witness—Trustee.]—The trustee in bkpcy. has no interest in a creditor's application for leave to summon witnesses, except for the purpose of saying whether he is willing to conduct the examination himself:—Semble: he ought not to file affidavits in opposition to the application.—Re WILLSON, Ex p. NICHOLSON (1880), 14 Ch. D. 243; 49 L. J. Bcy. 68; 43 L. T. 266; 28 W. R. 936, C. A.

5520 i. Discretion of court—Estate not likely to benefit.]—The ct., which has a discretion under Insolvency Act (32 of 1916), s. 130, should only grant a commission to examine witnesses where it appears likely that the estate will benefit as a result thereof.—WOLPERT BROTHERS TRUSTEE v. MAISETS (1917), W. L. D. 136.—S. AF.

5521 i. In what cases—Assignment for benefit of creditors.]—The making of an assignment for the benefit of creditors under R. S. O. 1897 (c. 147), does not deprive a judgment creditor of the assignor of his right to examine him, although it may in some cases furnish a reason why an order for such examination should not be made.—MCEACHERN v. GORDON (1899), 18 P. R. 459.—CAN.

5524 i. At whose instance—Creditor—On making out primâ facie case—Trustee declining to examine.]—When the official assignee makes or supports an application to examine witnesses under Indian Insolvency Act, s. 36, such an application should be readily granted. When it is made by any other person, the grounds of the application should be carefully sifted, & the ct. should satisfy itself that the inquiry will probably lead to some benefit to the creditors or estate, & is not merely made to harass & annoy the persons proposed to be examined.

A. became insolvent in 1866 & fled out of the jurisdiction. In Aug., 1866, a person, alleging himself to be a creditor of insolvent's estate, obtained an order, directing the examination of insolvent's son & daughter, R. & L., with a view to the discovery of certain property of insolvent which might be made available for the creditors. R. & L. alleged that A.'s application was the result of a family quarrel, & was made merely from motives of ill-will. The order for examination was supported by the C. Bank, which was admittedly a bonâ fide creditor:—Held: the official assignee not supporting the application, & the affidavits showing feeling & bias, the ct. would have hesitated to admit the application for the order, if it stood alone, but the fact that the C. Bank supported the application, altered the case, & the examination ought to be allowed, which should not be conducted by A., & the C. Bank should apply to the official assignee to conduct the inquiry, & if he declined to do so, the bank should do it.—Re ALLADINBHOY HUBIBHOY, Ex p. RAHMUBHOY HUBIBHOY (1886), I. L. R. 11 Bom. 61.—IND.

d. Who may be examined & in respect of what matters—Insolvent—In regard to claim in action by insolvent's father.]—Pltf., the father of an insolvent trader, sued the assignee for the benefit of the creditors, claiming a declaration of right to rank on the estate for a large sum. The assignee was instructed by the creditors to resist the claim & had himself no personal knowledge of it, & could find no entry of it in the books or papers of the insolvent. In such circumstances an order for the examination of insolvent by deft., for the purposes of discovery before the trial, was affirmed.—MURRAY v. WARNER (1886), 11 P. R. 440.—CAN.

Sect. 4.—Private examination of debtor and other persons: Sub-sect. 1.]

5531. Who may be summoned & in respect of what matters—Creditor—To prove act of bankruptcy.]—Persons who had refused obedience to the warrant of the comrs., upon the ground that they were creditors & incompetent as witnesses, were ordered to attend to prove an act of bkpcy., & the fact that a party was a creditor, was not a preliminary objection to his being examined, inasmuch as the result of the examination might establish that he was not a creditor.—Re GOOLDIE (1815), 2 Rose, 330.

5532. —— Executors of bankrupt's father—In regard to bankrupt's interest in partnership.]—Testator directed his exors. to carry on his business, & gave his son when he attained twenty-one a fourth share, on performing certain conditions. The son entered into the business shortly before he was twenty-one, & after he became of age became bkpt. He had never claimed his fourth share or performed the conditions:—Held: his assignees had a right to examine the exors. of the will as to affairs of the partnership, & to inquire as to the value of bkpt.'s interest:—Re MARKS, Ex p. MARKS (1832), 1 Deac. & Ch. 499; 1 L. J. Bcy. 111, Ct. of R.

5533. —— Former partner having possession of books—In regard to dealings of bankrupt.]—In 1811 A. & B. entered into partnership, which was dissolved in 1818, & wound up except as to some outstanding debts. In 1820 a deed of release was executed, excluding these debts. The books were allowed to remain in A.'s hands, & all the outstanding debts were subsequently settled. In 1830 B. became bkpt., between 1820 & which time he had never called for the books:—Held: A. & B. continued tenants in common of them, & length of time & absence of charge of fraud in settled account notwithstanding, the comr. had jurisdiction to call A. & examine him relative to former dealings of bkpt.—Re MARTINDALE, Ex p. TRUEMAN (1832), 1 Deac. & Ch. 464, Ct. of R.

5534. —— Creditors having bankrupt's property in possession—As trustees under deed of arrangement.]—The ct., on the application of petitioning creditor in bkpcy., before the choice, will sanction the examination of two creditors having property of bkpt. in their possession, notwithstanding that they are trustees under a deed of arrangement.—Re ATKINS (1862), 7 L. T. 171.

5535. —— Personal representative of mortgagee—In regard to his claim to prove.]—Debtor became bkpt. in 1872, & his assets were found sufficient to pay in full all creditors who had proved, & to leave a considerable surplus, but no dividend had been paid. In Nov., 1875, G., the personal representative of a mtgee. who had obtained in 1869 an absolute order for foreclosure, came in to prove for £21,000, the balance of the mtge. debt, after deducting the estimated value of the property. If this proof had been admitted, the assets would not have been sufficient to pay the creditors in full. The trustees, with the sanction of the committee of inspection, made an arrangement with G. to admit the proof at £20,000 on the terms that he was to receive nothing till the other creditors had received 18*s.* in the pound, after which he was to receive 18*s.* in the pound, & after this all the creditors, including G., were to rank pari passu. Bkpt. applied for an order to have a private sitting appointed for the examination of G.:—Held: in the peculiar circumstances of the case bkpt. ought to have an opportunity of investigating the claim, & an order ought to be made for the examination of G.—Re AUSTIN, Ex p. AUSTIN (1876), 4 Ch. 5537. —— Creditor under default judgment—In regard to debt on which judgment founded.]—The registrar refused to issue a summons for the examination under 1883 Act, s. 27, of a creditor upon a judgment obtained by default. Debtor alleged nothing was due, but that on the contrary the creditor was indebted to the estate, & other creditors objected to the proof:—Held: the trustee was entitled to know on what the creditor's supposed judgment by default was based, & an order for the examination of the creditor should be made.—Re MOYCE, [1917] 1 K. 5538. —— Defendant in action by trustee.]—Where an action has been commenced by the trustee in bkpcy. against a person who is a stranger to the bkpcy. with respect to property alleged to be part of bkpt.'s estate, the ct. will not, in the absence of special circumstances, allow the trustee to examine such person under 1883 Act, s. 27, with the view of obtaining information in relation to the matter in dispute beyond such discovery as can be obtained under the ordinary procedure of the High Ct. Circumstances in which the ct. directed that the examination should be postponed, for the trustee to give the witness notice in writing of the admissions of fact desired, on the answers to which would depend whether the ct. would direct the examination to proceed.—Re FRANKS, Ex p. GITTINS, [1892] 1 Q. 5539. —— Respondent to motion for injunction by trustee—Exceptional circumstances.]—As a general rule the trustee will not be allowed to launch a motion & then examine resp. under 1883 Act, s. 27, to elicit facts in support of his case.

A trustee, to obtain an interim injunction, was compelled to serve a notice of motion upon resp. :—Held : the circumstances were exceptional & the hearing of the motion adjourned to enable the trustee to examine resp. under s. 27.—Re AARONS (1914), 111 L. T. 411 ; 58 Sol. Jo. 581.

5542. Grounds for refusal of order for examination—That bankrupt knows as much as witness—That witness arbitrator in contract to be inquired into.]—The ct. will not refuse to issue a summons for the attendance of a witness for examination by the trustee under 1883 Act, s. 27, either upon the ground that bkpt. knows as much about the matters to be inquired into as the witness, or upon the ground that the witness is the arbitrator under a contract entered into by bkpt. as to which the trustee wishes to make inquiries.—Re MACDONALD, DEAKIN & JONES, Ex p. TRUSTEE (1914), 58 Sol. Jo. 798, D. C.

5543. —— No evidence that creditor able to give information.]—A receiving order having been made against a debtor, a scheme of arrangement was submitted & accepted, the receiving order was rescinded, & the official receiver became the trustee under the scheme. A proof was lodged by a creditor, who was the holder of certain bills of exchange drawn upon & accepted by debtor & indorsed to a third person who transferred them for value to the creditor. On the application of the official receiver under 1914 Act, s. 25 (1), an order was made by a county ct. for the examination of the creditor. There was no evidence that he was capable of giving any information respecting debtor, his dealings or property :—Held : an order for his examination could not properly be made under the sect.—Re A DEBTOR (No. 3 OF 1909), Ex p. GOLDSTEIN, [1917] 1 K. a. —— Defendant in action by insolvent.]—B. filed a suit against C., D., & I. C. & D. filed their written statements, but I. did not file his written statement or his affidavit of documents. On July 28, 1897, B. was adjudicated an insolvent. On Oct. 4, H., a creditor, obtained an order for the examination of C., D., & I. with reference to the estate & effects of B. : Held : (1) C. & D. ought not to be prejudiced in their defence in the suit brought against them by insolvent by being subjected to an examination until that case was heard, & by filing their written statements & giving inspection of documents, they had given all the information they could be required to give until the hearing should take place; (2) as to I., an order for examination should be confirmed, he not having filed any defence in the civil suit nor given inspection.—Re BHAGWANDAS NAROTAMDAS (1897), I. PART XIX. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.

5560 i. Questions put to witnesses—Refusal of court to restrain—How objection to questions should be raised.]—The proper mode for a person brought before the comrs. to be examined, if the question does not relate to the matter of the bkpcy., is to demur, & not to apply to the Ct. of Ch. by petition to restrain the comrs. from putting such questions.—Re COPPERTHWAITE (1809), 2 Mol. 443.—IR.

dealings, estate & effects, of bkpt., & incidentally to this power they may examine him also respecting other individuals, through whom they may be likely to obtain information on those points. A witness was asked questions as to when & where he last saw bkpt.'s wife :—Held : such questions were legal & material.—Re EHRENSTROM, Ex p. VOGEL (1818), 2 B. & Ald. 219 ; 106 E. R. 347.

5564. —— To whom goods sold—Purchaser from debtor at under value.]—Where bkpt. has sold goods to a party for a price considerably lower than what he gave for them, the purchaser, when summoned before the comr. for examination, is bound to answer the question " to whom did you subsequently sell these goods," for it materially concerns the estate of bkpt. to ascertain whether the sale by him was bonâ fide.—Re FALK (1832), 2 Deac. & Ch. 415, Ct. of R.

5565. —— Incriminating questions.]—A mere witness summoned for examination as to the property of bkpt., is entitled to refuse to answer a question on the ground that his answer would tend to criminate himself.—Re FIRTH, Ex p. SCHOFIELD (1877), 6 Ch. 5566. —— —— Satisfaction of court as to danger.]—Where a witness at a private examination objects to answer questions on the ground that his answers may tend to criminate him, the mere statement of his own belief that they may do so is not sufficient to excuse him. To entitle him to silence, the ct. must be satisfied, from the circumstances of the case & the nature of the evidence which the witness is called to give, that there is reasonable ground to apprehend danger from his being compelled to answer. If it is apparent that the witness is in danger, great latitude must be allowed him in judging for himself of the effect of his answer to any particular question ; but, subject to this reservation, the ct. will insist on a witness answering, unless it is satisfied that his doing so will tend to place him in peril.—Re REYNOLDS, Ex p. REYNOLDS (1882), 20 Ch. 5567. —— —— ——.]—A witness, at a private examination cannot refuse to answer an innocent question, merely because he alleges a belief that his answer may incriminate him. He must satisfy the ct. that there is a reasonable probability of its so doing.—Re GENESE, Ex p. GILBERT (1886), 3 Morr. 223, C. A.

5568. —— Solicitor as witness—First transaction in which he acted for debtor.]—At a private examination of the solr. to debtor the ct. allowed the following question to be put : " Which was the first transaction in which you acted for debtor in connection with the P. Club ? " The solr. declined to answer such question on the ground that to do so would be to disclose communications made by his client to him for the purpose of obtaining his professional advice :—Held : the question was not one in respect of which any privilege could attach, & the solr. was bound to answer it.—Re WELLS, Ex p. TRUSTEE (1892), 9 Morr. 116.

5569. —— —— Client's address.]—A solr. examined as a witness is not protected from disclosing the residence of his client by the mere circumstance that it became known to him only in his character of solr. To be entitled to claim such a protection the client's residence must have been made known to him in professional confidence for the purpose of obtaining professional advice.—Re CATHCART, Ex p. CAMPBELL (1870), 5 Ch. 5570. —— —— ——.]—Debtor departed from his dwelling-house & took with him all his furniture. He had an interview with his solr., who was unaware that an act of bkpcy. had been committed, in order to obtain his advice. The solr.'s clerk was examined as a witness, & declined to disclose debtor's address, on the ground " that it had been communicated confidentially to him, as debtor's solr., for the purpose of advising his client in reference to these proceedings, & that such address had not been, so far as he believed, communicated by debtor to the rest of the world " : —Held : the address was in the circumstances a privileged communication, & as such need not be disclosed.—Re ARNOTT, Ex p. CHIEF OFFICIAL RECEIVER (1888), 60 L. 5571. —— Objections to—How taken.]—If objection be made to a question put to a witness at a private examination, the proper course is for the witness to retire until the propriety of putting the question is discussed & settled.

Any question which may be considered necessary during the examination, by way of explanation, should at the end of the examination be submitted to the ct. which will exercise its discretion upon the point.—Re TOWSEY, Ex p. ASSIGNEES (1863), 9 L. T. 613.

5573. Cross-examination of witness—Right to cross-examine.]—When a witness is summoned for examination concerning debtor's dealings or property, the judge is not bound to accept at once as conclusive the denial of the witness that he has dealt with such property, but the witness may be further questioned in order to test his credibility.—Re SCHARRER, Ex p. TILLY (1888), 20 Q. 5576. Evidence of witness—Value of—Answers suggested by counsel.]—Where the answers of a witness examined at a private sitting are put in evidence the ct. will look carefully to see whether the language used in answer to the questions is suggested by the counsel & merely re-echoed by the witness, or whether it is the language of the witness in order to express his own idea; & when the ct. finds that the language of the answer has been put into the mouth of the witness by reason of the form of the question, it will take this into account in considering the value to be placed upon such answer.—Re TILLETT, Ex p. HARPER (1890), 7 Morr. 286.

5577. —— Depositions—Should be filed as "proceeding"—Cannot be taken off file at instance of debtor.]—Every step taken in a bkpcy. for the purpose of enabling the ct. to come to a final determination ought to be placed on the file. Depositions, taken at a private examination, are a proceeding of the ct. within 1886 Rules, r. 12, & should be placed on the file, & will not be taken off on the application of bkpt.—Re BEALL, Ex p. BEALL, [1894] 2 Q. See 1915 Rules, r. 154.

5599. Who may be compelled to produce documents—Trustee of jointress.]—The Bkpcy. Ct. will not compel the trustee of a jointress to produce the title deeds, but the deed of settlement must be produced. If the assignees seek discovery beyond the deed of settlement, they must confirm her jointure.—Re REAY (1847), 8 L. T. O. S. 476.

5600. —— Servant—Not having possession of books.]—On the hearing of a petition for adjudication of bkpcy., a clerk of the persons against whom the adjudication was prayed, who stated that he had no possession of their books :—Held : not bound to produce them.—Re LEIGHTON & BENETT (1866), 1 Ch. 5601. —— —— Having no authority to produce documents.]—A witness, the manager of a branch business, & in whose possession were certain documents relating to dealings that had taken place between debtor & his master, was ordered to attend & produce on subpœna the documents. The witness had no authority to produce the documents, & refused to do so :—Held : as the witness was a mere servant & had no authority to produce, he could not be ordered to do so.—Re HIGGS, Ex p. LEICESTER (1892), 66 L. T. 296 ; 40 W. R. 432.

See 1914 Act, s. 25 (1).

5602. What documents—Books of dissolved partnership.]—In 1811 A. & B. entered into partnership, which was dissolved in 1818, & wound up except as to some outstanding debts. In 1820 a deed of release was executed, excluding these debts. The books were allowed to remain in A.'s hands, & all the outstanding debts were subsequently settled. In 1830 B. became bkpt., till which time he had never called for the books :—Held : A. & B. continued tenants in common of them, & length of time & absence of charge of fraud in settled account notwithstanding, the comr. had jurisdiction to call A. & examine the books relative to former dealings of bkpt.—Re MARTINDALE, Ex p. TRUEMAN (1832), 1 Deac. & Ch. 464, Ct. of R.

5603. —— Mortgage on bankrupt's property.]—A creditor of debtor, who had executed a registered deed, containing a covenant to pay the debts by instalments, summoned another creditor to be examined, & called upon him to produce a mtge. deed which he held on part of debtor's property :—Held : production ought to be ordered. —Re MARKS' TRUST DEED (1866), 1 Ch. 5604. —— Mortgage, deed of transfer, deed of assignment.]—From the examination of a person summoned for examination under 1869 Act, s. 96, at the instance of the trustee of a bkpt., it appeared that a policy of insurance on the life of bkpt.'s wife which had been effected by her before her marriage with bkpt., & which had been after the marriage assigned by the husband & wife to trustees, on trust for the wife for her separate use, had after the bkpcy. been assigned by way of mtge. by a deed to which bkpt. & his wife were parties, that the mtge. had been afterwards transferred to the witness, & that the wife had subsequently executed a deed assigning the equity of redemption to him : —Held : the witness must produce the mtge. deed, the deed of transfer, & the deed of assignment. —Re THORP, Ex p. TATTON (1881), 17 Ch. D. 512 ; 50 L. J. Ch. 792 ; 45 L. T. 89, C. A.

5605. Refusal to produce documents—Whether justified—Document held by solicitor.]—The solr. of a creditor refused to produce a mtge. deed executed by bkpt. before bkpcy. in favour of his client, on the ground that he held it as solr. A warrant of commitment was issued, but was, by consent, suspended pending the decision of the ct. :—Held : the order restraining the execution of the warrant must be discharged.—Re WHITE, Ex p. CALDECOTT (1830), Mont. 55, L. 5607. Petition to restrain production of documents—Dismissed as premature.]—Where a mtgee. of bkpt.'s property, who was summoned to attend before the comrs., petitioned that they might be restrained from requiring the production of the mtge. deed, the petition was dismissed with costs, as being premature.—Re WHITE, Ex p. BEESTON (1829), 1 Mont. & M. 244.

5608. Discovery of land—Defendant purchaser for value—Without notice of act of bankruptcy.]—A bill was exhibited by bkpt.'s assignee against deft. to discover lands, etc., which were bkpt.'s at the time of his breaking. A plea, that deft. was a purchaser for full & valuable consideration, & at the time of purchase had no notice of the bkpcy. or of any act of bkpcy., was allowed.—ANON. 5598 i. At what time—After rule for allowance—Filing fresh interrogatories.]—After a rule for allowance, pltf. cannot file fresh interrogatories & suspend the payment, although he hear of property supposed to have been made away, of which when filing the first interrogatories he had no knowledge.—HYDE v. BARNHART (1829), 1 Dra. 54.—CAN.

5599 i. Who may be compelled to produce documents—Third party.]—The comrs. cannot make a third party produce his books.—Re COPPERTHWAITE (1809), 2 Mol. 443.—IR.

5604 i. What documents—Deed of assignment.]—Held : the ct. would not, on petition, make a person, who had taken from bkpt. an assignment, which he admitted before the comrs. was in his possession, & that at the time of taking it he knew his situation, produce it to the assignees to take advantage of it.—Re USHER (1817), 2 Mol. 444.—IR.

SECT. 6.—POSSESSION OF DOCUMENTS PRODUCED.

5609. Power of court—To retain deed produced to facilitate proceedings.]—The ct. has no power to retain a deed, which has been produced by a witness merely out of courtesy & to facilitate proceedings.

P., a witness, having a lien upon a deed, was asked by the ct. to produce it. The deed was, upon its production, impounded by the ct.:—Held: the ct. had no power to retain the deed, even though it might be fraudulent.—Re TILL, Ex p. PARSONS (1871), 19 W. R. 325.

5610. —— To order documents to be delivered to official receiver.]—Neither a registrar, nor a county ct. judge, has jurisdiction to order a witness, summoned under 1883 Act, s. 27, to hand over documents to the official receiver, acting as trustee, to be retained by him out of the jurisdiction of the ct. The official receiver is not the deputy of the judge, & his custody is not the custody of the ct.—Re ASH (1913), 110 L. T. 48; 21 Mans. 15, D. C.

5611. Order to redeliver to party producing—Irrespective of title to same.]—A party, on his examination before the comrs., was compelled by them to produce a book, which was lawfully in his possession, & which, on being produced, the assignees laid their hands on & refused to return. The ct., without entering into the question, as to who had the legal title to the book, ordered it to be delivered up to the party who had the lawful possession of it, when it was produced before the comrs.—Re MALACHY, Ex p. GILBARD (1838), 3 Deac. 488; 8 L. J. Bcy. 17, Ct. of R.

5612. Order to impound deed discharged—Costs against assignees.]—A party bought land, etc., of a trader, & afterwards the trader was adjudicated bkpt. A person holding the purchase-deed for the purchaser, was summoned, after the adjudication, under 1849 Act, s. 120, before a county ct. judge, to produce the deed. The judge ordered it to be impounded, & the property to be delivered up to the assignees to be sold for the benefit of the creditors:—Held: the order must be discharged, the judge having no jurisdiction to make it, & the assignees directed to pay the costs. —Re ATTWATER, Ex p. COLE (1862), as reported in 32 L. J. Bcy. 11; 7 L. T. 406; 9 Jur. N. S. 33; 11 W. R. 127, L. C.

SECT. 7.—COMMITTAL.

5614. —— County court judge sitting in bankruptcy.]—A county ct. judge sitting in bkpcy. has power to commit a person to prison for contempt for disobedience to an order directing him to attend before the ct. & give information in respect of a bkpt.'s estate.—R. v. SURREY COUNTY COURT JUDGE (1884), 13 Q. B. D. 963; sub nom. R. v. CROYDON COUNTY COURT JUDGE, 53 L. J. Q. B. 545; 51 L. T. 102; 33 W. R. 68, C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. Re Bassett's Plaster Co., [1894] 2 Q. B. 96.

5615. —— Subdivision court—Necessity for court to take examination—Sufficiency of the examination.]—It is not competent for the subdivision ct. to commit a person who is brought before them, for not answering to the satisfaction of the comrs., under 1 & 2 Will. 4, c. 56, s. 7, unless they take the examination themselves; & asking the party if he abided by his former answers, will not be sufficient.—Re VENABLES, Ex p. BARDWELL, (1834), 1 Mont. & A. 193; Coop. temp. Brough. 440; 3 L. 5618. Necessity for reasonable time between service of summons & date on which appearance required—Question for jury.]—Held: in order to justify the comrs. in issuing their warrant for the apprehension of a witness to whom they had directed a summons under 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 33, it was necessary that a reasonable time should intervene between the service of the summons & the time when the witness was thereby required to attend, & the question, whether the service of the summons was in that respect reasonable or not was a question of fact to be submitted to a jury.—GROOCOCK v. COOPER (1828), 8 B. & C. 211; 108 E. R. 1022; sub nom. GROCOCK v. COOPER, 2 Man. & Ry. K. B. 78; 1 Man. & Ry. M. C. 302; 6 L. J. O. S. K. B. 265.

5619. Notice of application for committal—How time computed.]—Held: in computing the three days' notice of a motion to commit required by 1870 Rules, r. 176, Sundays must not be reckoned.

PART XIX. SECT. 7.

c. Jurisdiction—Insolvent court.]—The Insolvent Ct. has power to commit a witness for refusing to be examined, or refusing to answer certain questions, & it is not necessary in an action of trespass against the person executing the warrant, for deft. to show that the testimony required was such as the ct. had power to require.—WALSH v. JORDAN (1825), Sm. & Bat. 433.—IR.

d. —— —— Subpœna improperly issued.]—A witness, who had received a subpœna, but who had not been summoned under Act No. 1102, s. 135, to give evidence in an examination in proceedings in an insolvent's estate, refused to produce certain documents directed by the judge to be produced, & was committed for contempt:—Held: as the subpœna was improperly issued the Ct. of Insolvency had, in the circumstances, no jurisdiction to make such an order for commitment.—Re ELLISON (1893), 19 V. L. R. 548.—AUS.

5614 i. —— County court judge.]—A county ct. judge made an order committing a person for unsatisfactory answers upon his examination as an insolvent debtor under R. S. O. 1897 (c. 147), s. 34:—Held: there was no jurisdiction to make such order.—Re ROCHON (1899), 31 O. R. 122.—CAN.

e. Object of committal—To obtain better answers—Not to punish witness.]—The power of committal given by 1859 Act, s. 385, is not to be exercised for the purpose of punishing a witness, but with a view to obtaining more satisfactory answers to questions, so as to enable the assignees to realise the property of bkpt.—Re CONWAY (1912), 46 I. 5621. Who may be committed—Member of Parliament.]—On a motion to commit a member of Parliament for refusing to submit to examination touching a bkpt.'s affairs:—Held: the member was protected by his privilege, as the order for committal sought would be not punitive in its nature, but a civil process to enforce obedience to the order of the ct.—Re ARMSTRONG, Ex p. LINDSAY, [1892] 1 Q. B. 327; 65 L. T. 464; 40 W. R. 159; 7 T. L. R. 749; 17 Cox, C. C. 349; 8 Morr. 271.

See 1914 Act, s. 22 (4).

5623. —— ——.]—A person was summoned to appear before comrs. & bring with him a deed. He was not able to produce it, but attended at the appointed time & was then told that it was no use to come without the deed, but that the comrs. would hear what he had to say later. He then went away:—Held: a warrant by the comrs. under which he was arrested two days later was regular.—WRIGHT v. MAUDE (1842), 10 M. & W. 527; 2 Dowl. N. S. 517; 12 L. J. Ex. 22; 7 J. 5624. —— —— Oath that they contained nothing concerning bankrupt.]—A witness was examined before the registrar, & produced certain letters torn from a letter-book in his possession, but refused to produce the book itself, as he swore it contained no letters relating to debtor, his dealings or his property, other than those produced. On an application to commit:—Held: the witness's answer must be accepted, as the object of 1883 Act, s. 27 (1), was not to enable a trustee by cross-examination to make out a case.—Re PURVIS, Ex p. ROOKE (1887), 56 L. Annotation:—Expld. Re Scharrer, Ex p. Tilly (1888), 20 Q. B. D. 518, C. A. CAVE, J., tells me that he never intended to say that the judge was bound to accept the witness's first answer, or that he could not be cross-examined & sifted to the end; he merely meant to say that at the end of the witness's examination his answer must be accepted, that is, witnesses cannot be called to contradict him (LORD ESHER, M.R.).

See, also, Nos. 5559, 5596, ante.

5625. —— Failure to answer questions satisfactorily.]—Bkpt. can be committed to prison for not answering satisfactorily questions put to him by the comrs. under 1849 Act, s. 260.—Ex p. BRADBURY (1853), 14 C. B. 15; 23 L. J. C. P. 25; 18 Jur. 189; 2 C. L. R. 585; 139 E. R. 7.

5626. —— —— Whether commissioners bound to commit.]—If comrs. think that bkpt. has not answered satisfactorily upon his examination, they are bound to commit him. Bkpt. must answer every lawful question, &, although he is not bound to criminate himself, yet, if he refuses to account for any part of his effects, his refusal subjects him to a commitment.—Re OLIVER, Ex p. OLIVER (1813), 2 Ves. & B. 244; 1 Rose, 407; 35 E. The validity of the bkpcy. proceedings was disputed by debtor, on the ground that the debt was not one in respect of

£3,924, leaving, on the assumption that the goods disposed of only realised cost prices, a deficiency of £2,788. In his evidence bkpt. attributed the deficiency to the cutting of prices & to dishonesty on the part of employees, & a statement was presented purporting to account otherwise for £1,000 of the deficiency. The ct. considered the explanation of bkpt. insufficient, & ordered him to be committed to prison for unsatisfactory answering : —Held : there was evidence to justify the order of the ct.—Re CONWAY (1912), 46 I. 5629 vi. —— —— ——.]—An order committing bkpt. & his wife to prison for unsatisfactory answering was made, on the grounds that their evidence as a whole was characterised by fencing & shuffling & a desire to avoid giving any definite answers if possible, & that it was plainly not candid :—Held : the ct. was entitled to form the opinion that it was false & unsatisfactory & justified in coming to the conclusion that a committal might induce the witnesses to make a full, true, & candid statement.—HOLLINSHEAD v. M'LOUGHLIN, [1917] 2 I. 5640. —— Alleged insufficiency of statement of affairs—Prosecution under Debtors Act, 1869 (c. 62), necessary.]—On comparing certain of bkpt.'s property with the inventory, under which such property had been originally purchased by bkpt., it was discovered by the trustee in bkpcy. that articles & plant of the alleged value of between £200 & £300 were wanting, & an order was in consequence obtained requiring bkpt. to file a proper goods, cash & deficiency account for the six months immediately preceding his bkpcy. An account was filed by bkpt., who denied that he had disposed of any of the goods, but the account was alleged by the trustee to be insufficient ; & application was made to commit bkpt. for contempt by reason of his non-compliance with the order of the ct. :—Held : the ct. could not allow its powers to be used in such a case to obtain the committal of bkpt. to prison under colour of his not having filed a proper account, & if the trustee was of opinion that the statement of bkpt. that he had not disposed of the goods was untrue, the proper course was to institute a prosecution under Debtors Act, 1869.—Re DAVIS, Ex p. TURNPENNY (1892), 9 Morr. 278.

5641. —— Refusal to disclose secret process.]—Bkpt., at his public examination, when questioned by the official receiver as to a secret process or invention which he had sold to a co., refused to disclose it or to write down the formula of it for the official receiver or for the trustee in bkpcy., on the ground that it was not " property " within 1914 Act, s. 15. The registrar, being of opinion that bkpt. ought to disclose the secret process, reported bkpt.'s refusal to the judge :—Held : bkpt. undertaking to give all information at a private examination under s. 25, the hearing on the report should be adjourned until after the private examination.—Re STEVENSON, [1918–19] B. & C. 5644. —— That business in regard to which account refused did not belong to bankrupt.]—At the public examination of an undischarged bkpt. he was questioned about a business which it was alleged he had, since the date of the receiving order, been carrying on under a name not his own. He asserted that the business was not his but his wife's, & that he only acted as her clerk. The registrar did not believe bkpt.'s statements, & on the application of the official receiver ordered bkpt. to file an account of his dealings in the business in question :—Held : if an application were made to the ct. to commit bkpt. for disobedience to the order, it would still be open to him to prove that the business belonged to his wife.—Re CRONMIRE, Ex p. CRONMIRE, [1894] 2 Q. 5645. —— That no notice to produce documents served on him had been given—Evidence of service.]—Debtor was adjudicated bkpt., & affidavits of service on him of the receiving order & order to attend the first meeting of creditors & of various letters from the official receiver were read at the hearing in support of a motion to commit, but bkpt., who did not appear and was not represented on the hearing of the motion, had not been served with notice to produce. On a motion to commit bkpt. for failure to attend the first meeting of creditors or to wait on the official receiver as required by 1914 Act, s. 22 :—Held : notice must be given to bkpt. to produce the documents served on him in connection with the application.

A commitment, after reciting that bkpt. had surrendered, & that the comrs. examined him touching his trade, etc., & caused such examination to be reduced into writing, & read over to him, to which examination bkpt. did refuse to sign his name (not having a reasonable objection to the wording thereof or otherwise), required the gaoler to detain bkpt. in custody until such time as he should submit himself, & full answer make to the satisfaction of the comrs. to all such questions as should be put to him, & sign & subscribe such examination as aforesaid :—Held : the commitment was void.—Ex p. LEAKE (1829), 9 B. & C. 234 ; 109 E. 5664. —— Questions before single commissioner on previous examination—Description of court.]—A warrant of commitment of bkpt. to prison, for not answering satisfactorily the questions put to him by a subdivision ct., need not set out the answers given before a single comr. on his previous examination, & if it state on the face of it that it is made by three comrs. of the Ct. of Bkpcy., "constituting a subdivision ct.," it is sufficient, & it need not show that the ct. was duly summoned, or in what manner it was constituted.—Re MARTIN (1847), 4 Dow. & L. 768 ; 2 Saund. & C. 33 ; 16 L. J. Q. B. 286 ; 9 L. T. O. S. 107 ; 11 Jur. 369 ; subsequent proceedings, 16 L. J. Bcy. 6.

5665. —— Reference to unsworn affidavit.]—A warrant issued by the Ct. of Bkpcy. under 1869 Act, s. 86, for the arrest of debtor, against whom a petition in bkpcy. had been presented on the ground that it had been made to appear to the satisfaction of the ct. that he had concealed or was about to conceal his books, stated a number of affidavits upon which the opinion of the ct. was founded. One of the affidavits did not appear to have been sworn :—Held : the warrant was bad, & must be set aside.—Re HEYMANN, Ex p. HEYMANN (1872), 7 Ch. App. 488 ; 26 L. T. 339 ; 20 W. R. 457, L. JJ.

5666. Amendment of warrant—Error in date.]—A warrant of committal of bkpt. was by mistake dated Mar. 2 instead of Feb. 2 :—Held : this was not such an error as could be amended.—Re M'GEE, Ex p. M'GEE (1821), 6 Madd. 206 ; 56 E. R. 1070.

5667. Alteration of warrant—To enable officer to detain witness.]—Held : the form of warrant ought to be altered, so as to enable an officer, who arrests a witness in order to bring him up for examination, 5662 i. —— Unsatisfactory answers not precisely stated.]—A committal for unsatisfactory answers is sufficient, which states that bkpt. was "duly" sworn, though it is to answer "all" questions, & not limited in the words of the Act to questions respecting his trade, etc., & does not state that the examination was taken in writing, or specify what particular answers are unsatisfactory, the warrant setting out an examination, on the face of it, proper, & answers which on the whole are "unsatisfactory," & which for this purpose need not be necessarily false.—Re HICKEY (1847), 10 I. Eq. R. 432.—IR.

5662. ii. —— ——.]—K. was committed under a warrant from the Ct. of Bkpcy., entitled in the matter of O., a bkpt., which recited that K., being present in the ct. on a day mentioned in the warrant, was required to submit to be duly sworn & examined, pursuant to the statute, & that K., having been sworn, then & there refused to answer a lawful question put to him by the ct., to wit, the question—"Do you remember being in the Mall House, Youghal, on Nov. 16 last,' but not further setting out or incorporating K.'s examination or deposition. A document was filed in the bkpcy. matter, purporting to be a shorthand-writer's note of K.'s examination on the date mentioned in the warrant, comprising the question set out in the warrant, & certain other questions which K. appeared to have answered, but that was not signed by K. :—Held : even assuming that the question set out in the warrant was in fact material & relevant, the warrant was bad.—Re KELLER (1887), 22 L. R. Ir. 158.—IR.

n. —— Need not state that questions were put by judge.]—It is not necessary that the warrant committing bkpt. for unsatisfactory answering should state that the questions were put by the judge, or that such should have been the fact. The words, "by & before me," at the commencement of the deposition are sufficient.—Re COURTNEY (1861), 11 I. Ch. R. 410.—IR.

o. —— Binding on application for relief.]—Where bkpt. has been committed for giving unsatisfactory answers to a disposition of his property, an affidavit containing additional statements of bkpt. is not admissible on an application to the Ct. of Queen's Bench to discharge bkpt. from custody, as the party is bound by the warrant.—Re CAULFIELD (1843), 5 I. to detain him in prison for such a reasonable period as may be necessary to ensure his attendance at the examination.—Re WEINBERG, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER (1907), 96 L. T. 790; 51 Sol. Jo. 388; 14 Mans. 277.

5668. Stay of proceedings on warrant—Pending appeal.]—Where application was made, pending appeal, for a stay of proceedings on a warrant granted by a county ct., to a Divisional Ct., of which the judge to whom bkpcy. business was assigned was not a member:—Held: (1) such judge not being a member of such Divisional Ct. it had no jurisdiction to hear & decide upon the application; (2) on application subsequently made to a Divisional Ct. sitting in bkpcy., a stay of proceedings should be granted.—Re MOON (1886), 3 Morr. 74, D. C.

5669. Execution of warrant—What amounts to.]—Comrs. make a warrant for the commitment of bkpt. for refusing to be examined, bkpt. being already confined to the King's Bench under previous process:—Semble: the issuing of the warrant by the comrs. did not amount to an imprisonment by them, till the warrant was in some way operative to the detention of the party independently of the other process, but if the warrant operated to the confinement of the party within narrower bounds, it was an imprisonment by the comrs.—CROWLEY v. IMPEY (1817), 2 Stark. 261.

5671. —— When complete.]—Held: a warrant for the arrest of a person issued under 1883 & 1890 Acts was not completely executed until the person was lodged in the prison named in the warrant.—Re CROPLEY, Ex p. FOX, [1911] 2 K. B. 309; 80 L. J. K. B. 822; 104 L. T. 720; 27 T. L. R. 391; 18 Mans. 119.

5672. In what prison debtor detained.]—An insolvent prisoner in the Queen's Prison was ordered to file his sched. under Judgments Act, 1838 (c. 110), s. 36, by an order made before the passing of 11 & 12 Vict. c. 7. After the passing of that Act the insolvent was removed to a ward in the first class of the prison, pursuant to the directions of s. 2, as a debtor neglecting or refusing to file a sched. of his property when ordered to do so by the Insolvent Ct., under Judgments Act, 1838, s. 36. A petition by the prisoner, under 32 Geo. 2, c. 28, s. 11, to be removed from the first class into the general prison, on the ground that 11 & 12 Vict. c. 7, applied only to cases where the order to file the sched. had been made previous to the passing of the Act, was dismissed, with costs.—STEAD v. ANDERSON (1850), 9 C. B. 262; 1 L. M. & P. 109; 19 L. J. C. P. 264; 137 E. R. 894.

5673. Application for relief—When granted.]—Where bkpt. had been committed by the comrs., for not answering satisfactorily, & was desirous of being examined before them again:—Held: in the special circumstances of the case, viz., that bkpt. had been lying in prison twelve months, & was in a state of perfect destitution, he should be brought up, at the expense of the estate.—Re CROSSLEY, Ex p. CROSSLEY (1838), 3 Deac. 492; 8 L. J. Bcy. 26.

5674. When relief granted—Hearing of application.]—If comrs. think that bkpt. has not answered satisfactorily upon his examination, they are bound to commit him; but he may be discharged, either upon his answering satisfactorily to them at a subsequent time, or upon his answer already given, being deemed satisfactory by such other jurisdiction as he shall be brought before by writ of habeas corpus.

Upon a question of discharge from commitment by comrs., the Lord Chancellor will not go out of the return to the writ of habeas corpus into the conduct of bkpt. under the bkpcy. or into any examination other than that stated in the return to the writ.—Re OLIVER, Ex p. OLIVER (1813), 2 Ves. & B. 244; 1 Rose, 407; 35 E. 5675. Effect of proceeding on invalid warrant—Liability in trespass of solicitor.]—If attorneys conducting the business of a fiat in bkpcy. take out a summons to attend before a comr. under 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 33, which is disobeyed, & they afterwards obtain a warrant of the comr. to arrest & bring before him for examination the party so summoned, which warrant proves invalid, the attorneys are not liable in trespass, if they have taken no steps in the execution of the warrant except ordering it to be prepared by an agent, who, when it was ready, gave the messenger notice to take it, although the attorneys, in applying for the warrant, used urgency, & being told by the comr. that they must take it at their peril said they would do so.—COOPER v. HARDING (1845), 7 Q. q. Appeal—From order refusing relief.]—Insolvent was committed for disobedience of an order by a county judge to produce certain books & papers. Afterwards he applied for his discharge, on the ground that he had complied with the order, but the county judge made an order refusing the application, & insolvent appealed to a judge in chambers at Toronto:—Held: (1) the judge at Toronto had no right to inquire into the legality or propriety of the warrant for arrest, or as to the nature or object of the imprisonment, or whether the warrant was an order, & so an appealable matter; (2) the last order of the county judge was not improperly made.—MCINNES v. DAVIDSON (1867), 4 P. 5678. Whether trustee stands in place of bankrupt—Account stated by trustee.]—A man made a mtge., & after forfeiture for non-payment of the mtge. money he married, & conveyed the equity of redemption to trustees, to the use of himself for life, remainder to his wife for her jointure. Afterwards he became a bkpt., & the comrs. assigned the equity of redemption in trust for the creditors, & the assignees stated an account with the mtgee. The jointress having brought her bill to be relieved against the account, alleging it was not fairly stated, but that the assignees by combination with the mtgee., had allowed more money than was really due on the mtge.:—Held: (1) the assignees stood in the place of the husband, & the account by them stated ought to be as conclusive as if it had been stated with the husband; (2) as pltf. ought to have assigned particular errors in the account, pltf. should have leave to amend her bill.—KNIGHT v. BAMPFEILD (1683), 1 Vern. 179; 1 Eq. 5679. —— Assignment of mortgage term prior to title of dower.]—The question being whether assignees of comrs. of bkpt. took an assignment of a mtge. term prior to the title of dower, it was insisted that creditors & assignees of comrs. of bkpt. stood only in the place of bkpt., & since such an assignment to bkpt. himself or his heir would not protect the estate from title of dower in the hands of the heir, neither would it protect the estate in the hands of the creditors of bkpt. or the assignee of the comrs.:—Held: pltf. should be let into her dower, keeping down the interest of a third part of the mtge.—SQUIRE v. COMPTON (1724), 2 Eq. 5683. —— Bankruptcy of bailee.]—A., by deed, dated Sept. 28, 1845, conveyed goods to B., subject to a proviso that if he should pay B. the sum thereby secured on Mar. 22, 1850, or at such earlier day or time as B. should appoint, by giving A. fourteen days' notice, & should pay interest in the meantime half-yearly, the conveyance should be void, & it was thereby agreed between the parties, that, until default should be made in the payment of the principal sum secured at the time therein specified, or the interest, after fourteen days' notice, it should be lawful for A., his exors. or administrators, to hold & enjoy the chattels. A. continued in possession of the chattels according to the agreement until Dec. 13, 1849, when he became bkpt., & his assignees, defts., on Feb. 19, 1850, sold the whole of the chattels absolutely & not merely bkpt.'s interest in them. No demand had been made on A. by B., or by pltfs., the assignees of B., for the principal money or interest in the meantime :—Held : the sale by the assignees was equivalent to a sale by the bailee himself, & trover would lie by the assignees of the mtgee. against the assignees of the mtgor., for the conversion by the sale of the goods during the term.—FENN v. BITTLESTON (1851), 7 Exch. 152; 21 L. 5709. —— —— Effect of Companies Act, 1862 (c. 89).]—At the time of his bkpcy. A. had shares in a limited co. standing in his name. The certificates were taken in possession by B., the assignee, but no steps were taken by him in respect of the shares, nor was any notice of the bkpcy., which was advertised in the Gazette, given to the co. for five years. In the meantime the shares were transferred by the co. into the name of C., bkpt.'s widow & extrix., & upon a statutory declaration that the original certificates had been lost or mislaid duplicate certificates were delivered to C. in Apr., 1860, pursuant to the articles of association :—Held : the title of D., a registered purchaser of the shares for value from C., prevailed against the assignee in bkpcy., who had taken no step for five years to assert his right.—Re LONDON & PROVINCIAL TELEGRAPH CO. 5724. —— Bound as bankrupt would have been —Altered marriage settlement.]—A trader, before marriage, agreed by parol to settle all his stock on his intended wife, which stock, it appeared afterwards, amounted then to £450 3 per cents., but in the marriage articles it was stated to be £340 stock, & the deed executed after marriage settled the same sum. The mistake, proved & accounted for by the witness who prepared the deed, & by bkpt., to have originated from the latter giving the sum of £340 as the value of the stock in money at that time, & the other setting it down as the amount of the stock itself, was admitted & agreed by bkpt., after his bkpcy. & absconding, to be rectified by the alteration of the sum as it stood in the articles & the deed from £340 stock to £450 stock, which was done, & the instrument re-executed, with the consent of bkpt. & his wife, & the trustees, & the whole stock having been sold out by the bkpt. before his bkpcy., & the amount paid into the hands of the trustees before such alteration, who after the bkpcy. purchased other stock with the money :—Held : however such an alteration might avoid the instruments if done with the consent of the parties interested, yet, inasmuch as one of the parties, the feme covert, to whom no fraud was imputed, was incapable, by such consent, of exonerating the trustees from the performance of the trust, but equity would probably set up again the destroyed instruments in her favour, the trustees, who had received such money under the instruments when they existed, in a valid form, held same subject to the purpose of the trust, & not for the benefit of the bkpt.'s estate, & the assignees could not recover in assumpsit from the trustees the value of the stock originally included in the marriage articles & deed, but only the surplus, which they were entitled to recover at law, the agreement for the settlement of the whole stock not being evidenced by writing before marriage within Stat. One of the estates sold for more than the amount of the mtge. money with which it was charged, the surplus being sufficient to pay the legacies. The proceeds of the other estate were scarcely sufficient to satisfy the mtge. on it :—Held : the outstanding legacies should be charged exclusively on the surplus proceeds of the first estate.

The annuity having fallen into arrear, a bill was filed to raise the arrears & secure the future gales. B. also filed a bill for a sale of the indemnity lands. Part was sold, the annuity & arrears were paid, & the balance of the purchase-money lodged in ct., on which devidends accumulated for many years. After the bkpcy. a sale was made under the distress, by which the landlord's demand was satisfied. The goods sold were not all the goods subject to the distress, but included some subject to the mtge., & some of the goods not included in the mtge. remained unsold:—Held: the principle of marshalling must be applied between the mtgee. & the assignees, & fraud & reputed ownership being out of the question, the assignees & bkpt. were one, & the ordinary course where the first creditor had two funds of debtor, & the second creditor but one must be followed, & the landlord's debt thrown exclusively on the property not subject to the mtge.—Re STEPHENSON, Ex p. STEPHENSON (1847), De G. 586; 17 L. The brokers pledged A.'s securities & their own with their bankers as cover for their current overdraft. On the bkpcy. of the brokers the bank paid themselves by selling A.'s securities, & handed over the surplus securities in their hands to the trustee in bkpcy.:—Held: by analogy to the doctrine of marshalling, A. was entitled to have the surplus securities in the hands of the trustee applied towards satisfaction of the balance due to him from the brokers on the account between them.—Re BURGE, WOODALL & CO., Ex p. SKYRME, [1912] 1 K. Defts. gave a cheque for £600, after which, & before any of the cargo was delivered, one of the firm of H. & Co. committed an act of bkpcy. Defts. thereupon seized the timber, a part of which only had been sawn into sleepers. 5755. —— —— Money in hands of broker.]—A trader indebted to defts., after a secret act of bkpcy. gave them a new bill in lieu of their former claim, & deposited with them policies of insurance made on his account, as collateral security. After notice of a loss upon these policies, the policy broker, at bkpt.'s request, gave his own acceptance to defts., which was afterwards paid, in order to induce them to give up their lien on the policies, after which a commission issued against the trader on the prior act of bkpcy.:—Held: the assignees could not recover from defts. the amount of the broker's acceptance paid to them, which was the money of the broker, & not of bkpt., though the broker, in settling his account with the assignees, retained the amount of the money so paid by him to defts., in order to get the policies out of their hands.—HOVIL v. PACK (1806), 7 East, 164; 3 Smith, K. 5760. —— —— ——.]—Stockbrokers were declared defaulters on the Stock Exchange, & an official assignee was appointed according to the rules of the Stock Exchange. They had deposited with defts. certain securities to secure a loan. The official assignee tendered the amount due in respect of the loan & called on defts. to hand over the securities. They refused on the ground that, having notice of an act of bkpcy. by the stockbrokers, viz. the assignment to the official assignee, within three months, they would not be safe in handing over the securities till the expiration of three months, for if bkpcy. proceedings were taken within that period the title of the trustee would relate back. Afterwards an adjudication was made on the petition :—Held : the solr. having received the money with notice of the act of bkpcy. to which the title of the trustee related back, the payment by him was a wrongful act, & he was liable to repay the money to the trustee, & was not discharged by the payment to his own principal.—Re CHAPMAN, Ex p. EDWARDS (1884), 13 Q. That representation was untrue. Within three months debtor was adjudicated bkpt., & the trustee, on the doctrine of relation back, claimed repayment of the £125 from petitioning creditors, on the ground that it was part of the property of bkpt. :—Held : the trustee had a higher & better title than debtor, & was not estopped by debtor's misrepresentation from enforcing repayment of the money.—Re ASHWELL, Ex p. SALAMAN, [1912] 1 K. 5765. —— —— ——.]—On Feb. 14, 1912, J., against whom a bkpcy. petition had been presented by W. & various judgments had been obtained, requested T., his solr., who had acted for him since Sept., 1911, to oppose the petition & to act for him in the other proceedings then pending. T., who was owed a considerable sum for professional services, declined to act unless debtor provided funds for the purpose, & thereupon J. gave T. a letter authorising the Comrs. of Inland Revenue to pay T. £42 15*s.* 5*d.* then due from them to J. T. immediately took the letter to Somerset House, but the money was not paid over to him till Mar. 20. T. acted for J. from Feb. 14 till May 29, when the retainer was withdrawn, &, by making payments amounting to £38 17*s.* 2*d.* succeeded in getting two adjournments of W.'s petition & of a subsequent petition by K. After May 29 J. employed another solr., &, although W.'s petition was dismissed, a receiving order was made against J. on K.'s petition, & he was subsequently adjudicated bkpt. The trustee applied for an order that T. should pay over to him the £42 15*s.* 5*d.* as being money received by him with notice of an available act of bkpcy. It was admitted that T. had notice of an available act of bkpcy. when he received the letter of authority from J. on Feb. 14 :—Held : the money was paid by debtor to his solr. for the purpose of opposing bkpcy. proceedings & protecting debtor's estate, 5766. —— —— —— Not costs of endeavouring to arrange with creditors.]—The rule laid down in *Re Sinclair, Ex p. The rule only applies to costs which are expended on what is strictly a necessity, & does not cover costs incurred in endeavouring to make arrangements with creditors with a view of preventing bkpcy. proceedings being taken.—Re SPACKMAN, Ex p. FOLEY (1890), 24 Q. After the costs had been incurred, & before delivery of any bill, the solr. & the client settled by oral agreement the amount of the costs at a lump sum, which sum the solr. retained out of the money deposited with him. The client having subsequently become bkpt., his trustee applied for the delivery of a bill of his costs by the solr.:—Held: the retainer of the money by the solr. did not amount to payment under Solrs. The solr. declined to act further, unless he were furnished with money to meet future costs, & debtor placed money in his hands for that purpose. The solr. then called debtor's creditors together, & prepared a deed of assignment, which debtor executed. 5770. —— —— Solicitor becoming personally liable for accountant's fees—Costs of opposing bankruptcy petition.]—A client handed a sum of money to his solr. to be disbursed for legal services or otherwise. The solr. then made himself personally liable to an accountant for his charges for examining the books of the client's firm. After receiving notice that the client had committed an act of bkpcy. the solr. paid the accountant's charges, & also rendered professional services to the client in opposing a bkpcy. petition presented against him. A receiving order having been made, the trustee claimed the amount remaining in the hands of the solr. after deducting his charges up to the date of the receipt of notice of the act of bkpcy.:—Held: the solr. was entitled to retain the amount paid to the accountant subsequently to notice of the act of bkpcy., as he had previously become personally liable for the payment thereof, but he was not entitled to retain the amount of his charges for opposing the bkpcy. petition, & the money, less the accountant's charges, must be paid to the trustee.—Re WHITLOCK & JACKSON, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER (1893), 63 L. The greater part of the charges & expenses were incurred & paid by the solr. after the date of the act of bkpcy. The trustee claimed repayment of the bulk of the money from the solr. as money belonging to bkpt. at that date:—Held: the money was not bkpt.'s but the solr.'s property, having been paid in a lump sum upon terms set out in a written agreement, under which the solr. undertook to render certain services.—Re CHARLWOOD, Ex p. MASTERS, [1894] 1 Q. The solrs. had at the time no knowledge of any act of bkpcy. having been committed by debtors. Subsequently debtors presented their petition, & on bkpcy. ensuing the trustee claimed from the solrs. the return of the money:—Held: the solrs.' authority was determined by the presentation of the bkpcy. petition, &, subject to any claim for costs incurred prior to that date, the solrs. must repay the money to the estate.—Re BEYTS & CRAIG, Ex p. TRUSTEE (1894), 70 L. PART XX. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 2.

5775 i. Act of bankruptcy—Not date of adjudication.]—Where the grantor of an unregistered bill of sale has been adjudged bkpt., the title of the grantee will be defeated, if the goods remained in the apparent possession of the grantor at the time of the committal of an act of bkpcy., though not at the time of the order of adjudication, & the title of the assignees will prevail by reason of the relation back to such act of bkpcy.—MERCHANT BANKING CO. 5775 iii. ——.]—An unregistered bill of sale is void as against the official assignee of the grantor as regards a chattel in the apparent possession of the grantor at the date of the act of bkpcy. to which the bkpcy. of the grantor relates back, although the grantee obtains possession of the chattel before the adjudication & without notice of the act of bkpcy.—SOUTH PACIFIC LOAN & INVESTMENT CO. o. Date of stoppage of payments.]—Refusal to pay, unless followed by a cessation of payment, is not sufficient to establish the ouverture de la faillite under Code de Commerce of France Act, 441; but as a general stoppage of payments necessarily amounts to a refusal at the time, if such stoppage has taken place, the ouverture de la faillite may be carried back to the time of the antecedent refusal.

Where a house in the Mauritius carried on trade in copartnership with one in London, & suspended its payments in consequence of the stoppage of the London house, though not till some time after the arrival of the intelligence of such stoppage, the Judicial Committee:—Held: the date of the ouverture de la faillite should not be carried back to the failure of the London house, but should be fixed only from the period of the actual stoppage of payments in the island.—D'EPINAY v. COCKERELL (1836), 1 Moo. appears in the first instance to be without qualification, & a more unjust law than that, if subject to no modification, can hardly be conceived, for it would result in this, that, within the requisite number of months before a man became a bkpt., every one of his transactions might be ripped up, & persons who had dealt with him in good faith might lose the fruits of their dealings, & forfeit them for the benefit of the creditors. That is not strictly the meaning of the doctrine, because not only do 1869 Act, ss. 12, 16 recognise the rights of creditors holding security, but s. 94 is preceded by these words, "Nothing in this Act contained shall render invalid," & then follows a list of transactions to which invalidity is not to be imputed (BACON, C.J.) —Re CURTOYS, Ex p. PILLERS (1881), 17 Ch. 5782. Bankruptcy proceedings on later act commenced abroad—No relation back to earlier act in England.]—A petition for sequestration against a domiciled Scotsman was preferred on Jan. 26, & a sequestration finally pronounced on Aug. 16. A commission of bkpcy. issued in England on Mar. 15 on an act of bkpcy. committed on Jan. 4: —Held: as the sequestration was applied for before the English commission, & was subsequently awarded, it was to be considered as a sequestration from the first application, & being anterior to the English commission, the sequestration was valid, & could not be overreached by relation to the earlier act of bkpcy.—Re MOWAT, Ex p. GEDDES (1824), 1 Gl. & J. 414, H. 5783. Declaration of insolvency.]—A. obtained goods by purchase from the sheriff under a writ of fi. fa. at his own suit, founded on a warrant of attorney for £600 given to him by S. The writ was put into the sheriff's hands on May 25, 1839, & a bill of sale given to pltf. by the sheriff on June 21, for £600. On May 29 another writ against S. was put into the sheriff's hands, at the suit of M., for £62. A. paid M.'s debt, & the assignment to him was under both writs. A. took possession of the goods, &, on Oct. 5, 1849, B. seized & sold them as a distress for rent due to him from S. S., on Oct. 5, 1849, filed a declaration of insolvency, & thereby committed an act of bkpcy., &, on the 8th, 7 & 8 Vict. c. 96 being then in force, a fiat was awarded against him, founded on that act of bkpcy., under which fiat assignees were appointed. In an action by A. against B. for an irregular & excessive distress of the goods so obtained by him, the defence set up by B. was, that A. had procured the goods by way of fraudulent preference, & that S. caused them to be taken in execution with intent to defeat or delay his creditors, being then indebted to some in a sum sufficient to constitute a good petitioning-creditor's debt, & it was proved, that, on June 14, 1851, which was after the commencement of this action, the assignees under the fiat gave notice to A. that they meant to treat the warrant of attorney, judgment, & execution, as void, & should claim the goods against B., as being wrongfully taken under a distress, & that they also gave notice to B. that they had brought an action against A. to try the validity of the warrant of attorney, & had recovered £230, the value of the goods seized under A.'s writ, & requiring B. to pay to A. the value of the goods distrained, & claiming from B. the damages for the illegal distress, the subject of the action, as the subsequent interference of the assignees had no relation back to the original delivery of the goods to A., so as to avoid the transaction ab initio, A. had an undoubted right of action against B. for the illegal distress.

Under 7 & 8 Vict. c. 96, s. 41, the declaration of insolvency, at all events where the adjudication proceeds upon bkpt.'s application, is the only act of bkpcy. to which there can be a relation (PARKE, B.).—STEVENSON v. NEWNHAM (1853), 13 C. 5784. Debtor's summons—Debt ultimately paid.] —A creditor, on July 21, 1870, served on a non-trader a debtor's summons for a sum exceeding £50. Deft. filed an affidavit denying the debt, & on Aug. 5 obtained the common order that he should give security within seven days, & that on his so doing proceedings should be stayed till the ct., in which proceedings should be taken for recovery of the debt, had come to a decision. On Aug. 12 an order was made by consent giving him a week's further time to complete the security. He never gave the security, & on Feb. 16, 1871, the creditor filed a petition for adjudication, on the ground of neglect to pay, secure, or compound for the debt. Semble: if the debt were ultimately paid, the act of bkpcy. was one to which the title of trustees under an adjudication founded on a subsequent act of bkpcy. would not relate back.—Re WIER, Ex p. WIER (1871), 6 Ch. 5785. —— Money paid into court.]—An alleged debtor having in Nov. committed an act of bkpcy. by non-compliance with a debtor's summons, the summoning creditor presented a bkpcy. petition against him. He disputed the debt & applied to have the petition dismissed, & an order was made adjourning the petition sine die, on the terms of his paying £125 into ct., to abide the result of an action to be brought by the summoning creditor for the alleged debt. The £125 was paid into ct. on Jan. 18, & the action was commenced on Jan. 21. On May 10 debtor was adjudicated a bkpt. on the petition of another creditor. Afterwards judgment was entered in the action for pltf. for the debt claimed & costs:—Held: the title of the trustee did not relate back to the act of bkpcy. committed on the debtor's summons so as to defeat the right of the summoning creditor to the £125, but he was entitled to have the £125 paid out to him.—Re MOOJEN, Ex p. BOUCHARD (1879), 12 Ch. 5786. —— Previous transfer to bogus company.]—A trader, who was liable under a judgment for the costs of an action, purported to sell his business to a co. which he had formed for the purpose in consideration of fully paid up shares & of the co. undertaking to pay his debts. He was the chairman, managing director, & secretary of the co., & he or his nominee held substantially the whole of the shares in it, & he had the complete control of it, including the power to draw cheques, which he exercised in his own favour. Within three months of such transaction a bkpcy. petition was presented against him, grounded on his non-compliance with a bkpcy. notice in respect of the above costs, & a receiving order was made upon it. His liabilities exceeded £2,000, with assets nil. Between the presentation of the petition & the making of the order, a resolution was passed for the voluntary winding up of the co., & a liquidator was appointed. Upon a motion by the trustee against the liquidator impeaching the validity of the transfer of the business :—Held : the transfer was fraudulent & an act of bkpcy., & the title of the trustee to the business related back to the date of the transfer, & overrode the claims of the creditors of the co. in the winding-up, & the liquidator was bound to hand over to the trustee the assets representing the business at the time of the transfer.—Re HIRTH, Ex p. TRUSTEE, [1899] 1 Q. 5787. Execution of bill of sale of whole property —To secure past debt—Followed by execution on debtor's goods.]—On Feb. 8 creditor levied execution upon the goods of his debtor upon a judgment for less than £50. On Feb. 10 the sheriff not having sold, debtor filed a liquidation petition, & a receiver was appointed. Debtor had, on Jan. 16, executed a bill of sale assigning all his property to secure a past debt :—Held : the title of the trustee under the liquidation related back to the execution of the bill of sale, & he was entitled to the goods seized by the execution creditor.—Re EDWARDS, Ex p. EYLES (1873), L. 5788. No relation back to filing of liquidation petition—On adjudication under 1849 Act, s. 223.]—A trader entered into a contract to deliver goods at a stated time at a specified price. He performed part of the contract, but before the time or times for the performance of the remainder he petitioned under 1849 Act, ss. 211 et seq., but no arrangement being effected, he was adjudicated bkpt. on that petition. In the account of debts filed, he inserted a sum as due from him for loss on the unfulfilled parts of the contract. A proof was tendered by the purchaser of the goods, for the amount, less than that specified by bkpt., of the loss by reason of the non-delivery of the goods. 5789. —— ——.]—By the rules of the Stock Exchange, money payable by members of the House to a defaulter was to be paid to assignees appointed by the Exchange, & be distributed ratably amongst the House creditors of the defaulter. L., a trader, & a member of the Stock Exchange, was under engagements with members of the Exchange to pay & receive differences on bargains in the public funds to a large amount on the account day. The day before the account day, he wrote to the secretary that he was unable to meet his engagements, & he was declared a defaulter, & G., one of the assignees of the Exchange, received the amount of the differences payable to L. & distributed it ratably amongst the House creditors. At the time when L. wrote the letter he was indebted to his trade creditors, insolvent, & contemplated bkpcy., but that was unknown to G. till L. was adjudicated a bkpt. under the above sect. At the time of the adjudication G. had distributed most of the money received, but had a small portion still in hand. The assignees of L. sued G. for money had & received :—Held : assuming the letter by L. was a fraudulent preference of his House creditors, & an act of bkpcy. on which an adjudication on the petition of a creditor might have been supported, the adjudication under s. 223 could not relate back to it, & being voidable only & not void, G. was justified in so far as he had acted on it before the adjudication.—NICHOLSON v. GOOCH (1856), 5 E. & B. 999; 25 L. At an adjourned meeting on Aug. 6, pltfs. did not attend, & neither the proposal nor any modification of it was accepted, whereupon the meeting was adjourned to the public ct. & pltfs. were adjudged bkpts. under s. 223. The adjudication was not founded on the petition of a creditor, nor was pltfs.' petition dismissed. On June 26 deft. was indebted to pltfs. On July 6 pltfs. assigned the debt to D. & Co., & gave notice thereof to deft. D. & Co. had at the time of the assignment of the debt to them notice of the petition for arrangement :—Held : where a trader was adjudicated bkpt. under s. 223 without the filing of a petition by a creditor, the bkpcy. had no relation back to any act done by bkpt. prior to the adjudication, & pltfs. were entitled to recover the debt as trustees for D. & Co., notwithstanding the bkpcy.—MONK v. SHARP (1857), 2 H. & N. 540; 27 L. 5791. —— Adjudication under 1869 Act, s. 126.]—Where debtor, who has filed a petition for liquidation by arrangement or composition under 1869 Act, ss. 125, 126, containing a statement of his inability to pay his debts, subsequently makes a composition with his creditors under s. 126, but is eventually adjudged a bkpt. under that sect., the adjudication does not relate back to the act of bkpcy. committed in the filing of the petition, unless such act of bkpcy. has occurred within six months before the presentation of the petition for "adjudication," or, if it is the first of several acts of bkpcy. as defined in s. 6, unless it has been committed within twelve months before the order of adjudication, such act of bkpcy. being, after the expiration of those periods, no longer available for adjudication; & after the expiration of those periods, a disposition of his property by the compounding debtor by way of security to a particular creditor is not rendered void on the ground of any relation back of the title of the trustee on a subsequent adjudication under s. 126 (1).

Debtor, who in 1879 had executed a mtge. & registered bill of sale to a creditor as securities for an existing debt & for a further sum advanced to enable him to prosecute an action which, if successful, would benefit his creditors as well as himself, filed, eight days afterwards, a liquidation petition, & then made a composition with his creditors under s. 126, but, in consequence of his non-payment of the composition, was in 1886 adjudicated bkpt. under that sect.:—Held: the adjudication did not relate back to the filing of the petition so as to give the trustee under the adjudication a title to claim that the securities should be set aside on the ground of fraudulent preference under s. 92. Qu.: whether, if there had been a relation back, the securities would not have been void as constituting a fraudulent preference.

If the adjudication comes within six months, or even twelve months, after the filing of the petition for adjudication containing the statement by debtor, then, under s. 11, the bkpcy. would relate back. But if the interval is greater than that, it would be totally inconsistent with the protection which the Act intends to give to persons dealing with the man who afterwards becomes bkpt., that there should be any such relation back (KAY, J.).—SHARP v. MCHENRY, SHARP v. BROWN (1887), 38 Ch. 5793. Bankruptcy on debtor's petition—No relation back to previous bill of sale.]—R., a trader, under pressure executed a bill of sale, by which he assigned all his property to J., a creditor, & then became bkpt. on his own petition. J. was in possession of the property under the assignment:—Held: as the adjudication was on the trader's own petition, there was no relation back of the assignees' title to the date of the bill of sale.—JONES v. HARBER (1870), L. 5794. —— Petition & adjudication on same day.]—Debtor presented his own petition at 12.50 P.M. He consented to a receiving order & an immediate order of adjudication was made against him. A distress for rent had been levied on his goods on the same day but at an earlier hour:—Held: his bkpcy. commenced at the moment of time when the act of bkpcy. was committed, viz. when he presented his petition, notwithstanding that the order of adjudication, being a judicial act, would otherwise have operated from the earliest hour of the same day.—Re BUMPUS, Ex p. WHITE (1908), 2 K. 5795. Composition proceedings taken in first instance—Relation back to original act.]—The title of a trustee to bkpt.'s property relates back, under 1869 Act, s. 11, to the original act of bkpcy., although composition proceedings were taken in the first instance, which were afterwards superseded by bkpcy. When such a supersession takes place, the title of the trustee is prior to that of a creditor, who has seized & sold debtor's goods, with notice of the original act of bkpcy.—BARRON v. EHLERS, SEEL & CO. (1884), Cab. & El. 432.

5796. Act on which adjudication professedly founded—Adjudication not annulled.]—By virtue of 1869 Act, ss. 10, 11, an adjudication of bkpcy. is, so long as it stands, conclusive as against a third person, e.g., the holder of a bill of sale executed by bkpt., that the act of bkpcy., on which the adjudication was professedly founded, was in fact committed, & that the title of the trustee relates back to that act of bkpcy.—Re FOULDS, Ex p. LEAROYD (1878), 10 Ch. 5797. Only act more than twelve months before adjudication—Within six months of presentation of petition.]—1869 Act, ss. 6 & 11 are perfectly distinct, & an adjudication may be good, if the act of bkpcy. on which it is founded was committed within six months from the presentation of the petition, though the same act of bkpcy. is the only one to which the title of the trustee can relate back, & was committed more than twelve months before the order of adjudication.—Re GREPE, Ex p. GREPE (1881), 50 L. 5798. Sum paid to sheriff by absconding debtor to obtain release—Paid into court by sheriff.]—Deft. was arrested as an absconding debtor, &, in order to get released, paid to the sheriff the money for which he was to be held to bail, together with £10 for costs. The sheriff duly paid same into ct., but deft. was prevented, by reason of his bkpcy. intervening, from paying the additional sum of £10 in lieu of putting in special bail, as required under 7 & 8 Geo. 4, c. 71, s. 2.:—Held: notwithstanding the bkpcy., the creditor was entitled to have the money in ct. paid over to him, together with such sum for costs as should be allowed by the master.—COOKE v. BELL (1863), 2 New Rep. 174; 8 L. 5799. Bail to secure attendance of debtor.]—Debtor was released from prison on payment into ct. of money by two sureties to secure his attendance for examination in bkpcy., but facts were discovered which led to the conclusion that the money was not that of the sureties, but belonged to debtor & was handed to the sureties by debtor or his wife. Debtor had attended for examination, but had since died. By the order directing the payment into ct. the money was to abide the further order of the ct. The trustee having applied for directions with reference to the money:—Held: the money should remain where it was, as the trustee could not in any case be entitled to it, & no right by any principle of law had been made out to it, & it would in due course go into the bkpcy. estates account.—Re GURWICZ, Ex p. TRUSTEE, [1919] 1 K. C. Money in Hands of Official Assignee of Stock Exchange.

5800. Surplus remaining in hands of official assignee—After settlement with Stock Exchange creditors—Arising out of contracts illegal under Gaming Acts.]—L., a member of the Stock Exchange, had entered into contracts with other members of the Stock Exchange for the sale & purchase of consols. The contracts were really to be carried out by payment or receipt of differences, as stocks might rise or fall. Upon the balance of the transactions L. would have had to pay a large sum on the account day. Previous to the account day L. became a defaulter. According to the rules of the Stock Exchange, which were binding upon all its members, the money due to the defaulter from other members of the Stock Exchange upon dealings there was got in by the official assignees of the Exchange & divided ratably among his creditors on the Exchange. Deft., one of the official assignees, collected the money due to L. from the other members of the Exchange upon the before-mentioned contracts, & bonâ fide distributed ratably among L.'s Exchange creditors the whole of such money, except a sum of £138, which remained in his hands at the time when L. was adjudged bkpt. L. was adjudged bkpt. on his own petition, & pltfs. were appointed his assignees. Deft. had no notice of any act of bkpcy. committed by L., until after he was adjudged bkpt. In an action against deft. for money had & received:—Held: the £138 was not part of L.'s personal estate which vested in pltfs. as assignees, since the contracts out of which the money was received were illegal & void by 7 Geo. 2, c. 8, & incapable of being enforced by action, & the money was not paid by those who were indebted on such contracts to deft. as agent of L. & for his benefit, but in order that it might

s. Earliest act available—Prior to act on which adjudication founded.]—Upon an adjudication on the petition of a creditor, the title of the assignees relates back to the earliest act of bkpcy. which could have been availed of by petitioning creditor, although it was not the act of bkpcy. on which the adjudication was founded. Order of the Ct. of Bkpcy. affirmed on appeal, on the ground that the mtges. in question were fraudulent, the Ct. of Appeal expressing no opinion upon the question of the relation back of the title of the assignees.—Re DOMVILE (1878), 1 L. t. —— Within three months of adjudication.]—If the act of bkpcy., upon which a person is adjudicated bkpt., is committed within three months of the date of the order, & prior acts of bkpcy. are subsequently discovered, the bkpcy. relates back to & commences at, the date of the first of such prior acts committed within three months of the date of the order of adjudication.—Re QUARTLEY (1910), 30 N. 5798 i. Sum to obtain release from custody—In suit by creditor.]—Deft. was arrested before judgment & was ordered to be released from custody, on depositing in ct. a sum of money sufficient to meet pltf.'s claim in the suit. There was subsequently an attachment of the money by a decree-holder & an adjudication of deft. as an insolvent:—Held: the money was paid into ct. to the general credit of the action & charged with a lien in favour of pltf. on the latter obtaining a decree in his favour, & the official receiver's claim was subject to such lien.—RAMIAH AIYAR v. GOPALIER (1918), I. L. R. 41 Mad. 1053.—IND.

a. Sum paid as tender.]—Deft. in a suit tendered, & by order of ct. paid into ct. a sum of money. Pltf. did not accept the tender as sufficient, but recovered judgment for a larger amount. After judgment, & while the money was still in ct., deft.'s estate was sequestrated as insolvent:—Held: the money paid into ct. did not pass to the trustees of the insolvent estate, but had vested in, & was at the disposal of pltf. in the action.—DE ROUBAIX'S TRUSTEES v. BREDA'S CURATORS (1876), Buch. 196.—S. 5800 i. Surplus remaining in hands of official assignee—After settlement with Stock Exchange creditors.]—F. & L., both members of the Toronto Stock Exchange, & each being the owner of one seat at the board, assigned to pltf. for the general benefit of creditors. The Toronto Stock Exchange by their bye-laws provided that in case of a member becoming insolvent the Exchange should have power to realise the seats by sale, & the proceeds were to be applied in payment of (1) fines & dues to the Exchange, (2) claims arising out of stock exchange transactions of creditors, being members of the Exchange, & the balance, if any, to paid be to insolvent, or his legal representative. The seats of F. & L. were sold & the proceeds remained in the hands of the Exchange. Certain members of the Stock Exchange claiming to be creditors of F. & L. prior to their insolvency, for debts arising out of stock exchange transactions, filed claims prior to the sale of the seats. Pltf. claimed to be entitled to the seats & to the money arising from their sale under the assignment to him for the benefit of creditors:—Held: pltf. was entitled to payment to him of the balance of the money arising from the sale of the seats after payment of fines & fees due to the Exchange & claims of creditors, members of the Exchange, arising out of stock exchange transactions.—CLARKSON v. TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE (1887), 13 O. 5800 ii. —— After settlement with creditors & deductions authorised by rules.]—The articles of the Stock Exchange of Adelaide provided that on insolvency the member's share might be sold, the proceeds to be applied (inter alia) in paying the purchaser's entrance fee, claims in respect of share dealings with members of the Exchange, who were creditors of the insolvent member, & the balance might be retained by the Exchange, or the whole or part of it might be applied to various objects specified in the articles. It was provided that on winding up the surplus assets were to be distributed among the members. G., a member of the Stock Exchange, was adjudicated insolvent in 1910.

5801. —— —— Profits on customer's speculative account.]—A broker on the Stock Exchange was officially declared a defaulter. The same day the official assignee, under the rules of the Stock Exchange, closed all accounts of the broker then open, & received & paid all amounts owing by or to him on the Stock Exchange, &, after payment of all the Stock Exchange liabilities of the broker, there remained a surplus in the hands of the official assignee. Shortly afterwards the broker was adjudicated bkpt. with large outside liabilities. Part of the surplus above-mentioned comprised money which represented differences, being profits, due on contracts made with jobbers on the Stock Exchange by the broker as agent for an outside customer, who was running a speculative account on the Stock Exchange through him, & which the broker, on the day he became a defaulter, had he been then solvent, would have received for the customer:—Held: the money was merely a book debt of the broker & formed part of his general assets, & passed to his trustee, the remedy of the customer being to prove in the bkpcy. for the amount.—KING v. HUTTON, [1900] 2 Q. 5802. —— —— Balance collected from jobbers—Sum collected from outside debtors.]—W., a broker on the London Stock Exchange, committed an act of bkpcy., & on the following day was declared a defaulter, & in accordance with the rules of the Exchange the official assignee of the Exchange closed all W.'s transactions on that day, which happened to be "ticket" day, & received & paid the debts to & from W. & distributed them in the Stock Exchange liquidation. W. had liabilities outside the Stock Exchange. The official assignee when he collected the money knew of the act of bkpcy. The official assignee had received £1,262 15*s.* 2*d.* due to W. from jobbers on the Exchange, & £117 15*s.* 2*d.* from W.'s outside clients, & he refused to hand those amounts over to the trustee in W.'s bkpcy., but was willing to hand over the amount of the surplus remaining in his hands:—Held: the trustee was not entitled to so much of the £1,262 15*s.* 2*d.* as represented the artificial "making up price" on the "ticket" day, but he was entitled to the balance together with the £117 15*s.* 2*d.*—Re WOODD, Ex p. KING (1900), 82 L. 5803. Bankrupt's bank balance collected by official assignee.]—C., a member of the Stock Exchange, became unable to meet his Stock Exchange engagements, & gave notice thereof to the secretary. He then made his statement at the first meeting of creditors, declaring at that time, that he had no debts outside the Stock Exchange, & his Stock Exchange creditors consented to accept a composition, &, to provide for a part of it, he, at the demand of the official assignees, gave them a cheque for £5,000 then standing to his credit in the Bank of England. The official assignees obtained the money & apportioned it among his Stock Exchange creditors. He afterwards confessed to owing debts to a large amount to outside creditors, & was declared a bkpt. The trustee, on behalf of the general creditors, claimed from the official assignees of the Stock Exchange the £5,000:—Held: he was entitled to claim it, for what was done by C. amounted to a cessio bonorum, & constituted an act of bkpcy.—TOMKINS v. SAFFERY (1877), 3 App. Cas. 213; 47 L. 5804. Funds collected from other members of Stock Exchange.]—By the rules of the London Stock Exchange, when a member was declared a defaulter, the contracts for the sale & purchase of stocks & shares, which had been made by him for the next settling or account day, were closed by the official assignee, appointed by that body, at the market prices of the stocks & shares, the subjects of the contracts, at the time of the default, & those members who, on that footing, owed differences upon their contracts with the defaulter were bound by the rules, on pain of being themselves declared defaulters, to pay those differences to the official assignee. The official assignee was bound by the rules to employ the money so received by him in the first place in paying to those members, to whom, upon the same footing, differences were due upon their contracts with the defaulter, the differences so due to them:—Held: (1) the money so received by the official assignee, being an artificial fund created by the rules of the Stock Exchange, did not form part of the assets of the defaulter, & did not pass to his trustee; (2) even if the payments made to the official assignee of a defaulter ought to have been made to the trustee, yet, as the official assignee claimed them adversely, the trustee could not recover them from him.—Re PLUMBLY, Ex p. GRANT (1880), 13 Ch. 5805. Assets collected by official assignee & paid over to trustee in error—Whether recoverable by official assignee—Failure to register assignment—1887 Act, s. 4, & 1913 Act, s. 37.]—A stockbroker applied to be, & was, annually re-elected a member of the Stock Exchange up to & including the year beginning Mar. 25, 1914. On July 29, 1914, he made a declaration in writing, in the firm name

His share was declared forfeited, & was sold for £450 gross. 5 per cent. commission was paid on the sale, 10 per cent. was applied to the purchaser's entrance fee, & £50 was paid to B., a member of the Stock Exchange, a creditor of G.'s in respect of share dealings. The official receiver of the Ct. of Insolvency as trustee of G.'s estate, demanded, but was refused the proceeds after payment of the entrance fee. He subsequently assigned to pltf. his right of action in respect of the proceeds for £35:—Held: (1) the payment of commission & the deduction of the entrance fee were rightly made, & also the payment of £50 to B.; (2) pltf. was only entitled to a portion of the proceeds, sufficient with the addition of his own purchase-money to satisfy the claims of the creditors & the costs of the insolvency, & the excess was the property of the Stock Exchange, not of insolvent, & so not assignable by the official receiver.—STUART v. STOCK EXCHANGE OF ADELAIDE, LTD., [1914] S. under which he carried on business, of his inability to comply with his bargains, & on the same day he was "hammered," i.e., publicly declared a defaulter, & the official assignee proceeded to collect his assets in accordance with the rules of the Stock Exchange. On Nov. 9, or more than three months after the default, a petition in bkpcy. was presented against debtor, & a receiving order was made thereon. In 1915 the official assignee, mistakenly thinking that the petition had been presented on Oct. 27, 1914, handed over to the trustee £6,869 14*s.* 10*d.*, received since the default. On discovering the mistake the official assignee brought a motion against the trustee to recover the money:—Held: the assignment to the official assignee was not void as a fraud against the policy of the bkpcy. laws, & the money would have been recoverable on the ground of mistake, but the title of the official assignee was ousted, on the ground that the application for re-election on Mar. 25, the rules of the Stock Exchange, & the declaration of July 29 constituted a deed of arrangement in favour of certain creditors within the above Acts, & was void for non-registration.—Re HALSTEAD, Ex p. RICHARDSON, [1917] 1 K. Underwriter at Lloyd's—Deposit on admission—Applicable only to claims on policies.]—An underwriter on admission to Lloyd's made a deposit, & covenanted with trustees that it should be applied in making good any default he might make on any risks he might underwrite. He became bkpt.:—Held: the general creditors had no claim to the deposit, which was applicable only to claims on the policies he had underwritten.—Re HEATHCOTE, Ex p. THE TRUSTEE (1912), Times, July 17th.

E. Other Cases.

5807. Money paid into bank after business hours—On day of stopping payment.]—Money was paid into a bank on Saturday evening after office hours. The bank never again opened for business & both partners were subsequently adjudicated bkpts.:—Held: the money so paid in passed to the assignees of the partners.—Re NASH & NEALE, Ex p. CLUTTON (1850), Fonbl. 167.

5808. Money paid to indemnify bail.]—M. was charged with embezzlement & S. became bail in £100 for M., on receiving from M. £100 to indemnify him against any loss he might sustain by becoming bail:—Held: as the contract to indemnify was illegal, & as no loss having been incurred, the £100 might have been recovered back by M., if he had not been adjudicated a bkpt., the money was recoverable by his trustee.—WILSON v. STRUGNELL (1881), 7 Q. 5809. Money on person of fugitive offender.]—When a fugitive offender, arrested in England on an extradition warrant for offences committed in a foreign State, becomes bkpt. in England pending the hearing of the charge, the property found on him at the date of his arrest vests in his trustee, subject to this, that it may on his committal be ordered to be delivered up with him to be used as evidence of the crime at the trial, &, in such a case, the Secretary of State, in making the extradition order, should stipulate that, when the criminal proceedings in the foreign State are concluded, the property shall be restored to the jurisdiction of the English Bkpcy. In such a case the competent authority in the first instance to decide what property found on prisoner will serve as proof of the crime is the ct. which hears the charge & makes the committal order.—Re BOROVSKY & WEINBAUM, Ex p. SALAMAN, [1902] 2 K. B. told him to take care of himself, & A. lodged the money in a bank, to the credit of the assignees of C. f. Retention money on building contract—Cost to surety completing contract exceeding such money.]—A building contract contained provisions for payment of a percentage of the value of the work done from time to time, the balance to be retained by the building owner & to be claimable by the contractor, part on completion of the work & part three months thereafter. The contractor, after executing a portion of the work, abandoned the contract & became insolvent. Thereupon the surety, who had bound himself as co-principal debtor, completed the building under the original contract, with the consent of the building owner. The cost to the surety of so doing exceeded the amount of the retention money in the hands of the building owner when the contractor threw up the contract:—Held: the retention money did not in the first instance vest in the trustee, but the surety was entitled to be recouped out of it for any loss incurred by him in completing the contract, & as such loss exceeded the amount of the fund, the surety was entitled to the whole of the retention money.—CORRANS v. TRANSVAAL GOVERNMENT (1909), T. 5816. Chance of receiving legacy.]—In one sense, a man may validly dispose of property which is not his; for instance, he may enter into a covenant, for value, to convey to the covenantee every species of property which might thereafter be bequeathed or devised to him by any stranger, & which he had not, at the time of entering into the covenant, any knowledge of or any expectation of receiving. This is not an interest which can pass to the assignees. The chance of receiving a legacy from a relative a man might sell before his bkpcy., but still, if not sold by him, that chance would not pass to his assignees (ROMILLY, M.R.).—JOHNSON v. SMILEY (1853), 17 Beav. 223; 1 Eq. 5819. —— ——.]—A fund stood limited by will, upon trust for a person for life, remainder to all or such one or more of the children or issue of testator's deceased brother A., in such shares & in such manner as the tenant for life should appoint, & in default of appointment to the children of A. equally. F., one of the children of A., assigned all his property to a trustee for his creditors, by a deed, which was duly registered, but F. never obtained an order of discharge. Afterwards the tenant for life appointed the fund by will to the children of A. equally. All the children of A. living at testator's death survived the tenant for life, so that F. took the same share under the appointment as he would have taken in default of appointment :—Held : F.'s interest, in default of appointment, was defeated by the appointment which gave him an interest liable to be defeated by lapse, & which must be considered a new interest, & the share of F. did not pass to the trustee. Qu. : whether an appointment by deed to F. of the same share as he would have taken in default of appointment would not also have given him a new interest.—Re VIZARD'S TRUSTS (1866), 1 Ch. A. became bkpt., obtained his certificate, & died. The suit proceeded, the assignees not interfering, & a decree was pronounced under which costs were awarded to A., & were received by the solr. :—Held : the contingent right to have the amount advanced by him for costs repaid under the agreement, which was a valid agreement, & made upon a sufficient consideration, was an interest in A., which on his bkpcy. passed to his assignees, who were entitled to recover the sum so paid by A. as money received to their use.—MORGAN v. TAYLOR (1859), 5 C. He also settled personal estate, after the death of the survivor of himself & his wife, for the benefit of all the children of the marriage in equal shares. By his will A. gave an annuity of £1,000 a year to C., one of his daughters married at the date of the will, for life, for separate use, with a clause of forfeiture upon assignment or incumbrance of the annuity, & declared that the provision made by his will for his daughter C. should be accepted by her in full for any share or interest she might have in the property comprised in the settlement. In A.'s lifetime C.'s husband became insolvent. At A.'s death there were several children of C.'s marriage. C. electing, her husband concurring, to take the annuity under the will, & to renounce all benefit under the settlement :—Held : (1) the effect of C.'s election upon the share of personalty comprised in the settlement, which was outstanding in trustees, & subject to her equity was to defeat the interest of the assignee of her husband in that fund ; (2) C.'s election could not defeat the interest of the assignee in the real estate comprised in the settlement, & upon her joining with her husband in barring the estate tail, she was bound to give compensation, out of the annuity, to the extent

The husband became bkpt. during his wife's lifetime, & at the date of her death was still undischarged, but he obtained his discharge shortly after, but without informing his trustee of the bequest of the annuity, which was still under the liferent, assuming the second & third conditions contained in his wife's will not to have existed, the annuity vested in bkpt. at the date of testator's death, & was attachable by the creditors in his sequestration.—TRAPPES v. GRAHAM (1871), 10 Macph. 5856. —— Of property partly of bankrupt & partly of wife—Good to extent of wife's fortune.]—A trader on his marriage received a fortune of £5,000 with his wife, & settled a sum of stock in trust for himself for life, with limitations over for the benefit of his wife & children, in the event of his becoming bkpt. or insolvent. It was provided that if he should survive his wife, & the issue of the marriage should fail, & he should then be or should have been a bkpt., fifteen sixty-sixths of the stock should belong to the wife's next of kin in blood. No part of the £5,000 was settled; but 5854 i. In settlement by bankrupt—Of his own property.]—By the marriage settlement of a trader, his bond & the rents of his house were given to trustees, for his wife & children, in the event of his bkpcy.:—Held: void upon such event.—Ex p. OXLEY (1807), 1 Ball & B. 257.—IR.

5854 ii. —— ——.]—G. previous to entering into a partnership trade, executed a bond for £500 to a trustee upon trust, that upon his failure in trade, or bkpcy., the interest should be paid to his wife for her life, with a power of appointment to her. G. & his partner became bkpts.:—Held: the bond was voluntary, & should not be set up against the creditors.—GARDINER v. SHANNON (1804), 2 Sch. & Lef. 228.—IR.

5854 iii. ——.]—A limitation in a settlement, of the settlor's property to himself for life, or until he shall become insolvent, with a provision that it shall go over on his insolvency, is not valid.—CASEY'S TRUSTS (1855), 4 I. Ch. R. 247.—IR.

5854 iv. —— ——.]—Semble: a settlement of the husband's property in consideration of marriage, to secure an annuity for the wife on his bkpcy., or insolvency, is not void at law, upon the event of his insolvency, as against his creditors & assignees in insolvency.—GILL v. MORGAN (1839), Smythe, 60.—IR.

5854 v. —— ——.]—By a marriage settlement, lands belonging to the husband were conveyed to trustees, in trust for the husband until he should be declared a bkpt., or should become an insolvent, or make or enter into any compromise with his creditors, or should take the benefit of Insolvent Act, & after the determination of the trust declared for his benefit, during the joint lives of the husband & wife, in trust to permit the wife to receive same for her sole & separate use & benefit. The husband took the benefit of Insolvent Act:—Held: the ct. had jurisdiction to make a decree declaring the limitation to the separate use of the wife on the husband's insolvency, fraudulent & void, although it might be void at law, & although the legal estate should be in the wife, & not in the trustees.—CLARKE v. CHAMBERS (1857), 8 I. 5854 vi. —— ——.]—C., a trader, previous to his marriage with his second wife, executed a marriage settlement, conveying property to trustees to his own use for life, "or until he should become bkpt. or insolvent within the meaning of any law for the relief of or relating to insolvent debtors or bkpts.," & after the termination in his lifetime of the use declared in his favour by the happening of one of the events above mentioned, to the use of his trustees, upon trusts in favour of his wife for life, for her separate use. There were also subsequent limitations declared in favour "of all & every or such one or more exclusively of the others or other of the child or children or remoter issue of the settlor." C. having become embarrassed in his business transactions, executed an assignment of all his estate to trustees, for the benefit of his creditors:—Held: the limitations both in favour of the wife & of all the children of C., including those of his former marriage, were valid as against his creditors.—WYLD v. CALDWELL (1869), 8 N. 5856 i. —— Of property partly of bankrupt & partly of wife—Good to extent of wife's fortune.]—A trader by settlement on marriage, in consideration of £1,000, the wife's fortune, conveyed his house to trustees to his own use till bkpcy., then, if the wife should be alive, to raise £1,000 for her separate use. On the bkpcy. of the husband:—Held: the trustees would not be restrained by injunction, on the application of the assignees, from proceeding to recover possession of the house, at law, as the property, though strictly the husband's, was in reality the fortune of the wife.—HIGGINSON v. KELLY (1810), 1 Rose, 368; 1 Ball & B. 252.—IR.

5856 ii. ——.]—In contemplation of a marriage, it was agreed that the father of the intended wife should give to M., the intended husband, £200 as a marriage portion, to be applied by M. in the purchase of furniture, which was to be settled on the wife. By an indenture of settlement, reciting that M. was possessed of a house, premises, & furniture, M. assigned same to trustees on trust to permit M. to occupy & enjoy such house & premises so long as he should continue solvent, & upon the bkpcy. of M., to raise, by sale or mtge. of the premises & furniture, £500, & to hold same in trust for the separate use of the intended wife, & of any children of the marriage. The furniture so put in settlement comprised articles purchased by M. partly out of the £200, which was advanced by his father-in-law, & partly out of money belonging to M. M., continuing in possession of the furniture, was adjudged bkpt.:—Held: so much of the furniture as was not purchased out of the marriage portion passed to M.'s assignees, the trusts in the whole of the settled fund was the husband's property, & it did not appear, from any of the expressions in the settlement, what was the consideration for the provision as to fifteen sixty-sixths of the stock:—Held: the limitations over in the event of the bkpcy. of the husband were good to fifteen sixty-sixths of the trust fund, that being the proportion of the trust fund which the wife's fortune would have purchased, but were void as to the remainder.—LESTER v. GARLAND (1832), Mont. 471; 5 Sim. 205; 1 L. 5856 iii. —— —— ——.]—By a settlement of 1856, made on the marriage of C., a trader, with E., after reciting that C. was entitled to leaseholds, & that, in consideration of E.'s fortune of £2,000, he had executed to the trustees his bond with warrant to secure that sum & interest, the leaseholds were conveyed upon trust for C. for life, or until bkpcy., & then for E. for her separate use for life, with further trusts for the issue. It was also provided that the trustees should hold the bond upon trust to enter up judgment thereon immediately after the marriage, &, when so required by E., to enforce payment, &, if necessary, levy the amount out of the real & personal estate of C., & hold the produce upon trusts similar to those declared of the leaseholds, with an ultimate trust in favour of the survivor of C. & E. The trustees levied £950 on the bond, & in 1864 a cause petition to administer the trusts of a will, under which C. derived the leaseholds, was filed against him. A receiver was appointed over the leaseholds & other lands, to which C. was absolutely entitled under the will, & in 1878 there were standing to the credit of the matter £950 Govt. Stock, substantially representing accumulated rents of the leaseholds, & also £1,800 Stock, the proceeds of their sale. C. had become bkpt. The trustees having applied for payment of the two last-mentioned sums, & their claim being opposed by the assignees, it was decided the trusts of the leaseholds in E.'s favour were valid to the extent of her fortune:—Held: the trustees alone were entitled to the accumulated rents, &, during C.'s life, to receive & apply the income of the fund representing the corpus of the leaseholds towards the discharge of his debt to them, & E. was entitled for life to the interest of the amount realised on C.'s bond.—CORR v. CORR (1879), 3 L. 5856 iv. —— —— ——.]—A trader by marriage settlement, dated Feb. 10, 1897, & in consideration of £500 paid to him as his wife's fortune, assigned to trustees the premises in which he resided & carried on business, together with the goodwill of the business, stock-in-trade, & trade debts (including future acquired property), on trust "for & during this life, or until he should become bkpt. or become insolvent in his circumstances, or effect or attempt to effect a composition with his creditors, or do or suffer any act, deed, or thing whereby the property might, if belonging absolutely to him become vested in or payable to any person or persons," & from & after the determination of the trust in his favour upon trust to enter upon & sell the trust property, & out of the proceeds of sale to pay to his wife, if living, £1,000 for her separate use, & to pay the surplus, if any, to him, his exors., administrators & assigns. The settlor also assigned to the trustees a policy of insurance on his own life for £500, upon trust out of the proceeds to pay to his wife, if surviving, the deficiency, if any, in the £1,000 to be paid to her out of the trust property, & to hold the residue in trust for the settlor, his exors., administrators & assigns. The settlor carried on the business on the premises until 1913, when he was declared a person of unsound mind, & his wife was appointed committee of his person & estate, & authorised to carry on the business It was then found that the settlor had become insolvent:—Held: (1) the trust to raise £1,000 for the wife in the event of her husband's insolvency was only valid to the extent of £500, the amount of her fortune paid to him; (2) the claim of the wife to the extent of £500 took priority so far as the settled property was concerned over the general creditors of the husband.—DOHERTY v. POWER, [1916] 1 I. 5887. "Attempt to sell or dispose of"—Taking benefit of Insolvent Act.]—Testator, after giving several annuities, begged it to be understood that if any of his annuitants should attempt to sell or dispose of their interest in his annuities to them (which he wished only for their peculiar & particular benefit), from that moment his bequest to them was to terminate for ever, & the principal & interest of each bequest to revert to his general fund. One of the annuitants petitioned for the benefit of Insolvent Debtors Act, having entered the annuity in his schedule, together with the effect of the clause in the will above-mentioned, &, afterwards, the usual vesting order was made by the Insolvent Debtors Ct.:—Held: his annuity ceased on his presenting the petition.—MARTIN v. MAUGHAM (1844), 14 Sim. 230; 3 L. 5888. "In any manner sell, assign, transfer, incumber or otherwise dispose of or anticipate"—Taking benefit of Insolvent Act.]—Personal estate was bequeathed to A. for life, with a gift over, & a proviso that, if A. should in any manner sell, assign, transfer, incumber, or otherwise dispose of or anticipate his share the bequest for A. should become utterly void, as if same had not been mentioned in the will, or as if A. were dead. A. being in prison for debt, presented a petition for his discharge under Judgments Act, 1838 (c. 110), & thereupon the vesting order was made:—Held: there was a valid limitation over of the share of A.; A.'s taking the benefit of the Insolvent Act was a voluntary alienation of his share & was one of the events on which the limitation over was to take effect, & the interest did not pass to the assignee.

Property cannot be given for life any more than absolutely without the power of alienation being incident to the gift, & although a life interest be expressed to be given, it may be well determined by an apt limitation over.—ROCHFORD v. HACKMAN (1852), 9 Hare, 475; 21 L. 5889. "Make any composition although a commission of bankruptcy should not issue"—Composition on which commission could not have issued.]—Funds belonging to an intended wife were, in 1823, settled on a wife for life, with remainder to the husband for life or until he should be declared bkpt. or "make any composition with his creditors for the payment of his debts, although a commission of bkpcy. should not issue against him." in which events the fund was to be held in trust for the children of the marriage equally. In 1842 his principal creditors agreed to take a composition on their debts secured by bills. The wife died in 1852:—Held: the composition, though made during the wife's life, operated as a forfeiture of the husband's interest.—SHARP v. COSSERAT (1855), 20 Beav. 470; 3 W. R. 473; 52 E. 5890. "In case he shall assign, mortgage, or in any manner anticipate same or attempt or agree to assign"—Offer of legacy as security—Declaration of insolvency—Followed by bankruptcy.]—A testator gave a legacy to his nephew upon his attaining the age of twenty-five, but "in case he shall assign, mortgage, or in any manner anticipate same, or attempt or agree to assign, mortgage, or otherwise anticipate the same," then over. The legatee, being pressed for the payment of a debt, offered to give the legacy as a security; but the creditor being advised that no valid security could be given, nothing further was done in the matter.

The legatee subsequently signed a declaration of insolvency, upon which he was afterwards adjudicated a bkpt.:—Held: the attempt to assign must be such an act as but for the clause would have operated as an effectual assignment, & the bkpcy. must be treated as in invitum, & not within the conditions of forfeiture.—GRAHAM v. LEE (1857), 23 Beav. 388; 26 L. r. Sell, charge, or anticipate his share—Bankruptcy on own petition.]—Testator devised his estate upon trust for all his sons who should attain the age of twenty-one years, as tenants in common, & declared that none of his sons should have power to sell, charge, or anticipate his share, & if he should do so, he should absolutely forfeit all right & title to such share, which should go & be divided between the other sons. One son, before the property was divided, was adjudicated a bkpt. on his own petition:—Held: there was a forfeiture of bkpt.'s share, which passed to the brothers.—OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE v. PARKINSON, [1885] 4 N. 5892. "Shall have acquired bonâ fide interest for valuable consideration"—Bankruptcy abroad—Proviso to forfeiture clause in policy.]—B., a merchant domiciled at Valparaiso, effected an insurance on his life with an insurance co. in London, of which deft. was a director. The policy by a condition indorsed, was to be void if the insured committed suicide, "but, if any third party have acquired a bonâ fide interest therein by assignment or by legal or equitable lien for a valuable consideration, or as security for money, the assurance shall nevertheless, to the extent of such interest, be valid & of full effect." While the policy was in force, B. declared himself bkpt., &, by that act itself, made, according to the law of Valparaiso, a cession of all his property to the ct. before whom the declaration was made, & the property thereupon vested, by operation of law, in the Escribano, or official notary, of the ct. After that B. committed suicide. At a meeting of creditors, after his death, pltfs., who were themselves creditors, were duly appointed assignees to the estate, which thereupon, by operation of law, shifted from the Escribano to them as such assignees. In an action by pltfs., as such assignees, to recover the amount insured by the policy:—Held: pltfs, were not third parties having a bonâ fide interest by assignment or by legal or equitable lien for a valuable consideration, or as security for money, within the exception.—JACKSON v. FORSTER (1859), 1 E. & E. 470; 29 L. 5893. "Be insolvent"—Composition reciting inability to pay debts in full.]—By a marriage settlement, property of the intended wife was settled upon trust for the wife for life, to her separate use with remainder to the husband, "until he should be insolvent," & immediately after his death, or insolvency, then upon trusts for the children.

During the wife's lifetime a deed poll containing a recital that the husband was unable to pay his debts in full was executed by certain persons, creditors of the husband, by which, in consideration of a composition paid to them by the husband, & accepted by them in full satisfaction, they released & discharged him & his lands, etc., & effects, from their debts, & from all actions or claims in respect thereof:—Held: the payment of the composition, & acceptance of the release by the husband, was an insolvency within the meaning of the settlement, & his interest thereupon became forfeited.—Re MUGGERIDGE'S TRUSTS (1860), John. 625; 29 L. 5894. "Become vested in or payable to any other person"—Judgment on warrant of attorney to provisional assignee.]—Testator limited real & personal estate to trustees A. B. for life; with a limitation over in case he should thereafter become bkpt. or insolvent, etc., or if by his act or default the rents, etc., should become vested in or payable to any other person. The tenant for life was insolvent before the date of the will, there was the usual power of attorney, & judgment was entered up by the provisional assignee, but nothing further done, & the tenant for life did not in any manner alienate after the date of the will:—Held: judgment, without more, only operated as an equitable charge, & did not vest the rents in or make them payable to the assignees.—SEYMOUR v. LUCAS (1860), 1 Drew. & Sm. 177; 29 L. He executed a deed of inspectorship, reciting that he was unable to pay his debts in full:—Held: his interest in the fund had thereby determined.—

was not released, nor was the sequestration order annulled. "Do or suffer anything whereby the income would become vested in or payable to some other person"—Bankruptcy—Annulled before claim by assignee.]—Testator devised freeholds to C. for life, with a clause of forfeiture providing that if C. should be declared bkpt., or should assign., charge, or incumber his life interest or any part or parts thereof, or should do or suffer anything whereby same or any part thereof would, through his act or default, or by operation or process of law, or otherwise, if belonging absolutely to him, become vested in or payable to some other person or persons, then & thenceforth the rents to which, but for that provision, he would be entitled, should during the remainder of his life interests from time to time sink into & be added to & form part of testator's general personal estate. In testator's lifetime, C. was adjudicated a bkpt., & had not obtained his order of discharge at testator's death; but no creditors' assignee was ever appointed; & within four months after testator's death, bkpt. applied for & obtained an annulment of the bkpcy. The official assignee had not, during the interval, applied for or obtained possession of the rents, C. himself having been in occupation of the estate:—Held: as bkpt., by his diligence, had obtained an annulment of the bkpcy. before any claim made, or property handed or paid over, the forfeiture contemplated by testator had not occurred.—WHITE v. CHITTY (1863), L. In Oct., 1881, he filed a liquidation petition, & a trustee of his property was appointed, & in 1883, he obtained a discharge. In 1884, the wife died. In 1885, the trustee assigned for value to debtor all the property belonging to him at the commencement of the liquidation & devolving on him subsequently, up to the date of the discharge, other than that which had been already received by the trustee. The liquidation was never formally closed, but the trustee had never made any claim to the income of the settled fund :—Held : as, before the reassignment by the trustee to debtor, income had become due to him, which but for the forfeiture clause, the trustee might have received, the forfeiture had taken effect.—ROBERTSON v. RICHARDSON (1885), 30 Ch. 5906. " Commit an act of bankruptcy or any act whereby the rents should be forfeited to or vested in another "—Adjudged insolvent in colony.]—In 1838 a settlement of real estate in England was made, & thereby the trustees were to pay the rents & profits to S. for life or until he should commit an act of bkpty., or commit any act, or any event should occur, whereby the rents, if settled absolutely upon or in trust for him, should be forfeited to or become vested in any other person whomsoever, & there was a gift over upon the happening of any such event. In 1875 S. was adjudged insolvent in New South Wales, whereby all property of the insolvent " wheresoever the same might be known or found " vested in a comr. :—Held : the property had become forfeited & had gone over to those in remainder.—Re LEVY'S TRUSTS (1885), 30 Ch. 5907. " Or until he should be declared bankrupt or become insolvent "—Debtor's firm liquidated by arrangement.]—Presentation by a firm of a petition for liquidation under 1869 Act, followed by acceptance by the creditors of a composition, operated as a forfeiture of an interest limited in 1862 to the use of A., who was a member of the firm, during his life, " or until he should be declared bkpt., or become an insolvent within the meaning of some Act of Parliament for the relief of insolvent debtors."—NIXON v. VERRY (1885), 29 Ch. 5908. " Assign, charge or otherwise dispose of or should become bankrupt or do or suffer anything, etc."—Filing bankruptcy petition—Signing composition deed.]—A composition deed executed by a debtor who had filed a bkpcy. petition recited that debtor, in accordance with his desire to pay his creditors 20*s.* in the pound had agreed to assign to a trustee all the property set forth in a schedule to the deed. In the operative part of the deed debtor " in pursuance of the said agreement " assigned to the trustee the property set forth in the schedule & all the interest of debtor in the property, " & all other the estate if any " of debtor. A life interest in certain property to which debtor was entitled under the trusts of a post-nuptial settlement was not mentioned in the schedule.

The life interest was subject to a proviso that if debtor should assign, charge, or otherwise dispose of the income, or should become bkpt., " or do or suffer anything whereby the income, if payable to him absolutely, would become vested in any other person," then the trust declared in his favour should cease, & during the remainder of his life the trustees might apply the income for the benefit of his wife & children :—Held : neither the filing of the bkpcy. petition nor the execution of the composition deed worked a forfeiture of debtor's life interest.—Re MOON, Ex p. DAWES (1886), 17 Q. 5909. " Do something " whereby income would by operation of law become vested in or payable to other person—Sequestration in colony—Annulled after income payable to trustee & claim by him.]—A testator gave his residuary real & personal estate to trustees upon trust, to pay one-third of the rents & proceeds to his son until he should die or become bkpt., or assign, charge, or incumber, or attempt to assign charge, or incumber same or any part thereof, or do something whereby same or some part thereof would by operation of law or otherwise if belonging absolutely to him become vested in, or payable to, some other person or persons, with a gift over on the failure or determination of the trust. Shortly before the death of testator insolvency proceedings were instituted against the son in Melbourne where he was living, & trustees of his estate were appointed, who gave notice to the trustees of testator's will to pay over to them any sums in their hands to which bkpt. was entitled. The insolvency proceedings were very shortly afterwards annulled ; the insolvency trustees had not received anything from the trustees of the will :—Held : notwithstanding the annulment of the insolvency proceedings, the clause of forfeiture had taken effect.—Re BROUGHTON, PEAT v. BROUGHTON (1887), 57 L. 5910. " Through his act, default, or operation of law became vested in or payable to some other person "—Receiver appointed by judgment creditor.]

Sect. 4.—"The property of the bankrupt": Sub-sect. 2, D. (b).]

—By a marriage settlement a sum of stock belonging to the intended husband was settled upon trust to pay the income to the husband for life, "or till he shall become a bkpt., or shall assign, charge, or incumber the said income, or shall do or suffer something whereby the same or some part thereof would, through his act, default, or by operation or process of law, if belonging absolutely to him, become vested in or payable to some other person or persons" with a gift over to the wife for her life. A creditor recovered judgment for debt against the husband, & obtained an order, which was made in the presence of the husband, appointing himself receiver of the income due or becoming due upon the stock. The husband was afterwards adjudicated a bkpt. upon a subsequent act of bkpcy.:—Held: the gift over in favour of the wife took effect on the making of the order appointing a receiver in the action.—Re DETMOLD, DETMOLD v. DETMOLD (1889), 40 Ch. 5911. "Alienating, charging, incumbering or disposing of same"—Bankruptcy.]—A testator directed his trustees to pay to his son H., during the life of his wife, a sum of £250 a year, & after her decease to stand possessed of one-fourth of the trust funds to pay the income to H. during his life, & after his death in trust for his children, with a proviso that H. should not have power to alienate, charge, incumber, or dispose of the said income, whether original or accruing, to which he would be entitled after his wife's death; & in the event of his alienating, charging, incumbering, or disposing of the same, or any part thereof, the trustees should cease to pay him either the sum of £250 per annum, or the income of the share, whether original or accruing; & such last-mentioned income should accumulate during the life of H., & the accumulations thereof should be held by the trustees in trust for the person or persons who should be entitled to the share of H. at his decease. H. was adjudicated bkpt.:—Held: the bkpcy. did not operate as a forfeiture, & the trustee in bkpcy. was entitled to the income.—Re HARVEY, Ex p. PIXLEY v. HARVEY (1889), 60 L. T. 710; 37 W. 5912. "Become a bankrupt, or do or suffer something whereby income becomes vested in another"—Sequestration in Scotland—Recalled before trustee appointed.]—H. was entitled under a will to the income of a legacy for his life, or until "he shall become a bkpt. . . . or shall do or suffer something whereby same or some part thereof would, through his act or default, or by operation of law, or otherwise, if belonging absolutely to him, become vested in or payable to some other person or persons." Sequestration of the estate of H. was awarded in Scotland, upon a petition by himself & another, but at the first meeting resolutions for winding up the estate by a deed of arrangement were passed, & no trustee was elected. The sequestration was subsequently recalled. Between the dates of the presentation of the petition & the recall certain dividends & sums of interest payable in respect of the legacy came into the hands of the trustees of that legacy, & were lodged in a bank. According to Scottish law H. was made a bkpt. by the sequestration; but until the election & confirmation of a trustee a sequestered estate did not become vested in another person:—Held: although there was a bkpcy., the right to receive the income had not vested in any other person, & the forfeiture clause did not operate as a defeasance.—Re JAMES, CLUTTERBUCK v. JAMES (1890), 62 L. 5913. "If lessee should become bankrupt"—Bankruptcy of lessee after assignment with consent of landlord.]—A lease of a house for a term of years contained a covenant by the lessee not to assign the premises without the consent in writing of the lessor, "such consent not to be withheld to a respectable & responsible tenant," & a proviso for re-entry if (inter alia) "the lessee, his exors., administrators or assigns should become bkpt." The lessee assigned the lease, with the consent of the lessor, & subsequently to such assignment, became bkpt.:—Held: the proviso for re-entry referred only to the bkpcy. of the person who for the time being was possessed of the term, & consequently no forfeiture had been incurred.—SMITH v. GRONOW, [1891] 2 Q. "Become bankrupt, or do or suffer something whereby it would become payable to be vested in another"—Receiving order made.]—A testator bequeathed the income of his residuary estate to his son during his life, or until he should assign or dispose of the income or some part thereof, "or become bkpt., or do or suffer something whereby the said income if belonging absolutely to him, or some part thereof, would become payable to or vested in some other person." A petition in bkpcy. was filed against the son, & a receiving order made. A meeting of creditors was held & twice adjourned, & nothing further had been done in the matter:—Held: though the income did not vest in the official receiver, it would, by force of the receiving order have become payable to him if it had belonged absolutely to the tenant for life, & the interest of the tenant for life had determined.—Re SARTORIS'S ESTATE, SARTORIS v. SARTORIS, [1892] 1 Ch. 11; 61 L. 5915. "Sell, assign, transfer, mortgage, incumber, or otherwise dispose of or anticipate"—Filing petition.]—A will contained a proviso that in case any of testator's sons should before the decease of the testator & his wife in any manner sell, assign, transfer, mortgage, incumber, or otherwise dispose of or anticipate his expectant share under the will or become bkpt., the trustees should pay the income of the son's share to his wife or widow during her life & after her death should hold the share in trust for his children absolutely. Some of testator's sons had after their father's death but during their mother's lifetime voluntarily filed petitions for liquidation under 1869 Act:—Held: the sons' interests had been disposed of & vested in the official receiver as the result of the voluntary act of the sons in filing their petition.—Re GATES (1895), 39 Sol. 5916. "Be liable to be deprived of beneficial enjoyment"—Act of bankruptcy—Pending petition subsequently dismissed.]—A testatrix gave a life interest to her son, subject to a prior life interest, subject to gift over if he should do anything whereby he was "liable to be deprived" of the beneficial enjoyment thereof. Before his interest fell into possession he committed an act of bkpcy. & a petition was presented. His interest then fell in, & the petition was dismissed; but before the dismissal an instalment of the income became payable:—Held: the forfeiture clause had come into operation & the gift over took effect.—Re LOFTUS-OTWAY, OTWAY v. OTWAY, [1895] 2 Ch. 235; 64 L. 5917. "Become bankrupt, or do or suffer something whereby it becomes vested in or payable to another"—Bankruptcy in New Zealand—Debtor domiciled in England.]—The interest of a fund was given to a legatee for life, or until he should become "bkpt.," or do or suffer something whereby same should become "vested in or payable to" some other person.

The legatee, being a domiciled Englishman, was adjudicated bkpt. in New Zealand on a creditor's petition, after the death of the testatrix. The adjudication was subsequently annulled:—Held: the interest was not forfeited by the colonial bkpcy.—Re HAYWARD, HAYWARD v. HAYWARD, [1897] 1 Ch. 905; 66 L. J. Ch. 392; 76 L. T. 383; 45 W. 5918. "Any event should occur whereby income might become alienated by law or vested in any other person"—Receiving order.]—By a settlement, dated in 1859, made upon the marriage of A. & B., property of the husband was vested in trustees upon trust to invest same, & to pay the interest, dividends, & annual produce thereof unto or permit same to be received by the husband until he should be outlawed, or be found or declared bkpt., or become an insolvent debtor within some Act of Parliament for the relief or relating to insolvent debtors, or should do or commit any other act, or any other event should occur whereby the income or any part thereof would or might, if thereby settled absolutely upon or in trust for him, become alienated by law or vested in any other person or persons, & from & after the decease of the husband, or the sooner determination of the trust thereinbefore declared for his benefit, upon trust to pay the whole of such interest, dividends, & annual produce unto, or permit the same to be received by, the wife & her appointees or assigns during her life for her separate use, & subject thereto upon trust for the children of the marriage as therein mentioned. A receiving order was made against the husband in 1885, but was rescinded in Feb., 1886:—Held: by the receiving order there had been an alienation by law within the settlement, &, as the alienation by law occurred in favour of the husband's creditors generally, the gift over to the wife was void.—Re SPEARMAN, SPEARMAN v. LOWNDES (1899), 82 L. 5919. "Assign or underlet"—Declaration of trust.]—A lessee who had covenanted not to assign without the consent of the lessor, & that upon breach of any of his covenants, or if he should execute an assignment for the benefit of his creditors, the lessor should have the right to re-enter, executed a deed of assignment of all his estate, except leaseholds, to a trustee for the benefit of his creditors, & declared therein that he would stand possessed of his leaseholds upon trust for the trustee to assign & dispose of same as the trustee should direct. The lessor served on the trustee under the deed a notice of breach of covenant by the execution of the deed of assignment:—Held: as the deed of assignment did not contain a legal assignment of the land leased, it did not constitute a breach of the covenant not to assign it.—GENTLE v. FAULKNER, [1900] 2 Q. 5920. —— Bankruptcy.]—A lease contained a covenant not to assign without licence, & a proviso for re-entry on bkpcy. of the lessee or breach of any covenant. The lessee having been adjudicated bkpt. on his own petition, the lessor purported to determine the lease under the proviso of re-entry, & obtained peaceable possession from the lessee without giving any notice under Conveyancing Act, 1881 (c. 41), s. 14:—Held: the lessor's re-entry was void as against the lessee's trustee in bkpcy., for the statutory notice was necessary before the lessor could obtain possession either peaceably or by action.—Re RIGGS, Ex p. LOVELL, [1901] 2 K. 5921. "Become bankrupt"—Receiving order—Be adjudicated bankrupt.]—A builder by deed assigned all his interest under a building agreement to H. to secure advances. The deed provided that, if the builder should "become bkpt.," H. might take possession of the land comprised in the building agreement & complete any unfinished houses. A receiving order was afterwards made against the builder, & adjudication followed. H. took possession under the mtge. when the receiving order was made, on the ground that the builder had "become bkpt.":—Held: "become bkpt." meant "be adjudicated a bkpt.," & the builder not being in default under the mtge. when the receiving order was made, H. was not then entitled to take possession.—Re WEIBKING, Ex p. WARD, [1902] 1 K. The contract empowered the engineer to order direct payment by the public authority to those supplying machinery to the contractor, in case he should have reasonable cause to believe that the contractor was unduly delaying payment to them. The contractor presented his own petition, & at the date of the receiving order some of the firms who had supplied machinery were unpaid. The engineer subsequently ordered direct payment to be made to them out of the money which remained due from the public authority to bkpt. at the date of the receiving order:—Held: the engineer was entitled to make such order, & the trustee could not recover such money

"Whereby the income becomes payable to some other person"—Receiving order made—Effect of receipt of income before rescission.]—A testator directed trustees to pay the income of a trust fund to a son until he should die or do or suffer something whereby the income or part thereof would if belonging absolutely to him, "become payable to some other person." In 1910, a receiving order was made against the son. In 1911, the creditors having accepted a scheme for payment by instalments of their debts in full with provision for a composition of 7*s.* 6*d.* in the event of debtor's death, the ct. discharged the order:—Held: assuming that while the receiving order was in force moneys payable to debtor came to the trustees' hands, the receiving order operated to make those moneys "payable to some other person," & a forfeiture of the life interest had taken place. Qu.: whether the same result would follow if no income had come to hand while the receiving order was in force.—Re LAYE, TURNBULL v. LAYE, [1913] 1 Ch. 298; 82 L. In 1910, a receiving order was made against the son. In 1911, the creditors having accepted a scheme for payment by instalments of their debts in full with provision for a composition of 7*s.* 6*d.* in the event of debtor's death, the ct. discharged the order:—Held: debtor was not by the scheme "having his affairs liquidated by arrangement of composition," those words contemplating liquidation by arrangement or composition as recognised by 1869 Act,—Re LAYE, TURNBULL v. LAYE, [1913] 1 Ch. 298; 82 L. 5926. "Be or become in any manner applicable to any other purpose" than maintenance of bankrupt—Judgment on warrant of attorney to provisional assignee—In lifetime of testator.]—A testator bequeathed the dividends of certain stock to his nephew, solely for the maintenance of himself & his family, declaring that such dividends should not be capable of being charged with his debts or engagements, & that he should have no power to charge, assign, anticipate, or encumber them; but that if he should attempt so to do, or if the dividends, by bkpcy., insolvency, or otherwise, should be assigned or become payable to any other person, or be or become applicable to any other purpose than for the maintenance of the nephew & his family, his interest therein should cease, & the stock be held upon trusts for his children. Long subsequent to the date of the will, & a few weeks prior to a codicil confirming it, the nephew took the benefit of Insolvent Debtors Act, 1820 (c. 119); some years afterwards testator died:—Held: this insolvency operated as a forfeiture of the life interest given to the nephew by the will.—YARNOLD v. MOORHOUSE (1830), 1 Russ. & M. 364; 39 E. In 1846, the wife being still alive, the principal creditors of the husband, eleven in number, signed a deed whereby in consideration of a composition of 10*s.* in the pound of their respective claims paid by instalments as therein mentioned, they released the husband from all their demands:—Held: although the composition was not an act of bkpcy. on which a commission might have issued, nevertheless a forfeiture had been incurred.—SHARP v. COSSERAT (1855), 20 Beav. 470; 3 W. 5930. "Shall at any time hereafter become insolvent"—Insolvency before date of will.]—Testator limited real & personal estate to trustees for A. B. for life; with a limitation over in case he should thereafter become bkpt. or insolvent or if by his act or default the rents, etc., should become vested in or payable to any other person. The tenant for life was insolvent before the date of the will; there was the usual power of attorney, & judgment was entered up, but nothing further done & the tenant for life did not in any manner alienate after the date of the will:—Held: the insolvency before the date of the will was within the words "shall thereafter become bkpt." etc.—

5931. "Shall be declared bankrupt"—Bankruptcy before death of testator.]—Testator devised freeholds to C. for life, with a clause of forfeiture on bkpcy. In testator's lifetime, C. was adjudicated a bkpt., & had not obtained his order of discharge at testator's death, but no creditors' assignee was ever appointed ; within four months after testator's death, bkpt. applied for & obtained an annulment of the bkpcy. 5933. By operation of law . . . be personally deprived of receipt & benefit of bequest—Bankruptcy at & after determination of prior life interest—Annulled after income payable.]—By a will a fund was given (subject to a prior life interest) to R. for life, but it was provided that if (amongst other things) by act or operation of law he should be personally deprived of the receipt & benefit of the bequest, then the life interest should cease, & the income should go to the persons entitled in remainder. At the time of the determination of the prior life interest, & for several years afterwards, R. was a bkpt., & in consequence of such bkpcy. the fund was paid into ct. under Trustee Relief Act. Before any petition was presented for payment of the fund, or application of the income thereof for the benefit of the persons entitled in remainder, R. procured the annulment of this bkpcy. on the terms that the past dividends should be paid to the assignee :—Held : R. had nevertheless forfeited his life interest.—Re PARNHAM'S TRUSTS (1872), L. After the death of testator a son of the sister was adjudicated bkpt. ; but he obtained an annulment of the bkpcy. before the death of the tenant for life :—Held : there was no forfeiture of his life interest.—Re PARNHAM'S TRUST (1876), 46 L. 5935. "Shall become bankrupt"—Existing sequestration known to testator.]—A life interest in property was given by will, & there was a clause providing that if the annuitant "should become insolvent or be declared bkpt.," his interest should absolutely cease & be forfeited, & go over as in the will provided. The annuitant became bkpt. before the date of the will to the knowledge of testatrix. The bkpcy. was annulled three years after testatrix's death, but before the time had arrived at which any payment could have been made to the residuary legatee in whose favour the gift over operated :—Held : no forfeiture took place.—ANCONA v. WADDELL (1878), 10 Ch. 5936. "Shall be aliened whereby the same would vest in any other person"—Bankruptcy before death of testator.]—A testator by his will gave to his trustees real & personal estate in trust to pay the rents & profits to his children as tenants in common during their respective lives with benefit of survivorship. He then declared that if by any act or by operation of law any interests given by his will in trust for his children should be aliened, whereby same should vest in any other person, then the trustees should apply the interest so aliened to & among the other persons entitled to same by survivorship, as in the case of the death of the persons so aliening. One of testator's children became a bkpt. between the date of the will & testator's death. Within a year after testator's death she became entitled to property which when sold was sufficient to pay the debts & costs ; but the bkpcy. was not annulled until more than two years after that. The trustees of the will had paid the rents & profits of the other children, considering that they were forfeited :—Held : the life interest of the legatee in the rents & profits was forfeited by her bkpcy.—Re METCALFE, METCALFE v. METCALFE, [1891] 3 Ch. 1 ; 60 L. provided that in case T. should be declared bkpt., or be discharged under any Insolvent Act, the trustees should apply the rents & profits in or towards the maintenance, clothing, lodging & support of T. & his then present or any future wife, & his children, or any of them, or otherwise for his, her, their, or any of their use & benefit, in such manner as the trustees should in their discretion think proper. T. was taken in execution for debt, & sent to prison at the suit of a creditor, who obtained a vesting order against him under Judgments Act, 1838 (c. 110). The insolvent was afterwards discharged under that Act:—Held: from the date of the vesting order to the time of his discharge, the rents & profits of the estate belonged to the assignee under the Act; & upon the discharge taking place the discretionary power given to the trustees by the settlement might be exercised by them.—LORD v. BUNN (1843), 2 Y. & C. A. first mortgaged his interest, & afterwards conveyed his real & personal estate to a trustee for the benefit of his creditors & became bkpt.:—Held: the wife's title having vested at the date of the mtge., the question as to the validity of the gift to her in the event of bkpcy. did not arise.—BROOKE v. PEARSON (1859), 27 Beav. 181; 34 L. 5940. —— Gift over on appointment of receiver.]—By a marriage settlement executed in 1881, a sum of stock belonging to the intended husband was settled upon trust to pay the income to the husband for life, "or till he shall become a bkpt., or shall assign, charge, or incumber the said income, or shall do or suffer something whereby the same or some part thereof would, through his act, default, or by operation or process of law, if belonging absolutely to him, become vested in or payable to some other person or persons." On the determination of the trust in favour of the husband, the trustees were to pay the income to the wife for her life. In June, 1888, a creditor recovered judgment for debt against the husband, & on July 19 he obtained an order, which was made in the presence of the husband, appointing himself receiver of the income due or becoming due upon the stock. The husband was afterwards adjudicated a bkpt. upon a subsequent act of bkpcy.:—Held: the gift over in favour of the wife having taken effect on the making of the order appointing a receiver in the action, she was entitled, as against the official receiver, to all dividends accrued subsequently to the making of that order.—Re DETMOLD, DETMOLD v. DETMOLD (1889), 40 Ch. 5941. —— Income between death of wife & death of bankrupt.]—By a marriage settlement certain funds belonging to the wife were settled upon trust to pay the income to the wife for life, & after her death to the husband until he should become bkpt. or alienate same or until his death, whichever should first happen; & after the decease of the survivor of the wife & husband, then upon trust for the children of the marriage. 5942. —— From what date income vests in trustee.]—Where a person entitled to the receipt of dividends until he shall do or suffer to be done any act whereby same if payable to himself would become vested in some other person, commits an act of bkpcy. which is followed by adjudication, the date upon which the dividends vest in the trustee, & are forfeited, is, under the doctrine of relation back, the date of the act of bkpcy., not the date of the adjudication.—MONTEFIORE v. GUEDALLA, [1901] 1 Ch. 435; 70 L. 5943. —— Forfeited on first bankruptcy—Effect on second bankruptcy.]—By a settlement made in 1893 the settlor assigned property to trustees on trust to pay to him the annual income until he was declared bkpt.; thereafter this rights were to cease, & the trustees were to have power to apply at their discretion the income or any part thereof for his personal maintenance & support, & were to apply the residue for the benefit of his children, if any, or to accumulate it & add it to the corpus, which was ultimately to go to his relatives. In 1900 the settlor was adjudicated bkpt., & the trustee in bkpcy., applied to set aside the settlement, & it was set aside so far as was necessary to pay bkpt.'s debts provable in the bkpcy. The trustees of the settlement by consent raised a sufficient sum to pay bkpt.'s debts in full & the costs, but the bkpcy. was not annulled. In 1902 the settlor was adjudicated bkpt. for the second time, & the trustee in that bkpcy. applied again to set aside the settlement, but was refused on the ground that at the time of making the settlement bkpt. was in a position to pay his debts without the aid of the settled property. The trustee in bkpcy. then applied for a declaration that bkpt.'s life estate under the settlement vested in the trustee in bkpcy. Throughout these transactions bkpt. was unmarried:—Held: the first bkpcy. had operated under the settlement as a forfeiture of the settlor's life estate, & it did not, therefore, vest in the trustee of the second bkpcy.—Re JOHNSON, Ex p. MATTHEWS & WILKINSON, [1904] 1 K. 5944. —— Trustees' title indefeasible.]—By an ante-nuptial settlement property of the husband was settled upon trust to pay the income thereof to him during his life, or until he should be outlawed or be declared bkpt. or become an insolvent debtor, or should do or suffer something whereby the income or some part thereof might if absolutely belonging to him become vested in or payable to some other person or persons, & from & after the death of the husband or other the determination of the trust for his benefit in his lifetime to pay the income to the wife for life. The husband was adjudicated bkpt. in his wife's lifetime :—Held : upon the bkpcy. the husband's life interest vested indefeasibly in his trustee in bkpcy. & was no longer capable of being affected by any subsequent act of forfeiture by the husband, & the trustee in bkpcy. could make a good title to the income of the settled property during the remainder of the husband's life.—Re BURROUGHS-FOWLER, BURROUGHS-FOWLER'S TRUSTEE v. BURROUGHS-FOWLER, [1916] 2 Ch. 251 ; 85 L. 5945. —— Only partly forfeited—Obligation by bankrupt's father to pay annual sum to be applied as income under settlement.]—By a marriage settlement the husband settled a reversionary interest, & his father settled certain stocks. These properties were called "the husband's trust fund." The income of the reversionary interest when it fell into possession was to be paid to the husband for life, & the income of the stocks was to be paid to him until alienation. The father covenanted to pay the annual sum of £120 to the trustees, to be applied in the same way as the income of the husband's trust fund if same had fallen into possession. The husband became bkpt. :—Held : the two funds must be valued as at the date of the bkpcy. & in each subsequent year & a proportionate part of the annual sum corresponding in value to the reversionary interest should from time to time be paid to the trustee in bkpcy., & the remainder be applied as upon the cesser of the husband's life interest.—Re WINWOOD'S SETTLEMENT, FISHER v. WINWOOD'S TRUSTEE (1916), 85 L. 5946. —— Income on forfeiture to determine as if bankrupt "actually dead"—No acceleration of subsequent interests.]—A testator by will gave his estate other than pure personalty upon trust to pay one-third of the income to A. for life & after his decease as A. should by will appoint, & in default of appointment for the children of A. with subsequent gifts if A. should die without issue. The will contained separate trusts of the pure personalty. Testator declared that if A. should become bkpt. then the trust for payment of the income to A. should immediately thenceforth cease & determine "in the same manner as if he were then actually dead." A. became bkpt., was married & had no issue. The income having been accumulated by order of the ct. till it should appear who was entitled to it :—Held : (1) the words "actually dead" could not mean dead for all purposes, but merely that A. was to be no longer capable of himself taking any interest under the gift ; (2) the subsequent interests were not accelerated & the accumulations & income during the life of A. went as on an intestacy.—Re COOPER, TOWNEND v. TOWNEND (1917), 86 L. The tenant gave a warrant of attorney, upon which judgment was entered up, & his goods taken in execution & sold, & a commission of bkpcy. afterwards issued against him. 5948. —— Assignees entitled to time to remove fixtures.]—By a lease, the lessee covenanted to erect a steam-engine, machinery, & buildings proper for carrying on the business of a shipwright, on the land demised, & to leave same for the lessors at the expiration or other sooner determination of the term, "it being by the indenture declared that all steam & other engines, machinery, etc., set up upon the premises at any time during the term for the purpose of carrying on the trade of a shipwright, together with all fixtures, should not be removed therefrom, but should, upon the expiration or other sooner determination of the said term, belong to the landlords, & not to the tenant, without any payment being made to him for the same." The lease then went on to provide, "that the last-mentioned stipulation should not be construed to apply to any machinery or other articles which might be erected or set up on the demised premises by the lessee during the term, for any other purpose than that of carrying on the business of a shipwright ; but that it should be lawful for the lessee at any time during the term, or at the expiration thereof, to remove & take away all such last-mentioned machinery, etc., from the demised premises." The lease then contained a further proviso, that, in the event of the lessee becoming bkpt., it should be lawful for the lessors to re-enter," & upon such entry to take possession of, have, etc., as their own property, without paying anything for the same, all steam & other engines, etc., which should be found on the premises, & which should be used or employed in or about the business of a ship-builder thereon." The lessee having become bkpt., the lessors re-entered for the forfeiture :—Held : the assignees of the lessee were entitled to enter for the purpose of removing the fixtures other than those set up for the ship-building business, & to a reasonable time for that purpose.—STANSFELD v. PORTSMOUTH CORPN. The tenant sublet without leave. Afterwards the under-tenant filed a liquidation petition, & the landlord then first heard of the subletting. The landlord then agreed with two of the under-tenant's creditors to accept a new tenant on the old terms if one could be found in thirty-one days, &, if no tenant was found, to give a reasonable time for the removal of the corn & other effects belonging to the estate of the under-tenant. No new tenant was found, & the landlord took possession. The lease contained covenants by the tenant to do certain things during the last year of the term & on delivering up the premises to leave thereon the hay & straw grown thereon during the last year on being paid for same. The under-tenant's trustee in bkpcy. sued the landlord to recover the value of the hay & straw:—Held: (1) the under-tenant was bound by the terms of the lease; (2) the lease having been determined by forfeiture in consequence of the under-tenant filing a liquidation petition, the clause giving a right to payment for the hay & straw did not apply.—SILCOCK v. FARMER (1882), 46 L. 5952. —— Trustee takes subject to right of landlord under agreement.]—A building agreement between a landowner & a builder contained a stipulation that the landowner, upon the default of the builder in fulfilling his part of the agreement, might re-enter upon the land & expel the builder, & that on such re-entry all the materials then in & about the premises should be forfeited to & become the property of the landowner "as & for liquidated damages":—Held: under such a stipulation, the interest of the builder in the materials being a defeasible one, the right of the landowner to seize is not defeated by the commission of an act of bkpcy. by the builder before the seizure is made. 5953. Building contract—What property passes.]—A builder contracted with the trustees of a certain co. to build for them an hotel, for a specified sum, & to provide all necessary materials (except iron work & papering), to the satisfaction of their superintendent; with a proviso, that, in the event of the contractor becoming bkpt., it should be lawful for the trustees to take possession of the work then already done by him, & put an end to the agreement for the future, paying him a fair proportion for the work actually done. Before the work was completed, the contractor (who had received several sums of money on account to an amount greater than the value of the work done) became bkpt., having in his workshop certain wooden sash frames destined for the hotel, & approved of by the superintendent for that purpose, into which certain pullies, the property of the trustees, had been inserted; which frames having been brought by the trustees to the hotel, a demand of the sash frames, without mentioning the pullies, was made by the assignees, to which the trustees returned a general refusal to give them up:—Held: by the true construction of the contract, a property passed to the trustees in such work only as was actually done, & affixed to the realty by bkpt. previous to his bkpcy.—TRIPP v. ARMITAGE (1839), 4 M. & W. 687; 1 Horn. & H. 442; 8 L. 5955. —— Title of trustees defeated.]—By a building contract between builders & a board, it was provided that all plant, etc. brought on to the ground by the builders for the purposes of the building should "be considered to be the property of the board," & that they should not be removed without the licence of the architect, but that the board should not be answerable for any loss which might happen to them; & if the builders should delay the performance of their contract, the board might give the builders notice to proceed with the work, & that in the event of their not doing so within seven days the plant, etc., should be forfeited to the board. The builders having become bkpt., the board subsequently to the commencement of the bkpcy. gave to the builders & to their trustee notice to proceed with the work, & upon non-compliance with the notice the board claimed that the plant & materials upon the premises were forfeited, & that they were entitled to retain them as against the trustee :—Held : the board's right to issue the notice was unaffected by the bkpcy. ; & although the goods were the property of the debtors at the commencement of the bkpcy., the title of the trustee was determined by the forfeiture & the board were entitled to retain them.—Re KEEN & KEEN, Ex p. COLLINS, [1902] 1 K. 5956. —— Trustee not entitled to recover plant & material.]—A building contract based on the theory that the employer is to be put in possession of completed works, & providing that all plant & materials brought on the ground by the contractor shall be considered the property of the employer until the completion of the contract has been duly certified, & that on default of the contractor, the employer may enter upon & take possession of the works, materials, & plant, & the expense incurred in completing the works shall be a debt due from the contractor, vests the plant & materials in the employer at law subject to a condition that upon the due completion of the contract the contractor shall be at liberty to remove them. Therefore, if the contractor makes default in performing his part of the contract, & the works are in consequence never completed, neither he nor his trustee in bkpcy. can recover the plant or materials from the employer.

The effect of such a contract is to provide not only machinery to enable the employer to secure the performance of the contract but also a security for the employer that the work shall be performed of which security the employer is entitled to avail himself if, by the default of the contractor, the work is not performed at all.—HART v. PORTHGAIN HARBOUR CO., LTD., [1903] 1 Ch. 690 ; 72 L. 5958. —— Money recovered under.]—A lessee became trustee of leasehold premises for his wife by reason of the purchase by her of the beneficial interest therein, & the wife as such beneficial owner was liable to indemnify her husband against any claim by the landlord under the covenants in the lease. On the expiration of the lease the landlord obtained judgment against the lessee, for rent, & damages for breach of covenant, but before the amount of the lessee's liability was ascertained the lessee was adjudicated bkpt. The landlord obtained leave in the bkpcy. to commence an action in the joint names of the trustee & himself to recover the amount from the wife under the lessee's right of indemnity, but without prejudice to the question whether the money so recovered should be treated as assets in the bkpcy. or be retained by the landlord. The action was compromised by a payment by the wife :—Held : the trustee could only avail himself of the right of indemnity for the purpose of passing on the money to the principal creditor, & the landlord was entitled to retain the money on account of his debt.—Re RICHARDSON, Ex p. ST. See, now, Married Women's Property Acts, 1882 (c. 75), 1907 (c. 18), & 1914 Act, s. 36.

A. Real Property.

5974. Devise to married woman for life with remainder over—Life interest not liable in bankruptcy of husband.]—Devise of £800 to be invested in land for the benefit of the wife of S. for her life, & afterwards to her children, & the interest of the money to go as the profits of the lands, if bought. On S. becoming a bkpt.:—Held: the interest of the £800 was not liable to the bkpcy., this not being a trust created by bkpt., & being intended for the maintenance of the wife, & given by her relation.—VANDENANKER v. DESBROUGH (1689), 2 Vern. 96; 23 E. R. 671.

5967 i. —— In libel action.]—Insolvent recovered damages in an action for libel, & the damages were levied. The interim assignee applied for an order for payment of the damages into ct. for behoof of the creditors:—Held: the ct. had jurisdiction to make such order.—DOWLING v. BROWNE (1854), 4 I. C. L. R. 265; 7 Ir. Jur. 5. —IR.

h. Share of stock—Partly paid up.]—Deft., director of a co., subscribed for stock to the extent of $1,000, on which he paid $400. Subsequently deft. made an assignment under Insolvent Act, 1869:—Held: the property in the stock had not passed to the official assignee.—DENISON v. SMITH (1878), 43 U. C. R. 503.—CAN.

PART XX. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 3.—A.

j. Land purchased by wife—out of money presents from relatives & savings from housekeeping allowance.]—A married woman, having no separate estate, received sums of money as presents from her relatives, was allowed by her husband weekly money for house expenses, out of which she saved something, & also saved money out of payments to her from her husband's workmen, as boarders. Money, the proceeds of such presents & savings, & as between husband & wife called hers was laid out in land, which was mortgaged to a building society, the equity of redemption being reserved to the wife:—Held: the property was not protected from her husband's creditors.—SMITH v. SMITH (1877), 3 V. L. R. 2.—AUS.

k. —— Out of her own money.]—Property was purchased by Mrs. P. in her own name out of money at her own credit in a bank & by a mtge. on her property & out of sums drawn out of the husband's business by himself & his wife in repayment of capital put by her into the business. Pltf., P.'s assignee, sought to show that the purchase was a fraud on P.'s creditors:—Held: pltf.'s claim to the property failed.—ATTWOOD v. PETT (1907), 9 O. W. R. 173, 748.—CAN.

5978. Custody of title deeds of real estate of which wife tenant for life.]—The trustee in bkpcy. of a husband, whose wife is legal tenant for life of land (not to her separate use) has no absolute right to the custody of the title deeds of the land during the coverture, but the ct. has a discretion as to the custody.

In a case in which there was evidence that a bkpt.'s wife was about to apply to the Divorce Ct. for the dissolution of the marriage:—Held: the title deeds of land, of which she was legal tenant for life, ought not to be delivered to the trustee in the bkpcy., but ought to be retained in ct.—Re PYATT, Ex p. ROGERS (1884), 26 Ch. 5981. —— Wedding presents.]—By an antenuptial settlement, by which £1,000 a year was settled upon the wife for her separate use, it was agreed that any leasehold property or other personal estate coming to her or to her husband in her right during the coverture should be vested in the trustees, except plate, trinkets, furniture, & jewels, which should be considered as property settled to the separate use of the wife, & over which she should have an absolute power of disposition. On the bkpcy. of the husband his trustee claimed the presents made to her before & on occasion of her marriage:—Held: the presents were the separate property of the wife, who was entitled to retain same as against the husband's trustee in bkpcy.—Re JAMIESON, Ex p. PANNELL (1889), 60 L. T. 159; 37 W. R. 464; 6 Morr. 24.

5982. Property of wife trading apart from husband.]—Goods of a married woman carrying on a separate trade in London were seized by the assignees of her husband. Her assignees sued the husband's assignees in trover:—Held: they were entitled to recover.—LA VIE v. PHILIPS (1765), 1 Wm. Bl. 570; 3 Burr. 1776; 96 E. R. 329.

5984. —— —— Separate trading a question of fact.]—A woman may before marriage, with the consent of her intended husband, convey all her stock-in-trade & furniture to trustees, to enable her to carry on her business separately, & if the husband do not intermeddle with them, & there be no fraud, such effects, though fluctuating, are not liable to his debts. But whether the trade be carried on solely by the wife, or jointly with the husband, is a question of fact for the jury; & if they determine the latter, the stock-in-trade is liable to the debts of the husband. But even in such a case the furniture is not, though removed to the husband's house. It is no objection to such a settlement that there is no inventory of the goods intended to be thus settled.—JARMAN v. WOOLLOTON (1790), 3 Term Rep. 618; 100 E. R. 765.

Plea, that B., the husband, became bkpt., & that his assignees were duly appointed, & accepted the appointment before the commencement of the suit, by reason whereof the assignees became entitled to the supposed debts & causes of action in the declaration mentioned. Replication, that before the intermarriage of pltfs., & whilst C., the wife, was sole & unmarried, to wit, on etc., by an indenture then made between B. of the first part, C. of the second part, & H. & J. of the third part (being a settlement entered into before the intermarriage of pltfs.), the sums of money in the declaration mentioned were assigned to H. & J., to have, receive, & recover, & to hold same to them, upon certain trusts in the indenture mentioned, in favour of C., & for her sole & separate use during her life, & for the children of the intended marriage. The replication then stated, that pltfs. appointed H. & J. as their attorneys to recover the sums from deft., for the purpose of holding same upon the trusts aforesaid, & that the action was commenced & prosecuted in the names of pltfs. at the instance & by direction of H. & J., by virtue of the power given to them, & for the purpose of recovering, receiving, & holding the sums of money as the trustees named in the indenture, & upon the trusts in favour of C., & of the children of the marriage & not for the use or benefit of pltf. B., or of his creditors under the fiat:—Held: the replication was good, & the debt did not pass to the assignees under the bkpcy. of the husband, but might be sued for by the husband & wife.—PARNHAM v. HURST (1841), 8 M. & W. 743; 10 L. 5996. Legacies—Share devolving on married woman on intestacy of father—Settled by husband to her separate use.]—A husband in poor circumstances, & his wife being wholly unprovided for, settled her orphanage part acquired after marriage in trust, for her sole & separate use:—Held: his creditors prior to the assignment could not set it aside, or have the interest of the money during his life, for it was a reasonable settlement, & such as the ct. would have obliged the husband to make, if he had sued for her orphanage part.—HINTON v. SCOTT (1730), Mos. 336; 25 E. One of the granddaughters, E., married after the death of testatrix, & her husband became insolvent:—Held: as the words of the will did not indicate an intention to exclude the marital control, the legacy to E. passed to her insolvent husband's assignee. Semble: if the words had indicated an intention to give the interest of the property to the separate use of the granddaughters, the legacy would still have passed to the assignee of the insolvent husband.—MASSEY v. PARKER (1834), 2 My. & K. 174; 4 L. 5999. —— —— For her own sole use & benefit.]—A testator devised two freehold houses to his daughter her heirs & assigns, with all the furniture in one of the houses "for her own sole use & benefit":—Held: these words applied to the furniture, as well as to the house, & the daughter having after testator's death, married K. who afterwards became a bkpt., she was entitled as against the assignees to the whole of the furniture for her separate use, no case of order & disposition arising.—Re KILLICK, Ex p. KILLICK (1844), 3 Mont. 5996 i. Legacies—Share devolving on married woman on intestacy of father—Assignment to husband's creditor.]—J. died possessed of a fund, which he devised to trustees upon certain trusts. The devises having failed, a rule was passed in the Equity Ct., by which it was ordered that a portion of the fund should be paid by the trustees in certain proportions among the next of kin. M. being entitled as one of the next of kin, with W., her husband, executed a power of attorney to S., empowering him to receive the money coming to her by virtue of the will, & S. received $1,927, which, on the same day, was attached in his hands by E. on process issued against W., who had been adjudicated a bkpt. in England, M. having claimed the fund in his own right, by a suit in Equity:—Held: the creditors' assignee was not entitled to the fund without making provision for the wife, & the latter, being entitled to the fund as a chose in action was justified in coming into equity for her protection.—ROPER v. SHANNON (1871), 8 N. S. R. 146. —CAN.

t. —— Legacy to wife & children—Use thereof in business by bankrupt—Acquiescence of wife.]—Testator bequeathed to his daughter, M. £2,000, "for herself & her children, issue of her marriage, now or hereafter living, to be exempt from any debts or liabilities of her husband, D., should he from accident or misfortune hereafter become embarrassed, with power in his exors. to invest same at her desire in good securities with interest for her & her children's benefit," subject to a deduction of £870 due to testator by D. Pltf. & others were appointed exors. Testator died in 1861, but the estate was not settled until Sept., 1871, when D. deposited in a bank $6,000, being the balance of the bequest due to his wife after deducting the amount due by him to the estate, with interest to the date of the deposit. In the same month he made an assignment under Insolvent Act of 1869. During the ten intervening years the amount had been used by him in his business, & for his family, though without the knowledge or sanction of his wife, & entries were made by him from time to time in accounts rendered to the widow, who with himself chiefly managed the business of the estate, of sums received as interest on his wife's legacy, amounting in all to the whole interest that would be due thereon. That was not authorised by his wife, but she did not object to it, or apply for the interest herself:—Held: as there was no evidence that M. had sanctioned the use of the money by her husband, pltf.

6000. —— —— Stock transferred—Cash paid to husband & similarly invested.]—A married woman being entitled under a will to stock & to cash, her husband wrote to one of the exors., that the stock should be transferred into the names of trustees for the wife's separate use, & that the cash should be paid to himself. These requests were complied with. The husband employed part of the cash in increasing the amount of the stock. He afterwards became bkpt. & died:—Held: the stock transferred by the exors. was not reduced into possession by the husband, & therefore belonged to the wife by survivorship; but the assignees under the bkpcy. were entitled to the increase made by the husband.—RYLAND v. SMITH (1836), 1 My. & Cr. 53; 5 L. 6001. —— —— Paid by husband & wife into separate account of wife.]—Exors. of a will, under which a married woman was entitled to a legacy, paid it by a cheque, drawn to the order of the husband & wife. They went to the husband's bankers with the cheque duly indorsed, & the wife instructed the manager, in the husband's presence & with his assent, to open an account in her own sole name, & to place part of the proceeds of the cheque to the credit of such account, & the remainder to the husband's current account. These instructions were carried into effect, & the wife drew cheques in her own name. The bankers invested a part of the sum in the purchase of certain bonds, & they sent her a memorandum by which they stated that they held the bonds as her property. The wife afterwards declined to charge her moneys & securities with the payment of the overdrawn balance of his account with the bankers, & the husband went into liquidation:—Held: the husband had not reduced the legacy into possession. Semble: if it had been held that the husband had reduced the legacy into possession, it would have been held that there had been a valid gift of the amount by the husband to the wife.—PARKER v. LECHMERE (1879), 12 Ch. A testatrix bequeathed £3,000 to trustees on trust to pay the income to C. for life or until her marriage; after the marriage or death of C., she gave a share in the sum to S., the wife of R. Testatrix died in 1783; R. became bkpt. in 1784; C. married in 1789, & R. died in 1790:—Held: S., having survived her husband, was entitled to the share in the £3,000, with dividends from the date of her husband's death.—MITFORD v. MITFORD (1803), 9 Ves. 87; 32 E. The husband afterwards took the benefit of Insolvent Debtors Act, & a general assignment was made of his property. v. —— Legacy to wife—Interest not to be paid to any other person—Marriage in community of property.]—A. executed a will bequeathing her property to her sister B. subject to a fidei commissum in favour of B.'s children. The will directed that after B.'s death "the entire inheritance shall devolve free & unincumbered in full & free property upon B.'s children," of whom pltf. was one. Subsequently A. executed a codicil directing that "the inheritance devolving upon her niece, pltf., married to C. shall be burthened with entail of fidei commissum in such manner that the usufruct or interest of the inheritance shall not be paid by the exor. to any other person" than pltf.

C. was married to pltf. in community of property, & at the time of execution of the codicil was an uncertificated insolvent. He was rehabilitated, but subsequently became again insolvent:—Held: the trustee in this latter insolvency could not attach the interest accruing to C. under the will & codicil.—BOSMAN v. RICHTER (1854), 2 S. 78.—S. she was one, on the death of a tenant for life, it was witnessed that, in consideration of the intended marriage, & of the £1,500 then in the possession of the intended wife, & also of the vested interest of the value of £4,000 & upwards, the husband covenanted that his heirs, exors., & administrators should, immediately after his decease, pay to the trustees of the settlement £4,000, to be held upon certain trusts for the wife & the children of the marriage, but the deed contained a proviso that the heirs, exors., or administrators of the husband should pay all other debts which the husband should owe at his death in preference to the £4,000, & that they should not be bound to pay the £4,000 unless the assets of the husband should be more than sufficient to pay all his other debts. The husband became bkpt. before the death of the tenant for life, but he survived the tenant for life, & afterwards died before the wife's share was actually paid:—Held: the husband's assignees were not entitled to receive the share without performing the covenant.—CORSBIE v. FREE (1840), Cr. & Ph. 64; 5 Jur. 790; 41 E. 6007. ——— Death of wife—Title of assignees in bankruptcy of husband.]—A testator directed his trustees to set apart a sufficient fund to secure an annuity to L.; & after her decease bequeathed one-third of the capital in the fund to A., a married woman. In 1835, long after the decease of testator, A.'s husband took the benefit of Insolvent Debtors Acts, & assigned all his property, present & future, to his assignee. In 1851 A. died, & the husband took out administration to her estate. In 1852 the husband became an inmate of the G. County Lunatic Asylum. In 1854 the annuitant died, & the fund became divisible:—Held: as between the assignee in insolvency of the husband & the overseers of the parish to which his maintenance was chargeable, who had, as to lunatics, a preferential claim to all other debtors, the assignee in insolvency was entitled to the share of the deceased wife jure mariti.—Re TYLER'S TRUSTS (1856), 27 L. 6009. Contingent interest.] — Testator bequeathed to S. the residue of a term in a house, in case he should so long live & inhabit the house, & after his decease, or giving up possession of the house, or in case he should mortgage same, then to M. the wife of S., to hold the premises unto her for the remainder of the term, in case she should so long live therein, & continue the widow of S., & unmarried. S. resided on the premises till he & his wife were turned out of possession, a commission of bkpcy. having issued against him, under which the assignees sold the property. S. died, & the widow brought ejectment for the premises:—Held: the interest which the wife took under the will, being contingent upon events of which some might have happened during the husband's lifetime, was an interest which the husband might assign at law; & the wife had not an equitable interest sufficiently clear to enable the ct. to say that the assignees did not become entitled to the premises under the bkpcy.—DOE d. 6010. Policy of assurance—On life of husband—Premiums paid out of wife's separate estate.]—A husband who, before the passing of Married Women's Property Act, 1870 (c. 93), had insured his life, & had paid one premium on the insurance, after the passing of the Act gave up the policy & received instead a policy at the same premium for a sum payable to the separate use of his wife if she survived him, & to him if he survived her. He was at the time in embarrassed circumstances, & soon afterwards came under liquidation by arrangement, & then died. His wife had separate income subject to a restraint on anticipation:—Held: the insurance must be taken as effected after the passing of the Act, & whether the subsequent premiums were paid by the husband out of his own money or out of the income of the wife's separate estate, the money payable on the insurance did not go to the trustee under the bkpcy., but went to the widow by virtue of the Act, which modified 1869 Act, s. 91.—HOLT v. EVERALL (1876), 2 Ch. 6011. ——— ——— ———.]—A policy of insurance on the life of a husband for the benefit of his wife, was effected with an insurance co. The application for the policy was made by him on behalf of his wife. By the policy the co. promised to pay the amount assured to the wife "for her sole use, if living," &, if she were not living, to the children of the husband; or if there should be no such children, to the exors. or assigns of the husband. The policy also provided that, on the completion of a period of ten years from its issue, provided it should not have been previously terminated by lapse or death, the legal owners should have the option of withdrawing the accumulated reserve & surplus appropriated by the co. to the policy. The husband paid the premiums until July, 1883, when he filed a petition. In 1884 he obtained his discharge. After 1883 the wife paid the premiums out of her separate estate. In 1886 the wife exercised the right of withdrawal, & the co. paid £2,959 in respect of the policy:—Held: even if the sum thus paid did not by virtue of the policy belong to the wife for her separate use, the husband's contingent interest in it at the time when he obtained his discharge was a mere possibility, & did not pass to the trustee in the liquidation.—Re SUSE & SIBETH, Ex p. DEVER (1887), 18 Q. y. Costs—On judgment for husband & wife—Husband joined for conformity—Assignment by husband & wife.]—In an action on a foreign judgment, it appeared that the judgment was on a bill on complaint brought in the State of New York, against A., & his wife, by B., to set aside a conveyance made to the wife as fraudulent, & that such bill was dismissed with costs to be paid by B. The suit was substantially against the wife, her husband having been joined for conformity only. An assignment of the judgment was produced from A. & his wife to pltf., & a previous assignment, during the pendency of the foreign suit, of all costs accrued or that might accrue. At the execution of the assignment A. was an insolvent under 1869 Act:—Held: the costs for which the judgment was recovered were incurred & recovered by the wife, & did not pass to the assignee of her husband.—HUGHITT v. SAXTON (1877), 42 U. 6073. Sale at reduced price—Right to benefit on paying back purchaser.]—A trader was entitled to leaseholds, subject to an annuity for lives granted to an insurance co., who, at the instance of the trader, & on his representation that he was in failing circumstances, agreed to release it for less than its estimated value. The trader's solr. afterwards wrote to the co., stating that difficulties had been met with in attempting to sell the leaseholds, by reason of a mtge., & proposing that the annuity should be sold at the reduced price to an auctioneer, who had acted for the trader in attempting to sell the property (at a loss to himself), & who would be "still able to serve the trader in some degree." The co. assented, provided the trader signed a written consent. That was done, & the annuity was assigned absolutely to the auctioneer. The trader immediately afterwards became bkpt.:—Held: the creditors were entitled to the benefit of the purchase on repayment to the acutioneer of the purchase-money & interest, & the latter should be ordered to pay the costs of the assignees in a suit instituted by them, in which he insisted that he was entitled to retain the purchase for his own benefit.—BASKETT v. CAFE (1851), 4 De G. & Sm. 388; 64 E. He had not paid the money secured by the bond, & the trustees proved for the amount due:—Held: (1) if there had been no bkpcy., the husband could have claimed no interest until he had made good the principal, & his assignees were subject to all the equities which effected him; (2) dividends should be invested & accumulate in the hands of the trustees until the principal sum had been realised, & then the interest should be paid to bkpt.'s assignees during his life.—Re BROWN, Ex p. TURPIN (1832), 1 Deac. & Ch. 120; Mont. 443; 1 L. A. became a partner, the bond was given, & the firm became bkpt., & the trustees proved the amount due against the joint estate:—Held: the dividends on the proof should be invested in stock, & the interest should accumulate, until the loss occasioned by the bkpcy. was made good, & the whole of the principal sum then due was realised.

The principle is, that the assignees represent bkpt., & take his separate estate, subject to the equities that affect it, one of which is, that before he receives the dividends on the trust fund, he shall make good the loss occasioned by his bkpcy. The money was in the hands of A., B. & C., who were in partnership, & by the will the money was allowed to be retained by A., he paying interest, & the same was secured by the joint & several promissory note of the partners. A., B. & C. transferred the £2,000 to an account in their books, as due to A., as trustee & exor. of testatrix. A., B. & C., became bkpt., & trustees of the estate & fund being appointed in lieu of A., one of them proved against the joint estate, & a dividend being declared, the same was invested & paid to an account of "the legatees under the will." The assignees presented a petition, praying a declaration of their rights in the real estate & in the fund representing the £2,000, & that it might be declared that they were entitled to the dividends on the money invested for the life of B.:—Held: the dividends, on the proof of the £2,000, must be accumulated during the life of B. to make good the trust fund, but the assignees were entitled to the life interest of B. in the real estate.—Re COUSEN, Ex p. BARFF (1848), De G. 613; 17 L. 6091. Bankruptcy of married woman trader—No restraint on anticipation.]—Real property was by a marriage settlement vested in a trustee, in trust for a married woman for life for her separate use without restriction on anticipation, with remainder to such persons as she might appoint, with remainder in default of appointment. The married woman carried on a trade separately from her husband & became bkpt. :—Held : the trustee in bkpcy. in claiming the life estate was not interfering with or affecting the settlement within Married Women's Property Act, 1882 (c. 75), s. 19, & it passed to him under the bkpcy.

The question arises whether this life estate has passed to her trustee in bkpcy., or whether she is entitled to enjoy it notwithstanding her bkpcy. No reason can be assigned why 1869 Act should be governed by a different policy from that which was directly expressed in the Scotch & Irish Acts, & in the English Acts immediately preceding & immediately succeeding. It is a much more reasonable conclusion that the framers of the Act considered that in using general terms they were applying their law wherever the Imperial Parliament had power to apply it, & there is no good reason why the literal construction of the words should be cut down so as to make them inapplicable to a colony (per CUR.).—CALLENDER SYKES & Co. v. LAGOS COLONIAL SECRETARY & DAVIES, WILLIAMS v. DAVIES, [1891] A. A. filed a bill on the equity side of the Supreme Ct. at Calcutta, against the agent of the foreign creditor, resident within the jurisdiction, praying that the dividends might be refunded, & that defts. might be restrained by injunction from receiving any further dividends, until all the other creditors were put on an equal footing with the creditor at Java. Deft. having demurred, & obtained judgment against the assignees:—Held: the estate of Java, not passing to the assignees under the assignment, did not form any part of the fund that was available for the benefit of the general creditors, & the creditor was not bound to refund the dividends, & ought not to be prevented from receiving any future dividends, provided he did not receive more than 20*s.* in the pound upon his whole debt.—COCKERELL v. DICKENS (1840), 3 Moo. 6119. Substituted effects.]—R. obtained a loan from W. on the guarantee of deft., &, in consideration thereof, for the indemnity of deft., executed to him a deed. The deed witnessed that R., in consideration of the premises, did thereby "bargain, sell, assign, transfer & set over unto" deft., his exors., etc., a messuage & premises held by R. for a term of years, certain trade premises of R. held also for a term of years & the trade fixtures not removable by the tenant, & a farm & land of R., also that. for the above consideration, R. did thereby "bargain, sell & assign unto" deft., his exors., etc., the steam engine, dye-vats, & all other fixtures in the trade premises, & all the dyeing apparatus, & utensils, machines, tools, effects, & things in the trade premises, & all horses, cattle, carts, farming utensils & stock at the trade premises & the farm or lands, & all tillages, growing crops, etc., in the farm or lands, & all dye wares & consumable stores in the trade premises, & all stacks of hay, straw, & other consumable stores in the trade premises & the farm, & all the household furniture & effects in R.'s dwelling-house, "& all the estate, right, title, interest, use, trust, property, claim & demand whatsoever, both at law & equity," of R. to the same; & it was thereby declared that deft. should "stand possessed of" the several matters assigned, upon trust, to permit R. to have possession, for carrying on the trade, till W. should require payment, or deft. should apply to be relieved from the guarantee, &, in either of the last-mentioned two events, if R. should, in case W. should require payment, or deft. require to be relieved, fail to pay W. & to procure the guarantee to be given up, then deft., his exors., etc., should "stand & be possessed of the tenements & premises, upon trust to enter upon & take actual possession of all & singular the tenements & premises, including all substituted consumable stores," & it was declared "that, when & as any of the dye-wares, farm produce, cattle, chattels, & effects hereby assigned shall be used up, or consumed, dead, sold or worn out, & other dye-wares," etc., "shall, in the ordinary course of carrying on the business, be purchased, grown, or otherwise substituted for them, or any of them, the dye-wares," etc., "so purchased, grown or otherwise substituted, shall belong to" deft., his exors., etc., "in like manner & as fully as if same were now the property of" R., "& were included therein." f. Insolvency in Natal—Property in Tasmania.]—Testator by his will devised land in Tasmania to trustees to pay his widow out of the income an annuity, & to pay the residue of the income to his sons in equal shares, & he directed that upon the death of his widow the trustees should sell the land, with a discretionary power to postpone the sale for seven years, & divide the proceeds equally among the sons, one of the sons having gone to Natal, in South Africa, before the death of his mother, became insolvent there, & according to the Law of Natal his trustee would have priority over subsequent incumbrances of insolvent's choses in action without the necessity of giving notice. Insolvent having returned to Tasmania, executed an assignment of his interest in his father's estate to an assignee who had no notice of the insolvency & who gave notice to the trustee of the property:—Held: from the date of testator's death until the date of the sale of the land the interest of each son was an immovable, & the insolvency in Natal did not operate in Tasmania as an assignment of insolvent's interest in his father's estate.—AUSTRALIAN MUTUAL PROVIDENT SOCIETY v. GREGORY (1908), 5 C. M. & Co. in Canada as well as in Scotland became vested in R. as trustee. In June, 1861, C. being ignorant of the proceedings in bkpcy. filed his bill of foreclosure against F., & in 1862 a final order of foreclosure was obtained & registered by C., who in 1863 conveyed to G.:—Held: the "act & warrant," though containing no attestation clause, without a witness to its execution, & specifying no lands in Upper Canada, was capable of registration, & pltf. not entitled to redeem.—ROBSON v. CARPENTER (1865), 11 Gr. 293.—CAN.

But the trustee of the mtgor., not having paid the vendor, is not entitled to regard the goods so delivered as his (the trustee's) remained in possession, carried on the business, &, in the ordinary course thereof, used up & consumed certain of the consumable effects, & substituted others. Deft. required to be relieved from the guarantee, &, R. having taken no step for that purpose, deft. entered, & took possession of the property, including the substituted stores. R. was aware of this, & made no objection. Deft. paid W. Afterwards R. committed an act of bkpcy. & was made bkpt.:—Held: deft. was entitled, as against the assignees, to retain, to the extent of the payment made by him to W., not only the property mentioned in the deed of which R. was possessed at the time of the execution of the deed, but also the substituted effects.—HOPE v. HAYLEY (1856), 5 E. & B. 830; 25 L. 6120. "Effects then being or thereafter to be upon the premises."]—A. being indebted to deft., assigned to him by bill of sale all his household furniture, plate, linen, etc., & all other his personal estate & effects whatsoever then being or thereafter to be upon or about his dwelling-house, farm or premises at R. or elsewhere in Great Britain, upon trust to sell & satisfy his debt. Power was given to deft. to enter premises where the goods assigned might be, & take possession of such goods, & a further power, in case the sum due should not be paid upon demand, to enter upon any premises, which might from time to time be in A.'s occupation, & "distrain" the goods there found for the sum due, & if it should not be paid within one day to sell, & it was declared that until deft. should think fit to take possession of the assigned premises, A. might retain possession. Deft., five years after, entered A.'s premises, & having demanded payment of A.'s wife, forthwith seized, along with other goods of A., goods which A. had acquired since the execution of the bill of sale, & after remaining in possession six days sold them. The day after the sale A. became bkpt.:—Held: A.'s assignees were entitled to recover the value of the after-acquired goods.—BELDING v. READ (1865), 3 H. & C. 955; 6 New Rep. 301; 34 L. J. 6122. Payments to accrue under building contract.]—H., a builder, as security for timber supplied & to be supplied, assigned to T. £200 of what should be coming to him under a building contract with A. The contract provided that the building should be finished by a certain day, & if not, that A. might employ another builder to complete it. When the assignment was made the time for completion had expired. Soon afterwards H. executed a creditor's deed. The trustee of the deed completed the building with his own money & was repaid by A. Allowing such repayment as proper, nothing remained due on the contract. T. then filed his bill to enforce payment of the £200:—Held: the payments by A. to the trustee were proper, & the bill ought to be dismissed with costs, as there was nothing due to H. under the contract, which could be made the subject of a valuable assignment to T.—TOOTH v. HALLETT (1869), 4 Ch. k. After-acquired stock — Necessity of covenant to brand.]—In order that a chattel security may affect after-acquired stock there must be a covenant to brand or mark the stock with a specified or indicated brand; & a provision in an instrument that subsequently acquired stock is to be subject to the instrument will not give a right to the stock against the official assignee of a bkpt. mtgor., at any rate, if the stock was in the possession of bkpt. at the time of the act of bkpcy. The abbreviated covenant in "will brand" will be read as a covenant to brand after-acquired sheep with the brand mentioned in the sched. as the brand of the specified sheep.—Re CHRISTIE (1901), 19 N. Z. L. R. 615.—N.Z.

l. "Which shall then be in the possession of the mortgagor."]—A bill of sale executed by a trader contained an assignment of property mentioned & specified in the sched., but not of after-acquired property. It also contained a power to enter on default & take possession of "all & singular the property & things hereby assigned or intended so to be, or which shall then be in the possession of or belonging to the mtgor., & whether in possession or not, & to sell & dispose of them, etc." The mtgee. having seized goods, which had been brought upon the premises after the date of the deed, an action was brought against him by the trustee of the estate of the mtgor. to recover the value of the goods seized:—Held: power was given to seize all property in the possession of mtgor. at the time of the seizure, & mtgee. entitled to seize all property belonging to mtgor. at the time of seizure.—MATSON v. CRAIG, 3 J. Afterwards T. executed a renewal of the mtge., describing the property, & "also any stock purchased by the mtgor. thereafter & now in his possession, & also any stock purchased hereafter by the mtgor., & which may be in his possession, upon the premises, at any time during the continuance of this security or any renewal thereof":—Held: stock acquired by T. after the execution of such second mtge., as well as that acquired by him after the date of the first & before the execution of the second mtge., was bound by such second mtge., & the mtgee. was entitled to retain same as against the assignee in insolvency of the mtgor.—Re THIRKELL, PERRIN & WOOD (1874), 21 Gr. 492.—CAN.

6124. —— Retention money.]—A building contract provided that payments should be made, as the work proceeded, of such sums on account of the price of the work as should be stated in the certificates of an architect, such certificates to be given at the architect's discretion at the rate of 80 per cent. upon the contract value of the work done at the dates of such certificates, & that the remaining 20 per cent. should be retained till the completion of the work. The contract empowered the building owners, in the event of the contractor's committing an act of bkpcy., to discharge them from the further execution of the work, & employ some other person to complete it, & to deduct the amount paid to such other person for completing the same from the contract price. The contractors assigned a portion of the retention money, i.e., the price of work done under the contract retained under the before-mentioned provision, by way of mtge. to secure a debt, & notice of the assignment was given to the building owners. After making such assignment the contractors filed a petition for liquidation, the works then remaining incomplete. A trustee in liquidation & a committee of inspection were appointed. The trustee, in pursuance of a resolution of the committee, completed the work, himself advancing money for that purpose, of which an amount exceeding that of the retention money assigned as above was still unpaid, there being no other assets from which he could be recouped in respect thereof. The trustee & the mtgees. both claimed the amount of the retention money assigned from the building owners:—Held: in the absence of anything to show that the building owners had exercised the power of taking the work out of the contractors' hands, the trustee must be taken to have completed the work under the original contract as trustee of the contractors' estate, & not as a person employed to complete the work in substitution for the contractors, & as the assignment of the retention money held good as against the trustee, the mtgees. were entitled to succeed.—DREW v. JOSOLYNE (1887), 18 Q. 6125. Payments to become due under hire purchase agreement.]—An agreement for the hire, & ultimate purchase by the hirer, of specified articles of furniture, provided that, on payment by the hirer of an agreed price, which was to be paid in a fixed number of periodical instalments, the articles should become his property, but that, until the agreed price had been fully paid, they should remain the property of the lender. It was further provided that, if default should be made in the punctual payment of the hire, the lender might immediately enter upon the dwelling-house of the hirer & take possession of, & remove & sell the goods. During the currency of this agreement the lender assigned all his right & interest under the agreement to a person who had lent him money, as security for the advance, authorising him, if default should be made in repayment of the loan as agreed, to exercise all the powers contained in the hiring agreement, until the balance due to him should have been repaid:—Held: the assignment of the instalments, which accrued due under the hiring agreement after the commencement of the bkpcy. of the assignor, was valid as against the trustee in the bkpcy.—Re DAVIS & CO., Ex p. RAWLINGS (1888), 22 Q. M. drew the pension due for June & July, 1908, but in Aug. N. revoked the power of attorney. 6129. Future receipts of business.]—An assignment by a trader of the future receipts of his business, even if made for value, is, as regards receipts accruing after the commencement of his subsequent bkpcy., inoperative as against the title of the trustee.

By no assignment or charge can bkpt. give a good title as against his trustee to profits of his business accruing after the commencement of the bkpcy. Bkpt. cannot, as against the trustee, assign these profits ; they are not his property (JESSEL, M.R.).—Re JONES, Ex p. NICHOLS (1883), 22 Ch. D. 782 ; 52 L. J. Ch. 635 ; 48 L. T. 492 ; 31 W. r. ——.]—In Apr., 1854, A. was discharged as an insolvent, & W. was appointed an assignee. In Dec., 1854, A. effected on his life an insurance, which he mortgaged to B. for £60. In Apr., 1856, A. again presented his petition & was discharged. No assignee was appointed under the second insolvency. In Nov., 1856, A. died. The insurance co. paid the mtgee. his debt & costs, & the residue of the policy to W. Only two premiums became due on the policy ; the first was paid by insolvent, & the second by the mtgee. No notice of either insolvency had been given to the co. until after the death of insolvent. The sum in ct., the residue of the policy, was claimed by the next of kin of insolvent, the assignee under the first insolvency, & the creditors under the second insolvency :—Held : the amount of the policy was not future-acquired property, & the fund passed to the assignee.—Re ARMSTRONG (1858), 8 I. 6138. Legacy subject to trust—Admission by bankrupt of trust.]—A testator appointed an exor. & trustee, to whom specific properties were left upon definite trusts. The will also contained an absolute bequest to the trustee. About the time the will was made testator purported to create a trust of the property left absolutely to the trustee, & informed him that a letter, which was not to be opened till after his death, contained his wishes. The trustee promised that, if the property was left to him, he would carry those wishes out. The trustee admitted that he was a trustee of such property. He was subsequently adjudicated a bkpt.:—Held: without deciding whether a valid trust was created, it would be inequitable to allow the trustee in bkpcy. to take property, which bkpt. honestly considered he held as trustee.—Re BELL, Ex p. DEBTOR (1908), 99 L. Shortly afterwards, A., having committed an act of bkpcy., executed deeds declaring that he held in trust for C. & D. His assignee having obtained a judgment in ejectment against part of the premises, a bill was filed praying that he should be directed to convey to them:—Held: though there was not express proof of B.'s concurrence, A. was authorised in all that he had done, & as the trust was clearly established, pltfs. were entitled to the conveyance sought.—JOHNSON v. PERRIN (1831), Hayes, 322.—IR.

c. Shares bought on trust—Acknowledgment by bankrupt of trust.]—In 1805, A. purchased a share in a co. in his own name, but really for B., to whom he granted a letter, whereby he acknowledged that the share was B.'s property, & obliged himself to account to B. for the whole profits drawn from the share. The co. was afterwards united with another co., & each original share was converted into two. The name of A. alone appeared in the books of the co., & he regularly drew the profits corresponding to the two shares, for which he accounted to B. Fourteen years from the date of the letter, A. became bkpt., & his estate was sequestrated:—Held: the two shares belonged to B.'s exor. in virtue of the letter, & not to A.'s trustee.—GORDON v. CHEYNE (1824), 2 Sh. 6139 i. Agent—Price of goods sold by.]—Pltf. purchased barley from R., telling him to consign it to C., who was to keep the barley as pltf.'s agent until pltf. directed him to sell, pltf. paying him such a sum as he might require by way of margin to protect himself against a fall in price. C., to reimburse his advance on R.'s draft, obtained a discount from the bank on his own note secured by the warehouse receipt for the barley, which he transferred to the bank. While C. held the barley pltf. paid to him $540 as margin to hold it. The barley was shipped by pltf.'s instructions to O., to the order of the bank, where it was sold, & the bank received the proceeds, having previously had notice that pltf. owned the barley. Later C. was adjudicated bkpt.:—Held: the balance of such proceeds above the bank's advances belonged to pltf. & not to C.'s assignee.—COTTER v. MASON (1870), 30 U. C. R. 181.—CAN.

6139 ii. —— ——.]—An agent took over a stock on consignment, under an agreement in writing, by which he was to account for goods sold as per price list supplied to him by the consignor, the profits over such price to belong to the agent:—Held: the consignor was entitled to be paid in full, per price list, for goods sold by the agent before his insolvency, but the price of which was collected by his assignee subsequently.—SEHLBACH v. STEVENSON (1887), M. 6139 iii. —— ——.]—H. & Co., while carrying on business in London, employed S. as their agent for disposal of their merchandise in Ireland, & by a deed executed between them on June 15, 1875, it was provided that S. should collect all debts due to H. & Co., contracted through his agency, & should accept the drafts of H. & Co. to a certain amount, as being the average amount of such debts, & that he should lodge in a bank all money received, on account of & in discharge of such acceptances. In July, 1875, H. & Co. went into a voluntary liquidation in England. S. was adjudicated bkpt. in Ireland in Dec. following. In Mar., 1876, C., as liquidator of H. & Co., exhibited a proof of debt in respect of S.'s acceptances, in the matter of S.'s bkpcy., & afterwards, under the order of the ct., furnished an account respecting same. On May 6 an order was pronounced, directing that the liquidation of H. & Co. should be carried out thenceforth under the supervision of the Ct. in England, & on May 11 C. was discharged as the liquidator of H. & Co., & M. was appointed in substitution. It was alleged that a portion of the proceeds of the debts collected by S. were not lodged by him in bank, as provided for by the deed, & no proof was entered on foot of any of his acceptances. On his assignees moving that both M. & C. should pay to them the amount of debts collected by them due to H. & Co., & that M. & C. should be restrained by injunction from collecting or receiving such debts:—Held: the motion should be refused.—Re SHERIDAN (1876), 11 I. 6144 i. Factor—Goods entrusted to.]—Goods were supplied by deft. to a trading co., & it was arranged between the co. & deft. that the co. might sell the whole or any part of the goods to whomsoever they chose, & for such price & on such terms as they might see fit, but they were, whenever a sale was made, to pay in cash to deft. the price of the article sold, according to a price list which was furnished to them by deft. when the goods were from time to time delivered to the co. The co. had also the right, whether they had made a sale or not, to become the owners of the whole or any part of the goods at the prices named in the list, & they had also the right at any time to return the whole or any of the goods which remained unsold. The co. made a statutory assignment to pltf. for the benefit of creditors, & deft. took back the goods:—Held: the goods were not at the time of the assignment the property of the co., but were in their possession either as bailees or agents of deft., with the right, if & when they elected to buy, to become the purchasers of the whole or any part of them at the prices mentioned in the price list.—LANGLEY v. KAHNERT (1905), 25 C. 6145. —— Price of goods sold by.]—A factor is in the nature of a trustee for his principal, & money due to him for goods sold belong, on his bkpcy., not to his estate, but to the principal, subject to the payment of the factor's commission.—BURDETT v. WILLETT (1708), 2 Vern. 638; 23 E. 6146. —— Proceeds of goods sold by—Right to follow—Set-off.]—If goods are consigned to a factor for sale, & he sells & receives the money before his bkpcy. & does not purchase with it any specific thing capable of being distinguished from the rest of his property, the consignors cannot recover the whole money from his assignees, but must come in under the commission. So, if the factor, at time of sale agrees to set off a debt of his own due to the vendee, it is the same as if the factor received so much money from the vendee, & the consignors must come in under the factor's commission.

But if the goods remain in specie in the factor's hands at the time of his bkpcy. consignors may recover the goods in trover from the assignees; or if a factor sells goods for his principal, & becomes bkpt. before payment, & his assignees afterwards receive the money for them, the principal may recover it from them in an action for money had & received. So, if the factor on such a sale takes notes in payment from the vendee payable to him at a future day, & his assignees afterwards receive the money due on the notes, the principal may recover it from assignees in an action for money had & received. If the assignees of a bkpt. factor receive bounty money on any article under an Act of Parliament giving the bounty to the importer, the consignor of that article may recover such bounty money from them in an action for money had & received.—SCOTT v. SURMAN (1742), Willes, 400; 125 E. 6147. —— —— Entry in factor's books.]—Where bills sold by a factor are not paid for at the time of his bkpcy., the proceeds do not belong to his assignees, but to the principal. The entry of the amount of the price in the factor's books as cash, to the credit of the principal, who has the right of drawing on them for the amount, does not change the contract of the parties, nor deprive the principal of his rights against the purchaser.—Re TRYE & LIGHTFOOT, Ex p. PAULI (1838), 3 Deac. 169; 2 Jur. 208, Ct. of R.

6150. —— Securities bought for client & pledged for purchase price—Marshalling.]—A. employed brokers to purchase securities for him, the arrangement being that on each occasion they advanced him part of the purchase price & he paid the margin in cash or in account. It was also part of the arrangement that the money so advanced should be obtained by the brokers from their bankers, on deposit of A.'s securities so purchased. The brokers pledged A.'s securities & their own with their bankers as cover for their current overdraft. On the bkpcy. of the brokers the bank paid themselves by selling A.'s securities & handed over the surplus securities in their hands to the trustee:—Held: by analogy to the doctrine of marshalling A. was entitled to have the surplus securities in the hands of the trustee applied towards satisfaction of the balance due to him from the brokers on the account between them.—Re BURGE, WOODALL & Co., Ex p. SKYRME, [1912] 1 K. 6153. —— Bills remitted to agent—For collection.]—Whether bills in possession of bkpt., not due at the time of bkpcy., pass to the assignees, or remain the property of the remitter, always turns upon the fact, whether the bills are remitted in order that the party to whom they are sent may recover the amount as agent to the party remitting, or whether the bills are so sent on a general account between the parties, that the person receiving them has a right to deal with them for his own use.

Where a foreign firm remitted to a London firm bills, some of which were not due when the London firm became bkpt. :—Held : (1) the London firm acted as agents to procure payments for the foreign firm, & were not at liberty to deal with the bills for their own purposes ; (2) the bills did not pass to the assignees.—Re POWER & WARWICK, Ex p. SMITH (1819), Buck, 355.

Under such an arrangement, the presumption was, until an agreement to the contrary was shown, that the London correspondent was not intended or entitled to treat the bills, so remitted, as cash, or to discount them before maturity :—Held : two of such bills which were existing in specie in his hands at the time of his bkpcy., & were not then due, did not pass to his assignees, but were the property of the party who had remitted them.—JOMBART v. WOOLLETT (1837), 2 My. & Cr. 389 ; Donnelly, 229 ; 6 L. From A.'s books, etc., it afterwards appeared he had applied the money of B. & Co. in reducing mtge. debts., & in investments in indigo, which had resulted in profits. The mortgaged property was afterwards sold, & a surplus resulted to bkpt.'s estate:—Held: the £2,700 was clothed with a specific trust & B. & Co. were entitled to the profits made by bkpt. on the dealings in indigo & to the surplus resulting from the sale of the mortgaged property, as the proceeds of their own money misapplied by bkpt., as far as the same could be traced.—Re HAMMOND, Ex p. BROOKE (1869), 20 L. 6171. —— Bills remitted in repayment of remittances for.]—A. abroad commissioned B., in London, to send him foreign coin, with particular directions as to the manner & times of sending it, & remitted bills, which B. discounted. The coin required not being to be had in England, B. sent two remittances, not equal to the amount of A.'s bills, to Lisbon, for the purpose of procuring it, with directions, if it could not be had, to return bills. The coin not being to be had, bills, nearly to the amount of the remittance to Lisbon, not indorsed by the correspondent there, were returned, & B. in the interval having become bkpt., were received by his assignees:—Held: A. had a lien upon those bills in the particular circumstances. Qu.: whether the lien would hold in the case of a remittance to buy goods in the way of trade.—Ex p. SAYERS (1800), 5 Ves. 169; 31 E. 6172. —— Bills deposited for long bills.]—A. places long bills indorsed by him in B.'s hands, with permission to draw without renewals bills of shorter dates, & desires B. to calculate the sum to be drawn for, allowing commission. B. discounts the bills & specifies the amount to be drawn for. This is not an exchange or sale of bills upon discount, but a deposit of the long bills on condition of being allowed to draw shorter bills, & B. having accepted A.'s bills & such acceptances being dishonoured in consequence of B.'s bkpcy., & the long bills having remained in specie in B.'s hands at the time of his bkpcy., & B.'s assignees having afterwards received the value of them, A. may recover the amount from them as money had & received to his use.—PARKE v. ELIASON (1801), 1 East, 544; 102 E. R. 210.

6173. —— Bill drawn in satisfaction of another—Right to proceeds.]—P., who was employed as agent of bkpts. to purchase hemp, drew a bill on bkpts. to obtain money for such purchases, made payable to S. P. was unable to make any purchases, & procured another bill payable to the order of bkpts., which he remitted to them, & which came into the hands of the assignees, who received the amount of it. The bill drawn by P. was dishonoured:—Held: the assignees must apply the proceeds of the bill they had received in satisfaction of the bill drawn by P.—Re RAMSAY & FOSTER, Ex p. PEYRON (1816), 2 Rose, 366.

6174. —— Proceeds of goods to meet acceptances.]—A. agreed to consign goods to B. & C. abroad, to be there sold on commission, on his account, on which deft. guaranteed that B. & C. should sell them to the best advantage, & render a just account of sales. Before any consignments were made, C. had ceased to be a partner with B., & deft. became one in his stead, under the firm of B. & Co. A. afterwards consigned goods to B. & Co., who remitted the proceeds thereof to deft., for the purpose of being handed over to A., who drew bills on deft., which he by letter agreed to accept, depending on A.'s promise to provide for them if remittances should not arrive from B. & Co. to meet them. A. became bkpt., previous to which B. & Co. had remitted to deft., directing him to pay A., on account of the goods consigned by him, which were not received by deft. till after the bkpcy. B. & Co. afterwards sent other remittances, with similar directions, with which deft. credited bkpt. in his account, & debited him for the acceptances given by him before the bkpcy., but which were paid afterwards. In an action by the assignee to recover those subsequent payments:—Held: he was not entitled to recover, as there was a specific appropriation of the proceeds to provide for deft.'s acceptances before the bkpcy.—THOMAS v. DA COSTA (1818), 2 Moore, C. P. 386; 8 Taunt. 345; 129 E. R. 416.

6175. —— ——.]—A banking co., at the request of L., gave to H., who had been instructed to buy cotton for him, a letter of credit authorising him to draw upon them, the bills of exchange to be accompanied by bills of lading of the cotton to be delivered to them on their accepting the bills. A bill for £7,798 was drawn & accepted by the co., & the bills of lading delivered to them. The co. handed the bills of lading to L., to enable him to obtain an advance. L. obtained an advance of £6,000 on them from his brokers, & paid the amount into the co., who carried it to his account. Before the bill of exchange arrived at maturity, the co. was ordered to be wound up. After the commencement of the winding up, but before any claim was sent in upon the bill, the cotton was sold by the brokers, who, after retaining £6,000, paid the balance of £574 to the holders of the bill. The holders having been allowed to prove for the whole amount of the bill, the £574 to be set off against the dividends payable to them :—Held : the £574 could not be set off against the dividends. Semble : the amount of the proof ought to have been reduced by £574.—Re BARNED'S BANKING CO., LEECH'S CLAIM (1871), 6 Ch. 6176. —— —— General agreement—No appropriation.]—An agreement between bkpt. & defts., before bkpcy., that defts. shall accept bills to enable bkpt. by his agent abroad to purchase cargoes & transmit them to defts., who were to pay their acceptances out of the proceeds & to place the surplus to the account of the bkpcy. is no defence to an action for proceeds received after the bkpcy.—CARTER v. BARCLAY (1821), 3 Stark. 43, N. P.

6177. —— Proceeds of goods sold—Acceptances on general account.]—A. trading in London on his separate account & at Brazil in partnership with B. & Co. under the firm of A. & Co. became insolvent, when four of his creditors were appointed inspectors of his estates, who it was agreed should receive the several consignments & remittances expected from the Brazil house, as trustees for the persons to whom the same might ultimately be found to belong. The Brazil house ignorant of A.'s insolvency made various consignments to A., directing him to sell them at certain places abroad & the proceeds to be placed to the account of the Brazil house, & the goods were sold under the direction of the inspectors & the proceeds received by them. At the time of A.'s insolvency he was under acceptances to the Brazil house to a larger amount than the value of the consignments, but such acceptances were on a general account & not on account of any particular consignments from the foreign house. A. afterwards became bkpt. & a cession of the effects of the Brazil house was also made to assignees according to the laws of Brazil :—Held : the assignees of the Brazil house & not the assignees of A. in England were entitled to the proceeds of the goods.—Re VANZELLER, Ex p. WUCHERER (1832), 2 Deac. & Ch. 27, Ct. of R.

6178. —— Bills remitted on account of proceeds of shipments.]—Bkpt. shipped goods to M. & F. at New South Wales, & petitioner accepted bills drawn by bkpt. for the invoice price, upon the express agreement that the proceeds of the several consignments should be received by petitioner & appropriated by him in discharge of such acceptances, & notice of the agreement was given to M. & F. Two bills, which were remitted to England by M. & F. on account of the proceeds of some of the shipments made by bkpt., came to the hands of the assignees :—Held : petitioner was entitled to the proceeds of the bills as well as all the future proceeds that might come to the hands of the assignees in respect of the shipments made by bkpt. to M. & F. to be applied in discharge of petitioner's acceptances.—Re CORMIE, Ex p FLOWER (1835), 4 Deac. & Ch. 449 ; 2 Mont. & A. 224, Ct. of R.

6179. —— Shares—Proceeds appropriated to meet bills.]—A firm in England agreed with a firm in America that the latter should purchase American bank shares & remit them to the English firm for sale, drawing bills on the English firm for the purchase-money, & the proceeds of the sale of the shares to be applied in payment of the bills. Bills were drawn by the American firm on the English firm and were negotiated. Both firms became bkpt. The certificates of the shares arrived after the bkpcy. of the English firm & came into the hands of their assignees :—Held : the certificates were clothed with a trust to retire the bills, & the proceeds of their sale must be so applied.—Re WARWICK & CLAGETT, Ex p. BROWN (1838), 3 Deac. 91 ; 3 Mont. & A. 471 ; 7 L. 6180. —— Goods consigned to meet bills.]—B., S. & Co., of Calcutta, having consigned goods to G. in England, on which they had a lien for the price, wrote him word that they intended to draw in favour of K. & Co. for the balance of such shipments, & that they inclosed bills of lading & policies of insurance for the goods in question, & they also drew a bill for the amount on G., in favour of K. & Co., which they directed G. to " place to account of shipments per B." Before the goods reached England G. became bkpt., & the goods came to the possession of his assignees :—Held : the above expressions in the bill & the letter amounted to a specific appropriation of the goods for the payment of the bill, & the assignees were bound to account to K. & Co. for the proceeds. —Re BOGGS, Ex p. GLEDSTANES (1842), 3 Mont. 6181. —— —— Lien.]—B. & Co. consigned a cargo to deft. & sent to them the bill of lading in a letter saying : " The present serves to cover bill of lading for, etc., shipped per China, against which we have valued on you at six months in favour of F., S. & Co., for £1,200, which please kindly protect." On the same day B. & Co. sent to F., S. & Co. the bill of exchange, which was drawn on defts. to the order of F., S. & Co., & concluded " place same with or without advice to account consignment per China." After the bill of lading arrived F., S. & Co., presented the bill but defts. refused to accept it. Shortly afterwards B. & Co. stopped payment, & afterwards the cargo arrived : —Held : it was effectually appropriated to meet the bill, & F., S. & Co. had a lien upon it in priority to the claim of defts. for the balance due to them on their general account as consignees.—FRITH v. FORBES (1862), 4 De G. 6182. —— —— Pledge of bills of lading—Marshalling securities—Lien.]—A firm in Ceylon employed a firm in England as their agents & factors, the course of business being that the Ceylon firm consigned cargoes to the English firm for sale on their account, & drew bills on the English firm against the consignments. Consignments of coffee having been made in such manner, & bills accepted by the English firm against them, the English firm pledged the coffee, together with securities of their own, with T., to secure a debt due from them to him. The English firm became insolvent & executed a creditor's deed under 1861 Act, & then T. sold the coffee, which produced more than sufficient to cover the bills drawn against it, & enough of the other securities to satisfy his debt :—Held : the Ceylon firm were entitled, as against the English firm in liquidation, to have the remaining securities in T.'s hands marshalled, & to have a lien thereon for the balance due to them upon the coffee transaction.—Re HOLLAND, Ex p. ALSTON (1868), 4 Ch. 6183. —— Bill of lading to meet broker's acceptances.]—Bkpts. employed petitioners as their brokers, for the sale of East India produce, & the brokers accepted bills to a large amount in favour of bkpts., on the credit of goods deposited with them for sale, & of bills of lading for goods shipped & consigned from India to bkpts. On Oct. 14, bkpts., being then in full credit, proposed to the brokers to accept bills in their favour, to the amount of £3,000, &, to induce them to do so, informed them that a cargo of oil was consigned to bkpts. from Bombay, which they intended to place in the brokers' hands for sale, & undertook to hand over to them the bill of lading, when received. On Oct. 24 a fiat was issued against bkpts., & the bill of lading came to the possession of the assignees :—Held : the brokers were entitled to have the bill of lading delivered up to them, & had a lien upon the cargo of oil for their general balance.—Re EVANS, Ex p. BARBER (1843), 3 Mont. 6184. —— Money sent to meet accommodation bills.]—A., the drawer of an accommodation bill, before its maturity, handed over money to B., the acceptor, for the purpose of meeting the bill. A fiat having been issued against B. between the day of such deposit & the maturity & payment of the bill :—Held : the money having been handed over to B. in pursuance of a binding contract, upon a good consideration, viz., an implied contract of indemnity, the bkpcy. of B. was no revocation of A.'s authority to apply the money in satisfaction of the bill, & B.'s assignees could not recover it from him in an action for money had & received to their use.—YATES v. HOPPE (1850), 9 C. 6185. —— Money paid to bank to meet bills—Instructions carried out.]—The customer of a country bank having a sum of £942 standing to his account paid in a further sum of £707, with a written direction that £500 of that sum should be forwarded to another bank to meet a bill to become due. A sum of £500 was sent as directed, but before the bill became due the country bank ceased to carry on business :—Held : the £500 was specifically appropriated, & belonged to the customer of the bank, & not to the general creditors. —FARLEY v. TURNER (1857), 26 L. 6187. —— Bills sent to meet bills.]—B. was in the habit of drawing bills on H. & Co., bankers, & of remitting bills to them to an amount fully sufficient to meet their acceptances. H. & Co. became bkpt. At that time there were in the hands of holders for value undue bills to a large amount drawn by B. upon H. & Co., & accepted by them, but H. & Co. had misappropriated the greater part of the bills remitted to meet them :—Held : B. could not have returned to him the remitted bills as remained in the hands of H. & Co., at the time of their bkpcy., but they must be applied so far as they would extend in payment of the bills accepted by H. & Co.—Re HARRISON, Ex p. CARRICK (1858), 2 De G. & J. 208 ; 44 E. 6188. —— Remittances to meet bills.]—A., a manufacturer, proposed to B. & C., the home agents of A.'s foreign consignees, that they should make advances to him against the consignments, & that "the proceeds of sales, above the advances" should go to the liquidation of an old claim of B. & C. against A. B. & C. assented to the arrangement by a letter which, after stating that there were two ways of making advances, one for A. to draw on B. & C., & take their acceptances, & negotiate them, the other for B. & C. to advance cash to A., & draw on A. for the amounts, A. to accept, & B. & C. to negotiate, concluded thus : "& we shall retire that acceptance from proceeds of the sales." In pursuance of such arrangement, A. directed his consignees to remit to B. & C., & B. & C. made advances to A. by drawing on him, negotiating his acceptances, & remitting the proceeds to him. Afterwards B. & C. being in want of money, directed the consignees to remit, not to themselves, but to bankers, C. & D., having a common partner with themselves, as a security for advances made by C. & D. to B. & C. Upon B. & C. becoming bkpt. :—Held : the remittances in the hands of C. & D. were appropriated in equity to the payment of A.'s acceptances, & subject thereto, to the discharge of the old claim.—STEELE v. STUART (1866), L. R. 2 Eq. 84 ; 14 L. T. 620.

6189. —— Bills for price of goods to be placed to account—No appropriation—Bills drawn against goods—No agreement to appropriate.]—Bills of exchange were drawn by the vendor & shipper of goods upon the purchaser for the invoice prices of the goods, with a direction to place same to account of the shipments. On the acceptance of the bills by the purchaser the bills of lading were handed over to him. The bills of exchange were dishonoured at maturity, & the purchaser became bkpt. :—Held : there was no specific appropriation of the proceeds of sale of the goods to meet the bills of exchange.—Re ENTWISTLE, Ex p. ARBUTHNOT (1876), 3 Ch. On the same day B. & Co. wrote to K. a letter of advice inclosing bills of lading for the cheese & lard, & informing K. that as against them they valued on him at sixty days sight for £2,500 favour A. The bill was not accepted, K. having heard that B. & Co. had suspended payment on Aug. 7, but on the arrival of the consignments in England, K. took possession of them & realised them, receiving the proceeds, out of which he claimed to retain a balance due to him on the general account between him & B. & Co. B. & Co. had for many years been in the habit of consigning American produce to K. & drawing bills on him in a similar form to that of Aug. 5, but there had not been any practice of specifically appropriating the remittances to meet any particular bills. A. brought an action against K. & the trustee of B. & Co., claiming to be entitled to a charge on the proceeds of the cheese & lard in priority to all other persons. No question was raised as between K. & the trustee as to their respective rights:—Held: A. was not entitled to the charge claimed either (1) on the ground that the direction on the face of the bill of exchange operated as an equitable assignment, or (2) that the letter of advice created a specific appropriation of the remittances to meet the bill in favour of B. & Co. the benefit of which was transferred to A. by the direction on the bill of exchange.—BROWN, SHIPLEY & Co. v. KOUGH (1885), 29 Ch. 6191. —— —— ——.]—A firm at Liverpool & a firm at Pernambuco employed B. as their agent at New York. According to their course of business the firm at Pernambuco received orders from persons there to purchase goods at New York. The firm instructed the Liverpool firm, who instructed B., who then purchased the goods in New York & shipped them to the firm at Pernambuco with the bills of lading. B. drew bills on the Liverpool firm to pay for the goods, but not for the precise amount of the shipments, & sold the bills in New York. B. advised the Liverpool firm of the bills, & with the advice forwarded a statement of his account with them. To each bill was attached a counterfoil headed "Advice of draft," & containing a memorandum of amount of the bill & the name of the drawer, with the words "Against shipments per (naming the vessel). Please protect the draft as advised above." The Liverpool firm on the bills being presented to them for acceptance detached the counterfoils & kept them in their own possession. Pltfs. were the holders for value of bills drawn on the Liverpool firm in accordance with such course of dealing, the goods having been shipped by B. to the Pernambuco firm & the bills of lading being also sent to that firm. On June 10, 1879, the Liverpool firm stopped payment, & on the same day B. telegraphed to the Pernambuco firm as follows:—"Having pledged documents & shipments (naming the vessel) hold proceeds for P. & Co. (pltf.)" The ship arrived on June 11, but the bills of lading had been previously delivered to the purchasers of the goods. The three bills having been dishonoured by the Liverpool firm, pltfs. brought an action against the Pernambuco firm claiming to have the bills paid out of the proceeds of the goods as having been specifically appropriated to meet the bills:—Held: there was no specific appropriation of the goods either by the course of dealing or by the "advice of draft" attached to the bills.—PHELPS STOKES & Co. v. COMBER (1885), 29 Ch. 6193. —— Money against bills.]—J. leaving England executed a power of attorney empowering H. to act for him, & afterwards was in the habit of drawing bills which were accepted by J. J. from Calcutta, whilst solvent, consigned a cargo to F. & Co., of Bombay, directing them to transmit the proceeds to H. in London. J. became a bkpt., & F. & Co., having sold the cargo, remitted to H. a draft for the amount. The question being, whether H. was entitled to retain the money:—Held: the remittance having been made in pursuance of an order given by J. when he was solvent, & without fraud, H. was entitled to retain it, he having a lien for the amount of the balance due to him.—JAMIESON v. HODSON (1815), 1 Stark. 150, N. The bills were accepted by D., but never indorsed over to A., & before they became due D. stopped payment:—Held: the jury were justified in considering that the bills were sent on the account, & at the risk, not of A. but of C., & A. having become bkpt., his assignees were entitled to recover the balance of the proceeds from C.—LUCAS v. GRONING (1816), 2 Marsh. 460; 7 Taunt. 164; 1 Stark. 391; 129 E. 6198. —— —— Over payment—Right to recover surplus.]—M., in Mar., 1859, consigned oats to the correspondents of pltfs. at Melbourne for sale, the proceeds to be remitted to pltfs., & against such consignment pltfs. accepted in favour of M. a bill at four months for £600, it being agreed that pltfs. should be repaid that sum out of the proceeds of the sale of the oats, any deficiency to be made good by M., who was also to pay interest to pltfs. on the £600 from the time the bill became due till the arrival in England of the proceeds of the oats. In June, 1859, M. became bkpt., pltfs.' acceptance remaining in his hands unnegotiated. The assignees of M. took possession of the bill, & paid it into the Bank of England, to the credit of the accountant in bkpcy. for the estate of M., & the bill was presented to pltfs.' bankers at maturity (July, 1859), & paid by them, pltfs. being in ignorance of the fact of its having remained in M.'s hands unnegotiated. The account sales of the shipment were received from Melbourne in Mar., 1860, showing that M.'s estate had been overpaid to the extent of £269 4*s.* 6*d.* :—Held : pltfs. were not in the circumstances entitled to recover back that money from the assignees.—DE PASS v. BELL (1861), 10 C. 6199. —— ——.]—It was agreed between T., a London merchant, & S. & Co., a firm carrying on business at London & Shanghai, that T. should from time to time accept bills to be drawn upon him by S. & Co. on the security of the bills of lading of goods to be consigned by them to their house at Shanghai for sale, & the net proceeds of the sale were to be remitted to the London house, which was to pay them over to T. Amongst other transactions carried out in pursuance of such agreement, T., in Mar., 1873, accepted two bills at six months' sight for £825 & £750 respectively against goods, & sent the bills of lading of the goods to S. & Co.'s house at Shanghai. They sold part of the goods in two lots for £247 & £757, & paid the proceeds of the sales, together with those of other sales, into a bank at Shanghai to their own credit, & on July 26 with those two sums, & with other money, they purchased drafts on London for £1,198 & £1,000, which they remitted to their London house "to our credit," & in their letter of that date enclosing the drafts they sent lists of sales with which they credited their London house, & which comprised the two sales for £247 & £757. The drafts, on reaching London, came into the hands of the trustee in the liquidation of S. & Co., who had filed a liquidation petition in Aug., 1873 :—Held : there was no specific appropriation, so as to entitle T. to receive the £247 & £757 out of the remittances of £1,198 & £1,000, in payment pro tanto of his acceptances for £825 & £750.—Re SCHEIBLER, Ex p. COOPER (1874), 31 L. 6200. Specific performance—Money in box deposited for—Failure of purpose.]—O. & S., bankers, being in want of funds to meet an expected run upon their bank, obtained from friends a written guarantee for £3,000, upon the strength of which defts. advanced to O. & S. £3,000. The guarantee was signed by the sureties, on the understanding with O. & S. that the money should be returned, if they found themselves, notwithstanding the advance, unable to meet the run. Defts. knew nothing of such understanding. S. received from defts. the £3,000 in notes & gold in a box, &, finding that it was impossible to meet the run, O. & S. discussed the propriety of returning the money. While discussing it they received a letter from F., one of the sureties, saying that, as the case was hopeless, O. & S. could not honourably retain the money, & that it ought to be returned, & F. afterwards, in an interview, again urged upon them the return of the money. S., in evidence, stated that the letter & the subsequent application from F. operated upon their minds in coming to the conclusion to return the money, & the box containing the money was returned to defts. unopened. O. & S. suspended payment the next day, & afterwards became bkpts. In an action by the assignees of O. & S. to recover from defts. the £3,000 :—Held : the £3,000 was advanced on the specific understanding, & clothed with the specific trust, that it should be returned if the run could not be met, &, as the purpose for which it was advanced had failed, O. & S. had only a legal, & not also an equitable, title to the money, & the interest in such money did not pass to their assignees.—EDWARDS v. GLYN (1859), 2 E. & E. 29 ; 28 L. C. had advanced money to A., on an engagement that the proceeds of the cargo should be remitted by B. to A. through C., in order that they might constitute a security for the money advanced by C. A. wrote to B. that the cargo was not responsible for any advances made by C. Nevertheless B., after the receipt of A.'s letter, remitted the proceeds to C., who retained them to cover his advance. C. in a writing admitted intimation of A.'s order, & stated that he would duly honour same, but at that time the bill was lying protested for non-acceptance, & it was not for some time subsequently that C. received money from debtor on the bill when he paid the creditor £50. C. ordered A. & Co. to keep the goods in their hands, & sell them if they could make a certain profit. Before the bill became due D. failed, & A. & Co. applied to C. for security for the bill, whereupon he gave them an order to sell the goods & apply the proceeds in payment of the bill. C. afterwards, & before the goods were sold, became bkpt. A. & Co. handed over the goods to B. at his request, but he afterwards returned them, & after they were returned, C.'s assignees, having made a demand of the goods, brought trover:—Held: they could not maintain it, for after the order given by C. to A. & C. to sell the goods & apply the proceeds in payment of the bill, they remained in their hands, subject to that charge, because A. & Co. must be presumed to have asked security as agents for B., whose ratification of their act for his benefit might also be inferred.—BAILEY v. CULVERWELL (1828), 8 B. & C. 448; 2 Mans. & Ry. On Aug. 1 L. & Co. despatched bills to B. & Co. with a letter specifically appropriating them to meet the first five of the purchased bills. On Aug. 8 B. & Co. became bkpt. On Sept. 1 L. & Co., not knowing of the bkpcy., despatched other bills to B. & Co., with a letter appropriating them to meet the other five purchased bills. There was evidence to show that the firms of L. & Co. & B. & Co. were identical:—Held: the first remittance was effectually appropriated to meet the first five purchased bills, whether the drawing & accepting houses were identical or not, & the assignees of B. & Co. held it for S. & I. to the extent of what was due on those bills. Qu.: whether the second remittance, having regard to the time when it was made & to the time of the bkpcy., was effectually appropriated to meet the latter five purchased bills.—Re LATHAM, Ex p. IMBERT (1857), 1 De G. & J. 152; 26 L. 6204. —— —— Notice.]—E., carrying on business on his own account in America, & being a partner in T. & Co. in England, drew bills on T. & Co., which he employed T. & B., another American firm, to sell for him, undertaking to provide T. & Co. with remittances to meet them at maturity. T. & B., in accordance with their usual course of dealing with E., indorsed the bills & sold them, giving to E. bills on their agent in England for the amount. E., being on the eve of insolvency, sent the bills so received from T. & B. to the English firm of T. & Co., with instructions to accept the bills drawn by himself & to hold the remittance for the purpose of meeting the payment thereof. On receipt of the remittance T. & Co. accepted the bills drawn by E., &, disregarding the instructions, handed the bills of T. & B. to L., in accordance with a previous promise made to him, in order to enable him to meet some liabilities incurred by him on behalf of T. & Co.:—Held: those bills were specifically appropriated by E. to meeting the bills drawn by him, & T. & Co. had received the remittances as agents of E., who had remitted them in a character distinct from his partnership in the firm of T. & Co., & as T. & Co. had no authority to apply the remittances to any other purpose than that directed, L., who had notice of the specific appropriation, was bound to account to T. & B. for the proceeds.—THAYER v. LISTER (1861), 30 L. A. at Liverpool having consigned goods to B. at Bahia, for sale on his, A.'s account, drew bills on B. to be paid out of the produce. A. negotiated the bills with C. in London. A. answered, "Agreeably to your instructions, I will write to B., directing him to hand over to D. property of mine in his hands to cover the amount of the bills that may eventually not be paid." A. wrote to B. a letter, which was not communicated to C., "I have engaged to C. that you shall pass into the hands of D., his agent, all the property which may exist in your hands for my account; you will arrange with D. the mode," etc. Before that letter reached Bahia A. became bkpt., & D. afterwards receiving goods from B. to an account somewhat less than the bill unpaid, sold them, & remitted the produce to C.:—Held: C. had not, at the time of the bkpcy., such an equitable interest in the goods as would prevent A.'s assignees from recovering in trover.—BURN v. CARVALHO (1834), 1 Ad. & El. 883; 4 Nev. & M. 6210. Order to pay proceeds of goods to creditor.]—H., a manufacturer, had been accustomed to consign goods by the agency of O. & Co., commission merchants, to houses in America, for sale on H.'s account. O. & Co. made advances to H. on the consignments, received the proceeds as his agents, & accounted to him, repaying themselves their commission, advances, & other charges. In 1831 H., being indebted to O. & Co. for such advances & charges, & likewise owing £5,000 to his own bankers, wrote to O. & Co. authorising them, after paying themselves their balance out of the net proceeds of H.'s shipments down to that date, to pay R. & Co., the bankers, half the remainder of such proceeds, so that the payment should not exceed £5,000. O. & Co. thereupon wrote to R. & Co., stating that they, agreeably to H.'s authority, engaged to pay R. & Co., after liquidating their own balance, a proportion of the remaining proceeds, etc., as in H.'s letter, in consideration of R. & Co. guaranteeing O. & Co. from claims by any other party in consequence of such payment. R. & Co. then wrote to O. & Co., that, understanding from H. that O. & Co. had agreed to pay any surplus balance, etc., as in H.'s letter, they, R. & Co., agreed to guarantee O. & Co. against such other claims. A few days before such correspondence, H. had transmitted to O. & Co. a letter of authority resembling that afterwards sent, & had seen a draft of a letter from them to R. & Co., like that afterwards sent by O. & Co. to R. & Co., claiming a guarantee as above, but such first authority was revoked, &

The hundi contained a statement that it was "drawn against" twenty-nine bales of wool shipped at Tuna, & it was made payable eight days after the safe arrival of the ship at Bombay. Pltfs. obtained from L., at the same time, a letter addressed by him to his firm at Bombay, which contained the following passage: "Upon you a jokhmi hundi is drawn, the particulars whereof are as follows: (R4,000). The value having been received from J., hundis for R4,000 drawn against twenty-nine bags of sheep's wool shipped on board the 'H,' from the seaport town of Tuna. . . . On the safe arrival of the vessel do you be good enough to land the goods & deliver same to J., & as to the jokhmi hundis drawn before, if in respect thereof any money has to be paid to J., do you be good enough to pay same." At the time pltfs. obtained the hundi & the letter, the goods referred to had been already shipped. On Jan. 1, 1879, the firm of L. was adjudicated insolvent by the High Ct. of Bombay. Authority to pay money.]—A legacy of £100 having been bequeathed to the wife of A., & A. being indebted to B. in £150, A. sent B. the following document, signed by himself & wife:—"We hereby authorise the exor. of the late . . . to pay to you any legacy or money that he may have bequeathed to us or either of us, in part payment of the various sums you have so kindly lent us, & your receipt shall be to them a sufficient discharge for same. There appears to be about £150 due to you." B. communicated to the exor. that he had a claim on the legacy, but the exor. said he would pay it to Mrs. A. After that communication had been made, A., in Jan., 1832, went to prison, & on Feb. 29 petitioned for his discharge under Insolvent Debtors Act, & executed an assignment to the assignee, & on May 16, 1832, he obtained his discharge. On Apr. 3, 1832, the exor. paid Mrs. A. the amount of the legacy, which she immediately paid over to B., under the authority before mentioned:—Held: the property in the legacy passed to A.'s assignee under Insolvent Debtors Act.—BEST v. ARGLES (1834), 2 Cr. & M. 394; 4 Tyr. 256; 3 L. 6212. Authority to keep chattels & place to credit of account.]—D. being captain of a ship bound to the East Indies, & proprietor of the cabin furniture, deserted the ship, & the command was taken by the mate, who was afterwards confirmed therein by the owner of the ship. On Oct. 18, while the ship was on her voyage home, D., being indebted to the owner gave him a written order as follows:—"I hereby authorise you to keep possession of my cabin furniture when the ship arrives, & to place the value of same to the credit of my account with you." The ship arrived on Dec. 5, & a fiat in bkpcy. was issued against D. on the 18th, on an act of bkpcy. committed on the 2nd:—Held: the letter was equivalent to an equitable assignment, & gave an equitable lien to the ship owner on the goods in his possession through the mate, who was the agent of the ship owner & not of bkpt., & the goods could not be recovered by the assignees.—BELCHER v. OLDFIELD (1839), 6 Bing. 6213. Charter-party—Agreement to deliver bill of lading—Freight to be paid out of proceeds.]—By charter-party, the owner agreed to let, & the charterer to hire, the vessel for six months. The owner gave the charterer the power of appointing his own master, & required him to be responsible for his conduct, & the charterer appointed a master. The freight on the goods was to be paid, according to the bills of lading, to the master, without any stipulation that it should be applied in payment of the price of the hire of the vessel. The charterer agreed to pay at the rate of 22*s.* per ton per month, for so long as she should be employed by him, such payments to be made from month to month, leaving one month's pay in abeyance, & the balance in cash on her final discharge. In an action upon the charter-party, by the assignees of the charterer, who had become bkpt., against the owner, for refusing to permit the master to deliver the cargo, deft. pleaded that bkpt., before his bkpcy., had agreed with C., the agent of deft., to deliver to him the bills of lading of the homeward cargo, & that C. should receive the proceeds thereof for the purpose of paying the freight due to deft. on the charter-party:—Held: as to such goods as were on board the vessel at the time of such agreement, or such as were specifically set apart as the homeward cargo, this was an equitable assignment to C., though no bill of lading was ever handed over to him.—BELCHER v. CAPPER (1842), 4 Man. & G. 502; 5 Scott, N. 6214. Undertaking to pay over dividends.]—A., for good consideration, gave B. a written undertaking to "pay over" to him all dividends that he should receive on his proof against bkpt.'s estate. A. became bkpt. & B. then gave notice of his claim to the trustees in the first bkpcy.:—Held: there was a good equitable assignment of the dividends, & B. was entitled as against A.'s trustee in bkpcy.—Re IRVING, Ex p. BRETT (1877), 7 Ch. 6215. Instruction to agent to sell goods & pay proceeds to creditor.]—Merchants in South America, being indebted to pltf., consigned ores to defts., their agents in England, & instructed them by letter to sell the ores & to pay to pltf. the balance of the proceeds remaining after payment of a specified sum to another creditor; they also wrote to pltf. advising him of what they had done. Before the letters arrived in England the firm in South America became bkpts., & the syndic in the bkpcy. telegraphed instructions to defts., which amounted to a revocation of the directions given in the letter of the consignors as to the disposal of the proceeds of the sale of the cargo:—Held: upon the posting of the letters in South America there was a binding equitable assignment of the balance of the proceeds to pltf., which remained unaffected by the supervening bkpcy. of the consignors.—ALEXANDER v. STEINHARDT

s. Order on building owner to pay sub-contractor.]—A. contracted with defts. to find materials & labour to erect a building to the satisfaction of the architect. For the plumbing work in connection with the building A. accepted the tender of pltf. for £80, & gave him a written order, dated Jan. 9, 1905, on defts. for that amount. The order was handed by pltf. to one of defts., & verbally accepted. Subsequently another of defts. promised that the order would be paid. On Jan. 20, A. filed a petition for liquidation of his affairs, & a receiver was appointed, who continued work under the contract until the appointment of a trustee, who completed the contract. Pltf. completed the plumbing work on Feb. 1, & received from the architect an order on defts. in the following terms:—"Please pay [pltf.] the sum of £80 on account of ambulance contract for the completion of plumbing work, which has been completed in a satisfactory manner":—Held: there was an equitable assignment to pltf. of part of a specified fund belonging to debtor in the hands of defts., which was valid as against the trustee.—ROBINSON v. PODOSKY, LENNON CLAIMANT, [1905] S. 6216. Request to pay out of specific fund.]—A letter was written by a trader to resp., one of his debtors, asking him to pay a sum of money to a third party "out of the balance of our account with you." The trader subsequently became bkpt. The letter was written before the act of bkpcy. on which the receiving order was made, & when resp. had no notice of any available act of bkpcy. :—Held : the letter was a good equitable assignment as it specified a fund, out of which the payment was to be made, & was an assignment valid against the trustee within 1914 Act, s. 45. —Re GUNSBOURG, Ex p. TRUSTEE (1919), 88 L. 6217. —— No such fund.]—A letter was written by a trader to resp., one of his debtors, asking him to pay a sum of money to a third party, & saying simply "& debit our account." There was no evidence as to the state of the account between the trader & resp. although resp. admitted he was a debtor to the trader. The trader subsequently became bkpt. The letter was written before the act of bkpcy. on which the receiving order was made, & when resp. had no notice of any available act of bkpcy. HORRIDGE, J., having held the letter was not a good equitable assignment, as it was a mere request to pay & specified no fund, out of which the payment was to be made : —Held : the letter was not a good equitable assignment, as it was a mere request to pay & there being no evidence of the state of account there was no subject matter to be assigned, & the letter was not an assignment valid against the trustee within 1914 Act, s. 45.—Re GUNSBOURG, Ex p. TRUSTEE (1919), 88 L. 6219. 6220. —— Not restricted to judicial insolvency—One estate bankrupt & one insolvent administered in chancery—Composition deed providing for application of bankruptcy rules.]—The principle established in Waring's Case is not to be restricted to cases of judicial insolvency.

According to the dealing between a mercantile firm & a customer, it was the practice of the former to buy goods in England on account of the customer (he giving his acceptances for their price), & to remit the goods to the firm abroad, who were to sell the goods & invest the proceeds in return consignments, which were to be applied in keeping the customer out of cash advances in respect of his acceptances. The mercantile firm became bkpts., but afterwards they entered into an arrangement with their creditors, & the bkpcy. was superseded & a composition deed executed, whereby it was provided that all claims of the holders of bills upon any goods in the hands of the firm should be reserved, & that all questions as to their rights should be decided according to the laws in bkpcy. The customer died insolvent without having paid the bills. The return consignments came to the hands of the trustees under the composition deed. Several of the bills were in the hands of third parties, by whom they had been discounted. In a suit instituted by them on behalf of themselves & all the other bill-holders :—Held : they were entitled to participate ratably in the sum realised by the return consignments without prejudice to their rights to prove for the difference under the trust deed. Qu. : whether, in the absence of the provision in the deed of composition that all questions as to the rights of the creditors were to be decided according to the bkpt. laws, the bill-holders as such would have been entitled by a suit in equity to the same relief (TURNER, L.J.).—POWLES v. HARGREAVES (1853), 3 De G. Shortly afterwards, both M. & M. & Co. became insolvent, & the bank claimed the benefit of the mtge. :—Held : the bank was not entitled to a prior claim upon the security over the assignee of M. & Co., in respect of the $600 & the rule in Waring's Case, gave them no assistance.—Re MORTON, MOLSONS BANK v. MACCRAE (1878), 3 A. 6221. —— —— Acceptors in liquidation—Drawers in partnership of whom one insane & one insolvent.]—Bankers in London granted to merchants in Ceylon a letter of credit, authorising them to draw for sums not exceeding £10,000 at one time, the drafts to be covered by remittances on good London houses. The bankers agreed also, as a separate engagement, with the bonâ fide holders of the bills, that the bills should be accepted on presentation, & paid at maturity. The course of dealing between the parties was as follows :—If the remittances sent as cover for the merchants' drafts matured later than the drafts accepted, interest was debited by the bankers against the merchants from the date of the maturity of the acceptances to that of the maturity of the remittances, while, if the remittances matured earlier than the acceptances, interest was credited to the merchants. The bankers dealt with the remittances as they thought expedient, & the proceeds were paid into the general banking account of their firm. Under the letter of credit bills were drawn by the merchants on the bankers, & were accepted by them, & other bills were remitted by the merchants to cover the acceptances, the letters which accompanied the remittances always describing them as sent to cover particular drafts which were specified. The bankers filed a petition, under which a trustee was appointed. The merchants also stopped payment. At the date of the petition acceptances under the letter of credit to the amount of £11,535 were outstanding, to meet which the bankers had received from the merchants remittances to the amount of £3,009, of which two bills remained in specie in the hands of the bankers, the others having been converted by them into cash. After the filing of the petition two other bills, which had been posted by the merchants before they knew of the stoppage of the bankers, came into the hands of the receiver under the petition. The merchants' firm consisted of two partners, one of whom was insane, & resident in Germany. The same partner procured an adjudication of insolvency against himself in Ceylon, & under that insolvency an assignee was appointed. The sane partner deposed that " under this insolvency my estate, & also the estate of my firm, so far as legally can be, is now being administered," & such evidence was not contradicted :—Held : the joint estate of the merchants, as well as that of the bankers, was under a forced administration, & the rule applied.

I will deal with the objection, that the estate of the drawers & the acceptors of the bills are not both being judicially administered, one of the partners in the drawers' firm being solvent, & residing in Germany. That difficulty has been satisfactorily explained. The partner, who is resident in Germany, is of unsound mind, & the business of the partnership has been carried on under a power of attorney, which was given when he was of sound mind, & the affidavit of the other partner states that the joint estate is, so far as the law will allow, being administered under the insolvency in Ceylon, & this is not contradicted. We must take it that the joint estate is being administered just as it would be in similar circumstances in England (COTTON, L.J.).—Re SUSE, Ex p. DEVER (1885), 14 Q. B. D. 611 ; 54 L. J. Q. 6222. —— Restricted to insolvency subject to jurisdiction of court—Drawer insolvent but liable to be sued.]—M., a foreigner, drew a bill on Y., which was accepted, & remitted a bill of exchange to cover it. Before the acceptance became payable, Y. filed a petition, & the remittance came in specie to the hands of the receiver appointed in the liquidation. A composition was afterwards accepted. M. was also insolvent, & had, since making the remittance, entered into a composition with some of his creditors, but had not made any cession of his property, & remained liable to be sued on the bills :—Held : as M., though unable to pay his debts, was liable to be sued, was free to deal with his property as he pleased, & was not subject to the jurisdiction of any ct., the rule did not apply, & the holder of Y.'s acceptance could not claim payment out of the remittance, as both insolvencies must be of a judicial or quasi-judicial character.—Re YGLESIAS & Co., Ex p. GENERAL SOUTH AMERICAN Co. 6223. —— Drawer or acceptor being company ordered to be wound up—Not actually insolvent.]—The principle established in Waring's Case does not apply where the acceptor or drawer is a joint stock co. which has been ordered to be wound up, unless it be shown that the co. is actually insolvent.—Re NEW ZEALAND BANKING CORPN., HICKIE & Co.'S CASE (1867), L. 6224. —— Bills accepted for accommodation.]—L. deposited securities with a co., upon an agreement that the co. might sell them & apply the proceeds in reimbursing themselves any money owing by L. to them. The co. accepted bills for L.'s accommodation, & before they were paid, went into liquidation, & L. made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors. The only liability of L. to the co. was in respect of the bills :—Held : the rule did not apply & neither the bill holders nor L. were entitled to have the proceeds of the sale of the securities applied in payment of the bills.—Re NEW ZEALAND BANKING CORPN., LEVI & Co.'S CASE (1869), L. 6225. —— Party remitting not drawer or indorser—Bills drawn in respect of transaction in which he is liable.]—It is no objection to the application of the rule that the party sending the remittance was not a party to the bills as drawer or indorser, provided the bills were drawn in respect of a transaction in which he is liable.—Re RICHARDSON, Ex p. SMART (1872), 8 Ch. 6226. —— Bills not accepted—Holder with no right of double proof against both insolvent parties.]—The rule does not apply to a case where the bills drawn by one of the insolvent firms on the other have not been accepted, nor in any other case, in which the holder of the bills has no right of double proof against the two firms.

R. & Co. of Brazil drew bills on A. in England for £2,000, which they sold to pltf., & transmitted to A. acceptances of another house for £1,900 to cover the bills drawn. Before the covering remittances reached England, R. & Co. stopped payment & presented a petition for liquidation. A. being also in difficulties, refused to accept the bills drawn on him, & also became a liquidating debtor. Pltf., as holder of the dishonoured bills, filed a bill against the trustees of the estates of R. & Co. & A., praying that the remittances might be applied in payment of the bills:—Held: pltf. was not entitled to have the bills remitted to A. appropriated to meet the dishonoured bills held by him.—VAUGHAN v. HALLIDAY (1874), 9 Ch. 6227. —— Bills drawn against work done—Work abandoned.]—Where an insolvent purchaser abandons a contract for the construction of a chattel, under which the purchase-money is to be paid by instalments during the progress of the work, having previously given acceptances for the instalments due, the holder of such acceptances, in the event of the subsequent insolvency of the vendor, will have no right, under the rule, to have the chattel sold, & the proceeds applied in discharge of the acceptances.—Re LINDSAY, Ex p. LAMBTON (1875), 10 Ch. 6229. Acceptor of bills holding security—Drawer & acceptor both bankrupt—Whether securities available to holders.]—Country bankers were in the habit of drawing upon their London bankers & remitting to them cash & bills to meet their liability. Both became bkpt. At the date of their bkpcy. the London bankers had accepted bills drawn by the country bankers, which remained unpaid, & had been proved under both commissions, & they were indebted to the country bankers in cash & short bills, & had security which was realised. In the result they were indebted to the country bankers for a large amount. The holders of the outstanding acceptances applied that the proceeds of the short bills & of the security should be applied by the assignees of the London bankers to the payment of the acceptances, & that the bills not converted should be delivered to petitioners towards the payment due on the acceptances, as far as the same should extend:—Held: the securities were available to the holders in discharge of the acceptances, not directly, but as the true way of arranging the equities between the two estates.—Re BRICKWOOD, Ex p. WARING, Re BRACKEN, Ex p. INGLIS (1815), 2 Rose, 182; 2 Gl. & J. 404; 19 Ves. 345; 34 E. 6229 i. Acceptor of bills holding security—Drawer & acceptor both bankrupt—Whether securities available to holder.]—Where B. accepts bills drawn by A. against goods left in B.'s hands as security, if both become bkpt. the bill-holder can rank on the estate of each for the amount of the bills to the effect of recovering full payment, but B.'s estate is entitled to be indemnified for any dividends which his estate may be required to pay in respect of the bills, A.'s estate having a right to the balance of the proceeds of the goods, after such indemnity has been given.

By agreement between A. & B., the latter undertook to employ his works in heckling & spinning yarns at a specific rate. By art. 8 of the agreement it was provided that all material & yarn at B.'s works should continue to be the sole property of A., subject only to the lien of B. for the cost of manufacture & for advances made by him, or other debts due to him by A. By art. 9 B. became bound to give his acceptances for a sum not exceeding three-fourths of the value of the raw material & yarn held by him on A.'s account, & should be entitled to "a right of lien or retention of goods to a value sufficient to cover such acceptances." Both A. & B. became bkpt. At the date of the bkpcy. B. was liable as acceptor on bills drawn by A. to the amount of £16,000, & he held goods belonging to A., afterwards sold for £4,025 14*s.* 2*d.*, on which he had a right of lien or retention to indemnify him from that liability. The holders of the bills claimed to have the whole proceeds applied, in the first place in payment of the bills, as far as they would extend, so as to reduce their amount of proof against the two estates to about £12,000 instead of £16,000. B.'s trustees maintained that the bill-holders must continue to rank on both bkpt. estates for the full amount of the bills, & claimed that all dividends paid by them to the bill-holders out of B.'s estate should be repaid to them from the fund in medio:—Held: B.'s trustees were entitled to the fund in medio, in order that they might apply it towards their relief from the payments which they were liable to make in the shape of the dividends to the holders of the bills; (2) the balance of the fund, if any, was payable to A.'s trustee.—ROYAL BANK OF SCOTLAND v. COMMERCIAL BANK OF SCOTLAND (1882), 7 App. Cas. 366; 47 L. The yarn was invoiced to N., & the bills were expressed to be for value received in yarn. The bills were dishonoured, & both B. & N. became bkpts. B. was indebted to his bankers, to whom the bills had been indorsed, beyond the amount of the bills. N.'s assignees possessed themselves of the yarn, & B.'s bankers sought to have it sold, & the proceeds applied in payment of the amount due on the bills, with liberty to prove for any deficiency against the estates of B. & N.:—Held: the bankers were entitled to the relief claimed.—Re NEVILLE, Re BOWES, Ex p. PERFECT (1830), Mont. 25.

6232. —— —— —— Holders paid more than amount of security.]—Co. A. guaranteed bills for £35,000 accepted by co. B., & co. B. assigned to co. A. property as security for the payment of the bills. Both cos. were wound up by the ct., & the holders of the bills, who had no notice of the security, proved against both estates for the whole amount of the bills, & recovered from co. A. £21,000, & from co. B. £5,250. Afterwards the security was realised, & produced £23,500:—Held: the proceeds of the security were part of the estate of co. A., & were divisible among its creditors.

The holders of these bills of exchange are not entitled to have the benefit of this security in the way in which they ask for it. There has been more paid to the bill-holders than the amount of their security, which really disposes of the whole matter, & they are entitled to nothing more (LORD ROMILLY, M.R.).—Re JOINT STOCK DISCOUNT CO., LODER'S CASE (1868), L. 6233. —— —— —— Bills substituted for those to which securities appropriated.]—M. borrowed money from the R. co., for which he accepted & gave to them bills of exchange, & deposited shares as a collateral security. When the bills became due M. wished the loan continued, & the managing director of the co. sent him for acceptance fresh bills, with a letter stating them to be in place of those falling due. M. accepted the new set of bills on that footing. Afterwards M. died insolvent, & the co. was ordered to be wound up, & was admitted to be utterly insolvent. Both sets of bills had been negotiated, & were outstanding. The holders of the first set of bills having applied to have such first set paid by means of the deposited shares:—Held: the rule did not apply in favour of the holders of the first set of bills, for the co., after receiving the new bills in place of the old ones, were bound to indemnify M. against the old ones, & had no right to apply his shares in payment of them. Qu.: whether the rule was not applicable in favour of the holders of the new bills.—Re GENERAL ROLLING STOCK CO., Ex p. ALLIANCE BANK (1869), 4 Ch. There was a general current account between the two firms. K. & L. each became insolvent:—Held: in the circumstances the mtge. was a security for money advanced to meet the bills, & the holders of the bills were entitled to the benefit of the mtge. securities, & to have the money received from the mtge. security applied pro ratâ in payment of the bills.—CITY BANK v. LUCKIE (1870), 5 Ch. 6236. —— —— —— Holders' proof reduced by amount realised from securities.]—All the parties to certain bills of exchange, the payment of which was secured as between some of them, became insolvent, one of them, a co., being ordered to be wound up. The securities were realised, & the proceeds paid to the bill-holders. After the bills had matured, but before the securities were realised, the holders had proved against the co. for the full amount:—Held: the proof must be reduced by the amounts received by the bill-holders from the securities, & any dividends received on the excess of the original over the reduced proof must be refunded.—Re BARNED'S BANKING CO., Ex p. JOINT STOCK DISCOUNT CO. (1875), 10 Ch. App. 198; 44 L. J. Ch. 494; 31 L. T. 862; 23 W. R. 281, L. JJ.

6237. —— —— —— Securities insufficient to cover acceptances.]—Where the securities are in sufficient to cover the whole amount of the acceptances, the rule confers a benefit upon the bill-holders to which they are not entitled, at the expense of the acceptors, which is inequitable, nor can it be reconciled with the reasons of Lord Eldon's judgment in Waring's Case.

The reasons assigned by Lord Cranworth in Powles v. Hargreaves, No. 6220, ante, to justify the extension of Waring's Case to the case of a deficient security overlook the fact that, when the whole benefit of a deficient security is given to the bill-holder, the estate of bkpt. acceptor may lose some part of the indemnity to which, by the contract, he is entitled (LORD SELBORNE, C.).—ROYAL BANK OF SCOTLAND v. COMMERCIAL BANK

At the same time, E. executed to S. & B. a mtge. on his farm to secure them to the extent of $5,000 or so much as might remain unpaid of such $15,000 after applying the proceeds of the chattel property so mortgaged in payment thereof. In July following, A. executed another indenture or trust deed, reciting such mtge., & he thereby assigned all outstanding debts due or owing to him, 6238. ——————————.]—Bankers in London granted merchants in Ceylon letters of credit, authorising them to draw for any sums not exceeding £10,000 at one time. The bankers filed a liquidation petition, at which date there were outstanding acceptances for £11,535 against remittances for £3,009. The drawers were judicially insolvent:—Held: the rule applied.

It is said that the securities were sent to cover the whole of the bills drawn under the letter of credit. If that were so, the rule would still apply, but it would apply in favour of all the holders of acceptances (BRETT, M.R.).—Re SUSE, Ex p. DEVER (1885), 14 Q. B. D. 611; 54 L. J. Q. B. 390; 53 L. 6239. —— —— —— Rescission of agreement between drawer & acceptor before holders' application.]—A contract for building a ship provided that the purchase-money was to be paid by instalments, partly in cash, & partly by means of bills of exchange, to be paid & given at specified stages of the progress of the construction, the balance being paid on completion by a bill. The ship was from the time of paying or giving the first instalment to be the absolute property of the purchaser to the extent of his advances, subject, nevertheless, to the builder's lien for any unpaid instalments. Any bills given during construction were to be retired by the purchaser at completion & transfer. As the construction of the ship went on, the vendor drew bills upon the purchaser, which he accepted, for the instalments of purchase-money. The bills were negotiated, but before any of them became due, the purchaser took proceedings for liquidation, including his liability on the bills among his debts, & his creditors passed a resolution to accept a composition. The bill-holders refused to accept the amount of composition when tendered. The purchaser shortly after the resolution gave notice to the vendor to rescind the contract. The vendor afterwards became bkpt., & the ship was completed by his trustee. The bill-holders claimed a lien on the ship:—Held: the principle of Waring's Case was not applicable, & the bill-holders had no lien on the ship.

The bill-holders never, either by contract or the conduct of anybody, acquired or had any charge whatever, direct or indirect, upon this thing which was to have been a ship, & which has now become a ship (JAMES, L.J.).

The rule only applies either where the property of the acceptor has been pledged with the drawer, or the property of the drawer has been pledged with the acceptor, & not where the property is exclusively the property of one of the parties (MELLISH, L.J.).—Re LINDSAY, Ex p. LAMBTON (1875), 10 Ch. Should any profit arise, I shall look to you for my half share." E. & T. & M. both became bkpt., before which petitioners had discounted the bills without any notice of the circumstances in which they were given, or of E.'s lien on the proceeds of the shipment:—Held: accounts of the shipment were to be taken, & the joint creditors of E. & T. & M. might prove, & the surplus applied in payment of petitioners, & the surplus, if any, paid to the separate estates of bkpts.—Re THOMPSON & MILDRED, Re EVANS, Ex p. PRESCOTT (1834), 1 Mont. & A. 316; 3 Deac. & Ch. 218, Ct. of R.; subsequent proceedings, 4 Deac. & Ch. 23, Ct. of R.

Some shipping documents were sent, & some bills were accepted; one bill was accepted without any shipping documents; before any bills were due, the bankers became bkpt., & bills ar iving immediately afterwards were left unaccepted. Nearly all the composition notes S. & B. subsequently paid.

6246. —— —— Right of holders to payment out of proceeds of goods.]—Merchants consigned goods to a factor, & agreed that he should have a lien on them & their proceeds, for the payment of the factor's acceptances in their favour. The merchants & the factor became bkpt. Prior to the bkptcies., the factor had received out of the proceeds of the goods £5,867, & his assignees afterwards received £3,150 from the proceeds of those remaining unsold at the factor's bkpcy., at which time acceptances for £9,017 on bills drawn by the merchants were undue & unpaid. The merchant's bankers & the holders of the bills to the amount of £5,837, had proved for their cash balance against the merchants' estate, & for the bills they held against the factor's estate, & claimed a portion of the £3,150 towards the payment of the bills:—Held: the factor's right against the property was merely to protect himself against his acceptances in favour of the merchants, & the £3,150 must be applied towards the payment of the bills held by the bankers & other bill-holders, & the proofs against both estates must be proportionately reduced.—Re MUNDY, Re GLASS, Ex p. HOBHOUSE, Ex p. GOWER (1837), 2 Deac. 291; 6 L. The bills were negotiated by R. & Co., in America, who advised the English house that they had drawn such bills against the shares. The certificates, arriving after the bkpcy. of the English house, came into the hands of the official assignee, & shortly afterwards R. & Co. stopped payment. The foreign firm drew bills on the English firm & sold them in America, & with the proceeds purchased goods which they shipped to England, sending the bills of lading directly to the English firm, & at the same time advising them of the drawing of the bills, by means of which they had purchased the goods, & requesting them to carry the invoice price of the goods to their account. The English firm went into liquidation, & the foreign firm also became bkpt. When the English firm stopped payment, a cargo of goods was in transitu, & some of the bills drawn for purchasing them had been accepted by the English firm, but not paid, & others had not been accepted. The trustee in the liquidation took possession of the cargo on its arrival. The creditors of the foreign firm claimed to have the

6250. —— —— Right of holders to balance of proceeds of goods.]—In the ordinary course of business between P. & Co. & deft., P. & Co. bought, on Sept. 14, 1869, a cargo of maize afloat from H., & resold it to deft. on same day. On Oct. 4 they paid H. a deposit of £883 15*s.*, & drew a bill on deft. for that amount. The bill having been duly accepted, was discounted by pltfs. As between deft. & P. & Co. the bill was drawn & accepted, on the terms that the proceeds of the cargo should be applied to take it up when due. Deft., on the cargo arriving, sold it through P. & Co. to C., who closed the sale at their request by paying H. what remained due to him, & taking up directly from him the shipping documents, which had been retained by him. After making such payment a balance of £415 10*s.* remained in C.'s hands. On Dec. 2 P. & Co. suspended payment & executed an inspectorship deed, to which pltfs. assented, & under which they proved. On Dec. 20 deft. executed a composition deed, to which pltfs. assented, reserving their rights in respect of the above-mentioned balance. Had P. & Co. not suspended payment, they would have been entitled according to the custom of dealing applicable to the sale of the cargo, & it would have been their duty to have specifically applied the balance to taking up the bill. Deft. having commenced an action against C. to recover such balance, an interpleader issue was directed between pltfs., who also claimed it, & deft. Neither P. & Co. nor their trustees claimed any interest for themselves in the fund in dispute :—Held : pltfs. were entitled to have the sum in C.'s hands applied pro tanto to discharging the bill which they had discounted.—BANK OF IRELAND v. PERRY (1871), L. R. sold the goods in his own name. W. afterwards became bkpt., & the assignees of W. gave notice to the buyers of the goods not to pay R. the money due in respect of such sale. All the debts owing for the goods were afterwards, by indenture, to which R. & the assignees of W. were parties, assigned to trustees, upon trust to apply same as R. might legally do if the assignment had not been made. R. afterwards became bkpt. The trustees having received the proceeds of the goods filed their bill against the assignees of W. & of R., for the direction of the ct. in the execution of the trust. By the decree the master was directed to state what bills of exchange had been accepted against the goods, & the amount & particulars of such acceptances, & the amount unpaid, & for that purpose he was at liberty to publish advertisements. Under such advertisements several claims were made before the master by K., & by other holders of the bills accepted by R. On further directions :—Held : (1) the bill-holders had no interest in the proceeds of the goods, except that which might arise from the result of the contract between R. & W. & P. ; (2) if there had been no bkpcy., the bill-holders could not have sustained a suit to have the proceeds of the goods applied for their benefit, & the happening of the bkpcies. did not affect the equitable rights of the parties ; (3) the general account as between the estates of W. & of R. being waived by the respective assignees, the assignees of R. were entitled to recover the trust fund, & to administer it in that bkpcy.—LAYCOCK v. JOHNSON (1847), 6 Hare, 199 ; 16 L. 6253. —— —— ——.]—A trader & a firm of traders having agreed to assist one another by mutual advances, the following dealings took place between them. The trader delivered to the firm acceptances & a quantity of wool, & procured bills drawn by the firm to be accepted by strangers on the trader's indemnity. He also made payments on account of the firm. The firm on their part advanced to him cash to the amount of £5,000, & delivered to him several acceptances, exceeding the amount of the acceptances delivered & procured by the trader as above mentioned. By a contemporaneous memorandum, signed by the trader, he stated that he had consigned the wool in consideration of the advance of £5,000, & that the firm were to be at liberty to sell it if he should not, when called upon, reimburse their "advances." The acceptances were chiefly those of strangers. The wool was deposited in pursuance of an agreement that it was to be a security for all the advances made by the firm, & the evidence did not show that the cash received by the firm upon the discount of the acceptances received by them from & on the indemnity of the trader did not exceed the cash advance of £5,000. Bills accepted to be paid for out of proceeds of other bills—Drawer & acceptor both bankrupt—Holders paid in full—Right of trustee of acceptor to stand in place of holders.]—B. & Co. drew bills on K. & Co., which K. & Co. accepted for the accommodation of B. & Co., & in order to provide for the payment of the acceptances B. & Co. remitted to K. & Co. cash & deposited with them bills payable to B. & Co., & the amount of those bills was received by K. & Co. & placed by them to the credit of B. & Co.'s cash account. Both firms became bkpt., K. & Co. in July, 1812, & B. & Co. in Aug., there was then a large balance owing by B. & Co. to K. & Co. on the cash account, K. & Co. being also liable to a large amount upon bills accepted by them for the accommodation of B. & Co. & having in their hands bills, also to a large amount, deposited with them by B. & Co. to provide for the payment of such acceptances. Before any dividend was declared upon the estate of K. & Co. their assignees realised from the deposited bills more than sufficient to liquidate the cash balance due from B. & Co. The holders of the accommodation bills proved against both estates & were fully paid, receiving from each estate at different times dividends to the amount of 10*s.* in the pound, & the sum thus paid in dividends by the estate of K. & Co. exceeded by above £6,000 the total sum realised from the deposited bills. No debt was proved or attempted to be proved by the estate of K. & Co. against the estate of B. & Co. until 1847, when a further portion of the outstanding estate of B. & Co. was realised but to an amount insufficient to complete a payment of 20*s.* in the pound to their creditors exclusively of K. & Co. :—Held : (1) the assignees of K. & Co. were entitled to prove as a debt due from the estate of B. & Co. the amount of the cash balance & also the £6,000, & in respect of the £6,000 & until thereby same was repaid, they were entitled to the benefit as to any future dividends of the proofs made against the estate of B. & Co. by the accommodation bill-holders; (2) the cash balance was not liquidated by the receipt of the larger sum from the deposited securities by the assignees of K. & Co. previously to the declaration of the first dividend, they being entitled in the circumstances to appropriate the sum so received in the way they considered most beneficial to their estate, & as to the right of the assignees of K. & Co. to stand in the place of the bill-holders, the case fell within 49 Geo. 3, c. 121.—Re BULMER, Ex p. JOHNSON (1853), 3 De G. By an unwritten agreement L. & Co. were also in the habit of drawing bills upon R. & Co., & selling the drafts to bankers & others, & then of buying bills & remitting them to London to keep R. & Co. in funds to meet their acceptances of the drafts so drawn upon them, the amounts being carried into general account. R. & Co. stopped payment. At the time, undue acceptances of theirs were running to the extent of about £25,000. L. & Co. also stopped payment, & were made insolvent according to the law of the island. After the stoppage of the London firm, drafts arrived in London for acceptance to the amount of about £16,000, which were dishonoured, & remittances arrived to the amount of nearly £12,000. R. & Co. were afterwards made bkpt. :—Held : (1) there was no specific appropriation of the remittances to cover the drafts sent home by the said mails for acceptance; (2) the remittances must be carried into general account between the firms, & so far as they were in specie, or to be treated as in specie, at the time of the bkpcy. the principle of Waring's Case and Powles v. Hargreaves, No. 6220, ante, must apply.—TRIMINGHAM v. MAUD (1868), L. A separate account of the transactions was kept, styled "No. 1 account," & the letters inclosing the remittances directed them to be placed to G.'s credit in account No. 1. Accounts were made out half-yearly. Each remittance was entered under the date when the bill came to hand, but if it became payable before the close of the account, G. was credited with interest for the interval between the day of its falling due & the close of the account. If it fell due after the close of the account, he was debited with interest for that period. If a remitted bill was dishonoured, G. was debited with the costs, & entries of principal & interest were made on the opposite side of the account so as virtually to strike the bill out of the account. Y. stopped payment & made a statutory composition of 3*s.* 4*d.* in the pound with his creditors, including the holders of his outstanding acceptances for G. At the time of the stoppage if he was credited with only 3*s.* 4*d.* in the pound on these acceptances, the balance was in favour of G. without taking into account a number of bills remitted by G. & still remaining in specie. G., who was domiciled in Spain, shortly afterwards entered into some composition with his creditors, but its nature did not appear :—Held : the remittances were appropriated to No. 1 account, & as Y. had been fully reimbursed all that he had paid or was liable to pay for G. on that account, the remittances remaining in specie belonged to G. —Re YGLESIAS, Ex p. GOMEZ (1875), 10 Ch. 6258. —— —— ——.]—Bankers in London granted to merchants in Ceylon a letter of credit, authorising them to draw for sums not exceeding £10,000 at one time, the drafts to be covered by remittances on good London houses. The bankers agreed also, as a separate engagement, with the bonâ fide holders of the bills, that the bills should be accepted on presentation, & paid at maturity. The course of dealing between the parties was as follows :—If the remittances sent as cover for the merchants' drafts matured later than the drafts accepted, interest was debited by the bankers against the merchants from the date of the maturity of the acceptances to that of the maturity of the remittances, while, if the remittances matured earlier than the acceptances, interest was credited to the merchants. The bankers dealt with the remittances as they thought expedient, & the proceeds were paid into the general banking account of their firm. Under the letter of credit bills were drawn by the merchants on the bankers, & were accepted by them, & other bills were remitted by the merchants to cover the acceptances, the letters which accompanied the remittances always describing them as sent to cover particular drafts which were specified. The bankers filed a petition, under which a trustee was appointed. The merchants also stopped payment. At the date of the petition acceptances under the letter of credit to the amount of £11,535 were outstanding, to meet which the bankers had received from the merchants remittances to the amount of £3,009, of which two bills remained in specie in the hands of the bankers, the others having been converted by them into cash. After the filing of the petition two other bills, which had been posted by the merchants before they knew of the stoppage of the bankers, came into the hands of the receiver under the petition. The estate of the merchants was being administered in insolvency:—Held: the proceeds of the four remitted bills which were in specie at the commencement of the liquidation must be applied, not in paying the whole of the acceptances ratably, nor in paying ratably all those acceptances to meet which remittances had been sent before the filing of the liquidation petition, but in paying those acceptances to meet which the four bills had been appropriated by the letters with which they were sent.

When remittances are sent in such circumstances to cover drafts of the remitter accepted by the remittee, the remittee may, so long as he is solvent, be entitled, by mercantile usage or the course of dealing between the parties, to deal with the remittances as he pleases, but, so soon as he becomes insolvent, the remitter is entitled to insist on having the remittances applied in paying the acceptances, & that right is the foundation of the rule, but the right extends only to those remittances which remain in specie at the date of the insolvency.—Re SUSE, Ex p. DEVER (1885), 14 Q. Agent to buy stock—Right to stock purchased.]—A. sent money to a financial firm to be invested by them in an American concern, &, the stock being short, they paid her money into a special account at a bank, in the joint names of the directors of the firm, to await the time when the stock should be delivered. Subsequently a liquidator of the firm was appointed, & when the stock was delivered the bank applied the money in taking it up:—Held: the payment into the bank was a clear method of providing for the purchase of the stock, & the firm were trustees for A., who was entitled to the stock.—Re CHAPLIN, MILNE GRENFELL & Co., LTD. (1915), 59 Sol. Jo. 250.

6267. Agent to sell goods—Right to bills in payment in hands of agent.]—A merchant abroad employed debtor to sell wines on commission, & to purchase wines on his account, for which he provided letters of credit. Debtor became bkpt.:—Held: the bills & notes in the hands of bkpt. for the payment of wine, which could be distinguished, must be given up, but with regard to money the produce of sales, which was mixed with that of the bkpt., no order could be made.—Re HUNTER, Ex p. MOLDAUT (1833), 3 Deac. & Ch. 351, Ct. of R.

6268. —— Auctioneer—Right to proceeds of sale.]—Where an auctioneer received money after his bkpcy. in respect of a sale for a customer, & paid it to the official assignee, the sum was ordered to be repaid to the customer.—Re SHUTTLEWORTH, Ex p. PARSONS (1854), 2 Bankr. & Ins. R. 4.

6269. —— —— ——.]—Deceased was an auctioneer holding cattle sales in B. It was alleged that his course of business was to sell stock in his own name, giving varying credit to the buyers, but paying the vendors at the conclusion of the sale if they so wished, or otherwise within two days, irrespective of the time of payment of the purchase price by the buyers. His conditions of sale provided that he sold as commission agent & would in no way be liable as principal, & that the remedy of the vendor should be against the purchaser only. On Apr. 23, 1912, deceased held a sale at B. at which, among other lots, he disposed of cattle belonging to C. On Apr. 24 deceased left his office, & on Apr. 25 committed suicide. Earlier on the same day his son had paid into a special account at the bank the proceeds of such sale, amounting to £794, including a cheque from the purchaser of C.'s cattle for the amount due. On May 24 an order was made for administration of deceased's estate in bkpcy., & G. was appointed trustee. The vendor, C., applied for an order that the trustee should pay over to him the purchase price of the cattle, less the auctioneer's commission:—Held: (1) there was no evidence of an agreement by which the vendor became the creditor of the auctioneer & looked to him alone & not to the purchaser for payment; (2) the auctioneer received the money in a fiduciary capacity; (3) as it could be traced, it must be paid over to the vendor.—Re COTTON, Ex p. COOKE (1913), 108 L. T. 310; 57 Sol. Jo. 343, C. A.

6270. —— Broker—Right to proceeds of sale.]—C., a trustee, employed a broker, who had notice of the trust to sell consols & invest the proceeds in railway stock. The broker sold the consols for cash, bought railway stock to same amount for settling-day, & received the price of the consols in a cheque, which he paid into his account at his bankers. He stopped payment before settling-day, & went into liquidation. C. claimed so much of the broker's balance at his bankers as was attributable to the price of the consols:—Held: as the price of the consols was known by the broker to be trust money, it could be followed, & the claim must be allowed.

Apart from the question of trust, the position of a broker is not that of a banker, but of an agent into whose hands money is put to be applied in a particular way, & money paid to him can be followed by the customer (JAMES, L.J., & BRAMWELL, J.A.).—Re STRACHAN, Ex p. COOKE (1876), 4 Ch. 6271. Agent to sell land—Solicitor—Right to proceeds of sale.]—B., a solr., was employed by the trustees for sale of an estate, his duty being to receive the purchase-money & pay it in to the trustees' banking account. B. received large sums, paid them in to his private account, & died insolvent. His banking account at his death showed a large credit, principally made up of specific sums which corresponded with receipts by him on account of sales of the trust estate:—Held: the specific sums could be followed by the trustees.—BIRT v. BURT (1877), 11 Ch. 6272. Agent to sell bonds—Solicitor—Right to proceeds of sale—Appropriation of drawings out from banking account.]—A solr., who died insolvent, had sold bonds, the property of the trustees of his marriage settlement, for £770, & other bonds, the property of a client, for £1,804, & paid the proceeds to the credit of his own banking account. The £770 was entered in the account before the £1,804. Before his death he had drawn out amounts, which covered the whole £770, & a large part of the £1,804, but there had always been a balance to the credit of his account more than sufficient to answer both sums :—Held : (1) where money held by a person in a fiduciary character, though not as trustee, had been paid to his account at his bankers, the person, for whom he held the money, could follow it & had a charge on the balance in the bankers' hands ; (2) where a person, who held money as a trustee or in a fiduciary character paid it into his account at his bankers, & mixed it with his own money, & afterwards drew on the account, the rule, attributing the first drawings out to the first payments in, did not apply, but the drawer must be taken to have drawn out his own money in preference to the trust money.—Re HALLETT'S ESTATE, KNATCHBULL v. HALLETT (1880), 13 Ch. 6273. Bills remitted for discount or collection—Right to proceeds—Bills in hand.]—The G. Co. in London were in the habit of accepting bills drawn upon them by the M. bank at Gothenburg, & the bank from time to time forwarded bills payable in London, which the co. either discounted or collected as they arrived at maturity, & a running account was kept by the co. as between themselves & the bank. The co. stopped payment on Jan. 20, 1879, & went into liquidation on the 22nd of the same month, & the bank had to take up the co.'s acceptances to the amount of £2,197. The bank claimed to be paid such sum out of the proceeds of bills amounting to £2,300, which had been remitted by itself to the co., & some of which remained in the hands of the co. at the commencement of the liquidation :—Held : the proceeds of bills discounted before the stoppage could not be followed by the bank, but the bank was entitled to all bills remitted by it to the co. which were in the hands of the co. when it stopped payment.—Re GOTHENBURG COMMERCIAL CO. 6274. Mixed fund—Right to proceeds in hands of trustee.]—Property was entrusted to E., upon certain terms. E. mixed it with property of his own, & absconded. He was immediately afterwards made a bkpt. Subsequently E. was taken with the money in his hands, which was clearly shown to be the produce of portions of the mixed property. On a bill, filed by the cestuis que trust, against the assignees in bkpcy. :—Held : the whole trust fund must be made good out of the money remaining in E.'s hands before the assignees could establish any claim on behalf of the general creditors. Semble : the decision would have been the same, even if the assignees could have shown, which they did not, that the mixed fund had been reduced by payments made thereout by bkpt. by way of fraudulent preference.—FRITH v. CARTLAND (1865), 2 Hem. & M. 417 ; 34 L. 6275. 6276. Money credited but not received—Nothing in specie to follow.]—Trustees gave an authority to debtors, their bankers, to receive £1,600, the proceeds of debentures in a co. The debentures formed part of the trust estate. Debtors had to pay £1,900 to the co. upon other accounts, & they paid them the difference of £300 & never actually received the £1,600, the proceeds of the debentures, but they credited the trust account with that amount, as if it had been received, & became bkpt. Upon an application for a declaration that the trust estate was entitled to £1,600 part of debtors' balance at their London bankers :—Held : as debtors had not in fact received the money, there was nothing existing in specie which could be followed & the doctrine as to following trust money had no application.—Re HALLETT & Co., Ex p. BLANE (1894), 2 Q. He claimed that the profit belonged to the trust estate, & paid into a trust account the whole money still remaining in his private account :—Held : the official assignee was entitled to the money.—DAVIES v. DEPUTY OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE (1904), 24 N. A co. sold its business to W., who, by the agreement for sale, was to get in the book debts of the business then owing, &, on or before Apr. 30, 1913, to pay over to the co. all money received by him on account of the book debts, "such amount to be equal to the gross amount of the debts owing on Mar. 1, 1913. Thereafter all debts then outstanding" were to "belong to the purchaser." The gross amount of the book debts so owing was £623 8*s.* 5*d.*, & W. collected that sum, & before or on May 19, 1913, paid £455 18*s.* 11*d.*, part thereof, into his private general account at a bank. By May 21, 1913, he had drawn out all the money standing to his credit, except £25 18*s.*, & applied it for his own purposes & not in paying the co. as agreed. Subsequently he paid in money of his own, & drew on the account for his own purposes, with the result that on his death there was a credit balance of £358 5*s.* 5*d.* In an action by the co. against the trustee of W.'s property under an administration order in bkpcy. the co. claimed to have a charge on the £358 5*s.* 5*d.* for the £455 18*s.* 11*d.*:—Held: W. was a trustee for the co. of the £455 18*s.* 11*d.*, but the co.'s charge extended only to the intermediate balance of £25 18*s.*—ROSCOE (JAMES) (BOLTON) LTD. v. WINDER, [1915] 1 Ch. 62; 84 L. 6278. Shares of cestuis que trust mixed with own shares.]—Trust funds were invested in the purchase of transferable shares in a banking co., in the name of one of the trustees, who executed a declaration of the trusts thereof, the rules of the co. not allowing shares to stand in the name of joint owners or cestuis que trust. The trustee was also a proprietor of shares in his own right in the same co., & made various sales & purchases of shares therein. There was nothing to distinguish which were the individual shares held by the different proprietors, the same being in the nature of capital, expressed by quantity. The trustee contracted to assign a number of shares to the banking co. as a security for advances which they made to him, & he afterwards became bkpt.:—Held: (1) the trustee must be presumed to have transferred or pledged such shares as belonged to himself, &, so far as he had shares of his own, not to have transferred or pledged the shares of his cestuis que trust; (2) the cestuis que trust were entitled to so many of the shares standing in the name of the trustee at the time of his bkpcy. as could be presumed to be identical with the shares in which the trust funds were invested, from the fact that such a number of shares had always thenceforwards stood in the name of the trustee.—PINKETT v. WRIGHT (1842), 2 Hare, 120; 12 L. 6279. Mixed fund—Appropriation of drawings.]—An official assignee in bkpcy. paid money received in his official character, & also his private money, into two banks, to his own undistinguished account, & he also drew from each of those accounts money for his private purposes, & on account of his office. He kept no "official account," but in passing his accounts treated the account with one of the banks as the "official account," the balance being made to tally with the balance appearing to be in his hands. At the time of his death, there were balances in his favour at both banks. The successor claimed both the balances as applicable to the payment of sums received by him in his official character:—Held: he was entitled to such portion of the balances as consisted of money attributable to the official money, which was to be ascertained on the principle of considering each sum drawn out as going to discharge the earliest debt due from the bank then remaining unpaid.—PENNELL v. DEFFELL (1853), 4 De G. a. Money of friendly society mixed with own money.]—In July a trustee of a friendly society received money on behalf of the society. In Nov. he executed a deed of assignment for creditors. In the following Feb. the trustees of the society demanded the money of the trustees of the creditors' deed:—Held: the presumption was that the trustee had not been guilty of embezzlement, & he still had the society's money when he executed the deed of assignment, & his assignees must pay it over.—EASTWOOD v. SCOTT (1871), 2 V. In an action brought by the trustee of F. to recover the value of the barley & malt so seized :—Held : the barley & malt seized by defts. were charged in trust with the amount of the price which was, or ought to have been, & which F. represented by his conduct to have been, paid for them with defts.' money, & as F., who never had been reputed owner, was estopped from saying he was not trustee of the barley & malt for defts., the trustee in his bkpcy. was also estopped from disputing the equitable right of defts., who were entitled to judgment.—HARRIS v. TRUMAN (1882), 9 Q. 6284. —— What value exempted—Application of Small Debts Act, 1845 (c. 127).]—A sheriff seized the goods of a judgment debtor under a writ of fi. fa. at the suit of a judgment creditor for more than £20, & advertised them for sale, except debtor's tools of trade, etc., to the value of £5, as provided by Small Debts Act, 1845, s. 8. Before the sale a receiving order was made against debtor, & thereupon he claimed that, by virtue of 1883 Act, s. 44, his tools of trade, etc., to the value of £20 were excepted from the sale. The official receiver made no request to the sheriff under 1890 Act, s. 11, & declined to interfere :—Held : (1) Small Debts Act, 1845, s. 8, was in no way modified or extended by 1883 Act, s. 44 ; (2) the sheriff was bound to sell, & under 1890 Act, s. 11, to hand over the proceeds of sale, less costs of execution, to the official receiver, although, had there been no sale, debtor would have been entitled inder 1883 Act, s. 44, to his tools of trade, etc., to the value of £20.—Re DAWSON, Ex p. DAWSON, [1899] 2 Q. A. Position of Bankrupt and Trustee.

(a) In General.

6286. Can acquire property only for creditors.]—An uncertificated bkpt., in general, can acquire property only for the creditors, & bkpt., having entered into a trade in partnership, the creditors of that partnership have no equity against the assignees, for an account & application to their debts of the property used or acquired in that partnership.—EVERETT v. BACKHOUSE (1804), 10 Ves. 94; 32 E. R. 779.

6287. —— No new assignment necessary.]—It is a good plea to an action on a promissory note & for money lent, that pltf. is an uncertificated bkpt., & that his assignees required deft. to pay to them the money claimed by pltf., & it is no good replication that the causes of action accrued after pltf. became bkpt., & that deft. treated with pltf. as a person capable of receiving credit in those behalves, & that the comrs. had made no new assignment of the notes & money, for the general assignment of the comrs. passes to the assignees of bkpt. all his after-acquired as well as present personal property & debts.—KITCHEN v. BARTSCH (1805), 7 East, 53; 103 E. 6286 i. Can acquire property only for creditors.]—The comr.'s first warrant is sufficient to seize any property which bkpt. becomes possessed of until he gets his certificate.—Re MOORHEAD (1818), 2 Mol. 445.—IR.

6286 ii. —— Settled property forfeited to bankrupt on divorce of wife.]—Resp. by ante-nuptial contract settled on his wife a life policy, farming implements & household forniture, of which she never obtained possession. Resp. became insolvent, & subsequently the wife was divorced, & the ct. decreed a forfeiture of benefits accruing to her under the ante-nuptial contract, with the result that the property thereunder again accrued to resp.:—Held: the articles included in the settlement were properly regarded as property coming to resp. subsequent to his insolvency, & were liable to execution at the hands of a creditor.—STONE v. HUMPHREYS (1913), C. P. D. 603.—S. AF.

6291 i. Whether able to hold property against trustee—Title by lapse of time.]—The possession of after-acquired property by insolvent, so long as the official assignee does not intervene, may be adverse to the latter, so as to bar his title by lapse of time.—KRISTOCOMUL MITTER v. SURESH CHUNDER DEB (1882), I. 6291 ii. —— Absconding debtor.]—Where proceedings have been taken against a person as an absconding debtor, & trustees have been appointed under 1 R. S. c. 125, property acquired by debtor after the appointment of the trustees does not vest in them.—HANNINGTON v. HARSHMAN (1873), 1 Pug. 217.—CAN.

6291 iii. —— Gift.]—L. made an agreement with his children, including M., an insolvent, the account in whose estate had not been confirmed, whereby he agreed that, in consideration of the children paying L. £250, his farm should be sold & the proceeds distributed among them after deduction of the respective debts owing by them to L. It was known to all parties that the farm was worth much more than £250 & that there would be a considerable balance for distribution after deduction of the £250. The creditors had passed a resolution authorising insolvent to trade, but no authority to that effect had been given by the trustee:—Held: by being party to the agreement M. had accepted the donation, & his trustee was entitled to claim M.'s share of the balance of the proceeds of the farm.—CILLIERS v. LIEBENBERG (1909), 26 S. 6291 iv. —— Inheritance.]—Insolvent, whose estate had been sequestrated in the Transvaal & who had never been rehabilitated, became entitled after the confirmation of the liquidation account in his estate to an inheritance:—Held: such inheritance vested not in insolvent, but in his trustee. Scheme of Cape Ordinance in regard to ownership of after-acquired property considered.—KIRKLAND v. ROMYN (1915), App. D. 327.—S. AF.

6291 v. —— Judgment debt—Cause of action arising before bankruptcy.]—In 1892 A. recovered judgment in a district ct. action for an assault. In Aug., 1898, the estate of A. was sequestrated. In Sept. the amount of the judgment was paid into the district ct.:—Held: the judgment debt passed to A.'s official assignee.—Re AITKEN, Ex p. AITKEN & OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE (1898), 19 N. S. W. 6291 vi. —— Lease acquired by proceeds of personal labour.]—Where E., an insolvent, had, between the dates of his sequestration & the confirmation of the trustee's account, acquired a lease for five years & had paid the rent out of the crops, which were the direct result of his work & labour:—Held: the trustee was entitled to the lease as an asset in the estate.—ELFERT'S TRUSTEE v. ELFERT (1904), 21 S. C. 167.—S. AF.

6291 vii. —— Money payable under insurance policy—On life of another—For benefit of bankrupt & others.]—When the mother of insolvent effects a policy of insurance on her life for the benefit of her children, share & share alike, the amount on her death to be paid to her son, who in the meantime becomes insolvent, & nothing with regard to the policy appears in his sched., upon her death the assignees are not entitled to receive the amount.—Re HANNON (1867), 1 I. L. T. Jo. 8.—IR.

6292 i. —— Patent rights.]—Insolvent, having since his insolvency invented a process for a certain manufacture, obtained letters patent for his invention:—Held: the trustee could not claim the right to the patent as part of the assets of the estate.—BOOSÉ'S TRUSTEE v. BOOSÉ (1892), 9 S. C. 467.—S. AF.

a. —— Reversion.]—A husband & wife by their mutual will, appointed the survivor as sole heir, & by their codicil bequeathed "after the death

6293. Has right of property against all—Unless trustee intervenes.]—Assumpsit by the indorsee against the maker of a promissory note, payable to A. or his order. Plea, non-assumpsit, & that A. became a bkpt., & that his property was duly assigned to assignees, whereby the interest, title, & right to indorse the promissory note before the time of indorsement became vested in the assignees, whereby the indorsement by A. was void, & created no right in pltf. to sue. Replication to the last plea, that the indorsement was made with the consent of the assignees. Rejoinder taking issue upon that fact. A verdict having been found for pltf. on the first issue, & for deft. on the second :—Held : pltf. was entitled to judgment upon the whole record, because the property acquired by bkpt. subsequently to his bkpcy. did not absolutely vest in the assignees, although they had a right to claim it, but if they did not make any claim, bkpt. had a right to such property against all other persons.—DRAYTON v. DALE (1823), 2 B. & C. 293 ; 3 Dow. & Ry. 6300. What are personal earnings—Patent rights.]—A patent right for the exclusive exercise of an invention obtained from the Crown by an uncertificated bkpt., is affected by the previous assignment of the comrs., & vests in the assignees.

It is said that, although by the assignment every right & interest, & every right of action as well as right of possession & possibility of interest, is taken out of bkpt. & vested in the assignees, yet the fruits of a man's own invention do not pass. It is true, that the schemes which a man may have in his own head before he obtains his certificate, or the fruits which he may make of such schemes do not pass, nor could the assignees require him to assign them over, provided he does not carry his schemes into effect until after he has obtained his certificate. But if he avail himself of his knowledge & skill, & thereby acquire a beneficial interest, which may be the subject of assignment, I cannot frame to myself an argument why that interest should not pass in the same manner as any other property acquired by his personal industry (LORD ALVANLEY, C.J.).—HESSE v. STEVENSON (1803), 3 Bos. & P. 565; Dav. 6301. —— Charges of furniture broker employed to remove furniture—Employing men & materials.]—Pltf., a furniture broker, & uncertificated bkpt., was employed by deft. to remove his goods, in the course of which business he employed several men & vans, supplied packing cases, repaired furniture, & provided materials for that purpose & other articles to a trifling amount:—Held: the debt which thereby accrued to pltf. was not in respect of personal labour, but was claimable by the assignees.—CROFTON v. POOLE (1830), 1 B. & Ad. 568; 9 L. 6302. —— Charges for surveying tithes.]—Bkpt. since his bkpcy. had been employed as a surveyor in valuing tithes, & the money he earned, which it was not proved was more than sufficient for the decent maintenance of himself & his family, he had not paid over or accounted for to his assignees:—Held: the money had been received by bkpt. in respect of his personal labour, & he was not liable to account for it to his assignees.—Re HAND, Ex p. WALTERS (1842), 2 Mont. 6303. —— Costs of solicitor acting for himself in petition.]—Bkpt., a solr., acted for himself in the matter of a petition, to which he was made resp. in the character of a trustee. Bkpt. had not obtained his certificate:—Held: the costs ordered to be paid to bkpt. belonged to him, & did not pass to the assignees.—Re GIBBS, Ex p. GRIMSTEAD, Ex p. GIBBS, Ex p. STRAHAN (1844), De G. 72; 3 L. 6304. —— Charges of medical practitioner—Using drugs, etc., in preparation of medicines sold.]—To a declaration containing counts for work & labour as a surgeon & apothecary & for goods sold & delivered, deft. pleaded that before the accruing of the causes of action pltf. became bkpt., & that his assignees claimed the debt from deft. Pltf. replied that the labour was his own personal labour bestowed after the bkpcy., & done for the necessary support of himself & his family, & that the goods sold were medicines purchased out of the proceeds of other personal labour & increased in value by pltf. for the necessary support of himself & his family, & as a part of, & incidental & necessary to his personal labour. Pltf., a general medical practitioner, was an uncertificated bkpt., & by an arrangement with a friend who had purchased his stock of medicines, had continued in possession of them, & had carried on his business as before, & had also purchased fresh drugs upon credit. The debt was contracted by pltf. attending deft. & furnishing medicines compounded by him out of the drugs:—Held: this was not a mere demand for personal labour, but as pltf. was in substance carrying on his business for profit, his assignees were entitled to the proceeds.—ELLIOT v. CLAYTON (1851), 16 Q. PART XX. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 1.—A. (b).

6298 i. General rule.]—In the case of personal earnings arising from the personal efforts of insolvent, the right of the trustee rests upon the principle that the personal earnings, after a deduction has been made of what is reasonably necessary for the maintenance of insolvent & his family, are surplus property acquired by insolvent, either in his hands or in the hands of some person from whom he is entitled to receive it.—Re LOVELL, Ex p. DIXON, [1904] S. R. Q. 262.—AUS.

6298 ii. ——.]—A trustee is barred from claiming as part of the original estate of insolvent any property acquired by the personal labour of insolvent.—STONE v. HUMPHREYS (1913), C. P. D. 603.—S. AF.

6304 i.——Charges of medical practitioner.]—A debt due to insolvent, a doctor, for medical attendance, which has accrued after the preparation of scheds., but before the acceptance of surrender, vests in the trustee, & is not recoverable by insolvent himself.—DE VILLIERS v. GADOW (1900), 17 S. 6305. —— Compensation recovered for wrongful dismissal.]—Bkpt., who had never obtained his order of discharge or passed his final examination, procured employment as editor of a weekly newspaper without the permission or knowledge of his trustee, & six years after the bkpcy. he was awarded by the decree of a competent ct. £104 as six months' salary in lieu of proper notice of dismissal:—Held: the money was not the proceeds of bkpt.'s personal labour subsequent to his bkpcy., but a compensation for the breach of a contract, which became part of his estate in bkpcy.—WADLING v. OLIPHANT (1875), 1 Q. B. D. 145; 45 L. J. Q. B. 173; 33 L. T. 837; 24 W. R. 246.

6306. —— Charges of painter—Employing men & material.]—Debtor, who had carried on business as a painter, after he filed his petition, but before he had obtained any order of discharge, contracted to paint a yacht for £49. During the progress of the work he received £7 on account. The trustee claimed the balance of £42, and it was paid to him by the owner of the yacht. The £49 represented £15 for debtor's personal labour, £15 for wages for workmen, £10 for cost of materials, & £9 for profit, & debtor borrowed money to pay the workmen & purchased the materials on credit. The county ct. judge having ordered the trustee to pay debtor £33 out of the £42:—Held: the trustee was entitled to retain the whole of the £42.—Re DOWLING, Ex p. BANKS (1877), 4 Ch. D. 689; 46 L. J. Bcy. 74; 36 L. T. 117; 25 W. R. 515.

6307. —— Charges of dentist carrying on business in partnership.]—A partner in a firm of dental surgeons mortgaged his share in the business. The mtgees. brought an action to realise their mtge. & obtained a receiver; subsequently the mtgor. became bkpt., but continued to carry on business under the terms of the partnership deed. The trustee claimed that the profits, which since the bkpcy. had been paid to the receiver, should be paid over to him:—Held: the earnings of bkpt. could not be treated as his personal earnings even though the business was one which very largely depended upon the exercise of personal skill by debtor, & even if they were personal earnings they lost that character by being dealt with as part of a partnership business & vested in the trustee.—Re ROGERS, Ex p. COLLINS, [1894] 1 Q. 6308. —— Royalties on patent—Estoppel of trustee.]—An undischarged bkpt. took out letters patent for an invention, & granted a licence to a co. to work the patented invention at a royalty of £10 per week. Two instalments of the royalty, i.e., £20, becoming payable were claimed by the trustee as after-acquired property of bkpt. The co. took out an interpleader summons in the High Ct., which was remitted to a county ct. for decision. The county ct. judge held that the £20 was in the nature of personal earnings & belonged to bkpt., & refused leave to appeal. Subsequent royalties became due, & the trustee applied to the Bkpcy. Ct. for a declaration that they vested in him as after-acquired property of bkpt.:—Held: the judgment of the county ct. estopped the trustee from asserting that the royalties were not the personal earnings of bkpt. Semble: the royalties were not the personal earnings of bkpt.—Re GRAYDON, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER, [1896] 1 Q. g. —— Shares in return for services rendered.]—H., an insolvent, performed work for a syndicate, the result of which was the sale of claims in a mine, on very advantageous terms, to the C. Co. The syndicate having received the greater part of the purchase price in shares in the co., gave five hundred of the shares to insolvent as remuneration for his work & labour. Upon an application by the trustees to restrain insolvent from disposing of the shares:—Held: he was protected.—HALL'S TRUSTEE v. HALL (1888), 6 S. C. 190.—S. AF.

j. —— —— Shares given to wife.]—While L., who had special knowledge concerning the locality of oil-producing country in New South Wales, was undischarged insolvent, an agreement was entered into between him, his wife, & the trustees of a syndicate, formed to acquire a lease of the country when its exact locality should be discovered by L. By that agreement the wife covenanted to supply two men, of whom insolvent should be one, to search for the oil on behalf of the syndicate. The trustees of the syndicate agreed to pay £4 per week to the wife during the continuance of the search, & also to transfer & deliver to the wife forty paid-up shares in the syndicate before the search-party should be bound to start. The agreement was carried out, the country was found, & a lease obtained, & a co. was subsequently formed, which acquired the rights of the syndicate. The wife was given four hundred paid-up shares in the co. in substitution for the forty shares in the syndicate:—Held: the shares were not property acquired by, or devolving on insolvent during the continuance of the insolvency.—Re LOVELL, Ex p. DIXON (1904), S. R. Q. 262.—AUS.

6305 i. —— Compensation in lieu of notice.]—Money agreed to be paid to bkpt. by his employer as compensation in lieu of notice of dismissal:—Held: property which became absolutely vested in the official assignee.—Re PEACOCK (1885), 4 N. Z. L. R. 76.—N.Z.

6309 i. —— Commission—As trustee.]—Commission granted to bkpt., as one of three trustees on the passing of their accounts in the Probate Ct., does not pass to the official assignee as after-acquired property of bkpt., but must be considered as the personal earnings of bkpt.—Re BROWNE, Ex p. BROWNE, OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE (1894), 15 N. 6313. Limits of bankrupt's right to personal earnings—Application of 1883 Act, s. 53.]—The principles which underlie the above sect. with respect to salary & income of bkpt. are also applicable to his personal earnings. In each case it is a question of amount, & he will be allowed to retain only such a sum as is sufficient for the reasonable maintenance of himself & his family, & the residue will pass to his trustee.—Re GRAYDON, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER, [1896] 1 Q. 6315. —— ——.]—All personal earnings of bkpt. between the commencement of his bkpcy. & his discharge belong to his trustee, save only what is necessary for the support of bkpt. & his family.

R., a professional billiard player, while an undischarged bkpt., entered into a contract with a billiard-ball manufacturing co., whereby the co. agreed to supply him annually for five years, free of cost, with two thousand billiard balls of their manufacture as & when required by him, & R. agreed that he would not, during the five years, play public billiard matches, not being championship matches, other than with balls manufactured & supplied by the co., but the contract did not impose any obligation on R. to play billiards at all. The co. supplied R. during his bkpcy. with balls according to the contract, intending that he might sell them & apply the proceeds to his own use:—Held: the balls belonged to the trustee, the evidence showing that they were not wanted for R.'s support.—Re ROBERTS, [1900] 1 Q. 6316. —— ——.]—A creditor obtained judgment against debtor, a furniture dealer's salesman, whose sole income was derived from his salary or wages, payable weekly, & commission on his sales. He had two children dependent upon him. Debtor having failed to pay the judgment debt, & finding himself unable to comply with a committal order, presented a bkpcy. petition, which was followed, upon his own application, by a receiving order & adjudication. The judgment creditor was his only creditor, & he had no assets beyond the personal earnings from his employment. The judgment creditor having applied for annulment of the bkpcy. proceedings:—Held: the proceedings would not prejudice the judgment creditor, as the personal earnings of bkpt., beyond what was necessary for the maintenance of himself & his family, could be applied, in the proceedings, towards payment of the judgment debt.—Re HANCOCK, Ex p. HILLEARYS, [1904] 1 K. R. Q. 262.—AUS.

6318. ——— ———.]—Pltf., an undischarged bkpt, brought an action against defts., claiming a sum of £60 alleged to be due to him on a commission note given by them to him during the bkpcy., by which, in consideration of his obtaining for them a certain loan, they agreed to pay him that sum as commission. For the year preceding the bringing of the action pltf.'s total earnings, including the sum sued for, had not exceeded £100 :—Held : the sum sued for was personal earnings of pltf. necessary for his maintenance, within the exception which excluded such earnings of bkpt. from the general rule that the property of bkpt. vested in the trustee.—AFFLECK v. HAMMOND, [1912] 3 K. 6319. Remuneration—Bankrupt employed by trustee in carrying on business—Evidence of contract.]—If the assignees of a bkpt. manufacturer employ him in carrying on the manufacture for the benefit of the estate, & pay him money from time to time, this is evidence of such a contract between him & his assignees as will enable him to recover from them a reasonable compensation for his work & labour.—COLES v. BARROW (1813), 4 Taunt. 754 ; 2 Rose, 277 ; 128 E. 6320. Profits of business—Bankrupt continuing with purchaser of business—Purchase price payable by instalments—Part price payable by bankrupt out of future earnings.]—Creditors agreed to dispose of the whole of debtor's estate to a purchaser, in consideration of a sum agreed to be paid by the purchaser by instalments, debtor himself agreeing to pay part of such sum out of his future earnings. Debtor's business was then continued by the purchaser & himself. All the instalments were duly paid :—Held : it would be inequitable to allow the creditors to claim the profits of the business merely because the order of discharge had not been formally granted, & an injunction should be granted to restrain the creditors from interfering with the profits of the business.—Re FRANCE, Ex p. TINKER (1874), 9 Ch. 6321. Assets of business—Bankrupt buying estate with consent of creditors under two successive liquidations—Price claimed by trustee in first liquidation—Claim by trustee in second liquidation against stock-in-trade.]—An undischarged debtor went into business again, & afterwards filed a second petition. His creditors, old & new, empowered the trustee to sell debtor's estate to him for £475, upon payment of which sum he was to be entitled to his discharge. The money was paid, & was then claimed by the trustee under the first liquidation. The ct. decided in favour of that claim. The second trustee thereupon claimed debtor's stock-in-trade & effects :—Held : debtor, having paid the £475, was free from the claims of all his creditors, & was entitled to retain whatever property he had acquired.—Re CAUGHEY, Ex p. CAUGHEY (1877), 4 Ch. 6322. Indemnity from trustee—Against debts incurred since bankruptcy—Trading without consent of trustee.]—An undischarged bkpt., who trades without the knowledge of his trustee, is not, on the fact being discovered & the property taken over by the trustee, entitled to an indemnity against liabilities incurred by him during such trading.

A., an undischarged bkpt., carried on the business of an innkeeper in B.'s name, unknown to his trustee, &, as he alleged, borrowed money to rebuild the inn on its being burnt down. On the inn being sold, a dispute as to the division up of the purchase-money arose between A. & B., & A. thereupon gave information to his trustee, who claimed the money. A. applied for an indemnity against the liabilities he had incurred :—Held : (1) A. was not entitled to the indemnity ; (2) A. should have first obtained the trustee's sanction to carry on the business, when he would have become his agent & entitled to an indemnity.—Re CLARKE, Ex p. NEWTON v. KEARLY (1889), 60 L. 6325. —— Application where bankrupt trading.]—The protection with regard to after-acquired property afforded by Cohen v. Mitchell, No. 6324, ante, to persons dealing bonâ fide with an undischarged bkpt., relates to cases in which bkpt. is carrying on a business without interference by the trustees, & is meant to protect persons who deal with him in the ordinary way & are paid with money acquired by carrying on such business.

After a receiving order had been made against him debtor discounted a bill of exchange, which had been previously handed to him by a third party for that purpose, & made use of the money in paying it into ct. under an order in an action brought against him by a creditor. The drawer & acceptor of the bill were subsequently satisfied by debtor out of other money.

On an application by the trustee for an order upon the creditor to repay the money to him, the objection was taken that the money was property acquired by bkpt. after the commencement of the bkpcy., & that the trustee was not entitled to claim it:—Held: the objection must fail.—Re ROGERS, Ex p. WOODTHORPE (1891), 8 Morr. 236.

6329. —— ——.]—A freehold house was conveyed to S., who was in fact a trustee for P., an undischarged bkpt., after his bkpcy. A lease for ninety-nine years was expressed to be executed by S. to P. under the alias of R. P. then under the same alias executed a mtge., by demise, of the leasehold interest to deft. for £1,750. The money was paid to P., & the whole transaction was bonâ fide so far as deft. was concerned. The trustee, who had not intervened at the date of the mtge. brought an action for a declaration that he was entitled to the freehold house free & discharged from the lease & the mtge. It was alleged that the signature of S. to the lease was forged by P., & the ct. found that it had not been proved to be the signature of S., & the mtge. did not pass any legal estate to deft., but it was contended that it gave a good charge upon bkpt.'s equitable interest in the freehold:—Held: the rule in Cohen v. Mitchell, No. 6324, ante, must be considered not to apply to real estate, whether equitable or legal, but only to personal estate including leaseholds.—OFFICIAL RECEIVER v. COOKE (1906), 2 Ch. 661; sub nom. PRESTON'S TRUSTEE v. COOKE, 75 L. v. —— Application to payment of legacy to bankrupt.]—Where a person became entitled to a legacy after he had been adjudicated a bkpt., &, before he had obtained his discharge, such legacy was paid to him by testator's exors., acting bonâ fide, without notice of his bkpcy., & before any intervention on the part of the assignees in bkpcy., to assert title to the legacy for the benefit of the creditors of bkpt.:—Held: the exors. were not liable to the assignees for the amount of the legacy.—Re BALL, [1899] 2 I. Leases for terms of years & subject to onerous covenants were granted to an undischarged bkpt., & were subsequently demised by him by way of mtge., without any intervention by his trustee. A purchaser from the mtgees. having objected that no title could be made :—Held : until the trustee intervened bkpt. could deal with his after-acquired leaseholds, & the purchaser could be forced to accept the title.—Re CLAYTON & BARCLAY'S CONTRACT, [1895] 2 Ch. 212 ; 64 L. 6332. —— Application to assignment of legacy & share of residue—What are bona fides.]—Debtor became an insolvent in the colony of Victoria, & obtained his discharge. Before his discharge he became entitled under a will of testator domiciled in England to a legacy & share of residue. His assignee had no knowledge of the interest & had not intervened to claim it. After his discharge debtor assigned his interest under the will to pltf., who knew that the assignee was ignorant of debtor's interest, for valuable consideration. The trustees of the will knowing of the insolvency declined to pay pltf. :—Held : (1) the rule in Cohen v. Mitchell, No. 6324, ante, applied to a legacy & share of residue, even where the trustee intervened before the property had reached the hands of a bonâ fide equitable assignee ; (2) an assignment of future acquired property was not necessarily malâ fide because the assignee had knowledge of his assignor's bkpcy. & of the ignorance of the trustee that bkpt. had acquired the assigned property.—HUNT v. FRIPP (1898), 1 Ch. 675 ; 67 L. 6333. —— What is "transaction for value"—Settlement on marriage.]—A settlement made on a second marriage by an undischarged bkpt. of interests acquired after his bkpcy. in trust funds settled before his bkpcy., & still in the hands of the settlement trustees, is a transaction for value within the rule in Cohen v. Mitchell, No. 6324, ante, &, if the transaction is bonâ fide on the part of the second wife, is valid against the trustee until he intervenes by giving formal notice to the trustees of the settlement or otherwise. The facts that the settlement trustees have actual knowledge of the bkpcy., & that the value given for the transaction is not such as will increase bkpt.'s estate, do not prevent the application of the rule.—Re BEHREND'S TRUST, SURMAN v. BIDDELL, [1911] 1 Ch. 687 ; 80 L. 6334. —— —— Charging order.]—A charging order made under Judgments Act, 1838 (c. 110) s. 14, on the after-acquired property of an undischarged bkpt. before the intervention of the trustee, is not a transaction with bkpt. for value within Cohen v. Mitchell, No. 6324, ante, & is invalid as against the trustee.—HOSACK v. ROBINS, [1918] 2 Ch. 389 ; 87 L. 6338. Charge given simultaneously with bankrupt's purchasing property—Deposit of deeds with memorandum.]—G., a publican, agreed to sell his public-house, which M. & Co. supplied with beer, to A. A. being unable to pay the whole purchase-money, M. & Co., at his request, agreed to pay to G. £1,000, part of it. At a meeting of the parties for completing the purchase, M. & Co. paid the £1,000 to G., who executed the conveyance of the house, &, immediately afterwards, delivered it to M. & Co., & A. signed a memorandum expressing that he had deposited the deed with M. & Co., for securing, by way of equitable mtge., the payment to them of the £1,000. Shortly afterwards, M. & Co. discovered that A. was an uncertificated bkpt. :—Held : they had, as against A.'s assignees, a lien on the deed for the £1,000.—MEUX v. SMITH (1843), 11 Sim. 410 ; 2 Mont. 6346. Rent paid in advance.]—Money received by an undischarged bkpt. & paid away for value cannot be followed by the trustee, though the person to whom the money was paid had notice of the bkpcy.

An undischarged bkpt. took a furnished house from a person, who had notice of the bkpcy., on the terms of paying six months' rent in advance. Having obtained a sum of £200 as compensation for being turned out of an appointment which he had taken since the bkpcy., he paid to the landlord out of such sum £130 as the six months' rent:—Held: though the trustee could have intercepted the £200 & required it to be paid to him, he could not follow any part of it into the hands of the landlord.—Re VANLOHE, Ex p. DEWHURST (1871), 7 Ch. The accounts for 1891 were passed, & commission allowed on Oct. 24, 1892, & a similar order was made on Dec. 7, 1893, with regard to the accounts for 1892. Bkpt. sequestrated his estate on July 7, 1892. From the beginning of 1891 advances were from time to time made to bkpt. by resps., the advances being secured by charges on any future commission to be at any time thereafter received by bkpt. in respect of the estate. The advances continued to be made after the bkpcy.:—Held: as regards the advances after the bkpcy. resps.' claim could not be supported, either under the charge on the commission, or as a bonâ fide dealing with after-acquired property before the intervention of the official assignee.—Re BROWNE, Ex p. OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE, BROWNE & BROWNE (1895), 16 N. 6350. Assignment of after-acquired furniture.]—By a marriage settlement a husband settled furniture, then being in his residence, upon his wife for life, & covenanted that in the event of his bringing at any future time other furniture upon the premises & permitting it to be used with the first-mentioned furniture, it should thereupon vest in & become the property of the trustees of the marriage settlement in trust for the wife. After the marriage the husband became bkpt., & while undischarged bought furniture out of his personal earnings, & brought it on to the premises, & used it with the other furniture. The additional furniture having been seized in execution, the trustees of the marriage settlement claimed it. The trustee did not intervene to claim the goods on behalf of the creditors :—Held : bkpt. had a qualified property in the goods until the trustee intervened, & as before any intervention he had transferred them to claimants for value, their title was good.—HAMPTON v. LUBBOCK, [1900] W. 6358 i. Trustee lying by while bankrupt traded.]—In Apr., 1905, the estate of S. was sequestrated as insolvent & due notice thereof given in the Gazette, & in May pltfs. were appointed trustees. In July, 1906, S. acquired from U. certain mining rights, over which, in Oct., he gave an option to defts., upon the stipulation that they should be at liberty to sell such rights for cash or shares in a co. to be formed, & that upon such sale taking place defts. should pay to U. £1,000, & one-third of the net profits received by them from such co. In June, 1907, defts. entered into an agreement with H. & Co., whereby they gave to H. & Co. the option to purchase the rights acquired from S., H. & Co. at the same time taking over all the obligations of defts., & agreeing that defts. should have a third share in a co. which was to be formed. In Jan., 1908, H. & Co. exercised their option, & in 1909 the K. Co. was formed. In Apr., 1910, the first liquidation account was laid before the master & was confirmed the following July. In Sept., 1910, S. was rehabilitated. Pltfs. claimed that upon the conclusion of the agreement of Jan., 1908, defts. became liable to pay to S., the £1,000 & one-third of the profit or interest acquired by them in the K. Co., & claimed they were entitled to payment from defts. of the £1,000 & one-third of the defts.' share in the profits of the co.:—Held: (1) defts. must be deemed to have had notice of the insolvency of S., & the negligence of pltfs. could not excuse the negligence of defts.; (2) the bona fides of defts. was of no avail as a defence, & no settlement with S. could discharge defts. from their liability to the trustees; (3) as soon as the agreement with H. & Co. was completed & the co. formed, the rights sequently acquired.—Re BAKEWELL, Ex p. BUTLER (1842), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 731 ; 11 L. J. Bcy. 51 ; 6 Jur. 957, Ct. of R.

6359. —— Bankrupt soliciting business from trustee & creditor.]—Bkpt., having obtained his certificate under a second bkpcy., but not having paid 15*s.* in the pound, set up in trade as a tailor & draper & sent circulars soliciting custom to several of the creditors, who had proved under the second bkpcy., & among others, to one of the creditors' assignees. He continued to trade for five years, without molestation on the part of the creditors, having his name conspicuously written on the trade premises, & having, exposed to view there, stock-in-trade of considerable value. He then became bkpt. a third time :—Held : the assignee under the last bkpcy. could not be called upon to deliver up the assets collected by him to the assignees under the second fiat.—Re CARTER, Ex p. JUNGMICHEL (1842), 2 Mont. 6361. Bankrupt trading for benefit of creditors—Lien of subsequent creditor for advances on price of business.]—The creditors of a liquidating debtor resolved that, on debtor's entering into a bond to pay the trustee £5,000, by half-yearly instalments, the trustee should allow him to carry on his business, he accounting to the trustee for the stock-in-trade as it was disposed of, & that, on the execution of the bond & the registration of the resolution, debtor should have his discharge. Debtor executed the bond & obtained his discharge, & carried on the business for two years, & then the creditors resolved that the business should be sold to a purchaser for £3,000, which was done, & the purchase-money received by the trustee :—Held : a creditor, who had advanced money to debtor after he had resumed business, had no lien upon any part of the £3,000.—Re MAGNUS, Ex p. ROBERTSON (1873), 8 Ch. 6363. No positive proof that creditors knew of trading.]—The creditors of a trader, who had filed a liquidation petition, resolved that he should have his discharge when they had received 2*s.* in the pound on their debts. The estate realised only half that sum. Debtor went into business again & contracted new debts, & filed a second liquidation petition :—Held : in the absence of positive evidence that the trustee or his creditors under the first petition were aware of the subsequent trading, they were entitled in priority to the new creditors to the assets acquired by debtor in the course of his trading, to the extent necessary to make up the 2*s.* in the pound, & it could not be assumed that the old creditors intended, when they passed their resolution, that debtor should trade again in order to be able to pay the 2*s.* in the pound.—Re CAUGHEY, Ex p. FORD (1876), 1 Ch. 6367. ——.]—An undischarged bkpt. started business under an assumed name, acquired freehold property, & mortgaged it in that name. A second receiving order was made, the assets being the equity of redemption of the property, & personal property which realised £113. Subsequently the identity of bkpt. was discovered :—Held : the mortgaged property should vest in the mtgees., upon the registrar being satisfied that all the debts in the first bkpcy., with all costs & expenses, had been paid in full, the £113 to be applied towards payment of the debts.

This is a hard case for the trustee in the second bkpcy. ; but the official receiver, as trustee in the first bkpcy., is entitled to the whole of the assets, subject to the rights of the mtgees. (WRIGHT, J.).—Re ADIE, Ex p. RUSHFORTH (1901), 84 L. T. 508 ; 45 Sol. Jo. 469.

6366 i. Bankrupt trading without knowledge of trustee.]—Where an undischarged bkpt., without the knowledge or consent of the official assignee, commences & carries on a trade, & subsequently acquires property & incurs new liabilities, & at length again becomes bkpt., his assets in the second bkpcy., belong to the creditors in the first bkpcy. in preference to those in the second.—Re POINTON (1907), 27 N. & until bkpt. has obtained his discharge, the assignee can at any time claim such property.

Bkpt., whose creditors had agreed to a resolution suspending his bkpcy., but who had never obtained his discharge, recovered judgment in an action against C. for £500. The assignee gave notice to C. of the bkpcy., & claimed the money recovered. Afterwards, an arrangement having been come to between the assignee & bkpt., bkpt., without any interference by the assignee, sued out a debtor's summons against C. for the judgment debt :—Held : debtor's summons could not be supported, as it was not bkpt., but his assignee who was entitled to the money. Qu. : whether the claim having been once made by the assignee, could be withdrawn.—Re CARTER, Ex p. CARTER (1876), 2 Ch. 6372. Sufficiency of intervention—Whether specific notice necessary.]—Notice of intervention by a trustee in respect of the dealings of an undischarged bkpt. is not invalid, by reason of its being in general terms, & it is unnecessary to serve a specific & particular notice in order to affect the after-acquired property in question ; it suffices if the trustee clearly conveys the fact that he requires delivery of the property to him.—HILL v. SETTLE, [1917] 1 Ch. 319 ; 86 L. 6373. —— Intervention by notice to holder of fund—Legacy becoming payable to bankrupt.]—The estate of bkpt., on his second bkpcy. in 1846, was not sufficient to pay 15*s.* in the pound. The assignees allowed him to carry on his trade & contract debts for eight years, at the expiration of which a legacy was bequeathed to him, which the assignees claimed, serving the exors., two months after the death of the testatrix, with notice of their claim :—Held : (1) their right under 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 127, to the legacy in question, was a right protected by the saving clause in 1849 Act, s. 4 ; (2) they had so conducted themselves that such right could not be taken from them. —Re BIRCH'S LEGACY (1856), 2 K. & J. 328 ; 69 E. R. 807.

6374. —— —— ——.]—Testatrix by her will, made in 1867, bequeathed a legacy of £2,000 to her father, whom she appointed one of her exors. Her estate consisted mainly of a reversionary interest, which was not sold by her exors., & which did not fall into possession until Mar., 1881. In Feb., 1844, the father had been adjudicated a bkpt. on a fiat issued in Dec., 1843. The bkpcy. was never closed & he did not obtain an order of discharge. On Mar. 17, 1882, the official assignee gave notice to the exors. that he claimed the legacy. On Apr. 3, the father assigned the legacy to A. as security for a balance due from him to A. upon an account stated that day of money received & paid by him onA.'s account from 1858 down to 1870. On Apr. 5, A. gave notice of the assignment to the exors. :—Held : as no money had been advanced by A. to bkpt. on the faith of the legacy, & as the official assignee had previously given notice to the exors. that he claimed the legacy, A. could not obtain any security until the claim of the official assignee had been satisfied, the official assignee having completed his title by giving the first notice to the exors.—Re BLACHFORD, BLACHFORD v. WORSLEY (1884), 27 Ch. If that particular assignee has not perfected his title by notice to the holder of the fund, where such notice is required, or by a stop order, the trustee as general assignee can by intervening & claiming the fund from bkpt. & giving notice to the holder of the fund, or by stop order if the fund is in ct., perfect his title first, to the exclusion of the particular assignee.

An undischarged bkpt. assigned his interest in a commission on the sale of a public-house, earned by him since the date of the bkpcy., & his trustee gave notice of his claim before the assignee :—Held : the trustee had acquired priority over the assignee.—MERCER v. VANS COLINA (1897), [1900] 1 Q. The official assignee of an undischarged bkpt., who had, subsequently to his bkpcy., obtained a judgment against B., gave notice to the judgment creditor as follows :—"I give you notice that I claim the verdict obtained by you against [B.], or the fruits of such verdict, & caution you against dealing with or disposing of same in any way without written authority" : —Held : this did not constitute an intervention by the official assignee.—Re BURNS, Ex p. ELLESMERE (1912), 12 S. Q. had been adjudicated bkpt. in 1878, & a certificate that all his estate & effects, real & personal, had vested in the official & creditor's assignees was issued in the following year, & was duly registered. The reversionary interest of Q. was mentioned in his statement of affairs. In 1880 he obtained his certificate of conformity, & died in 1892. By his will he devised all the residue of his real & personal estate, which included the lands, to his daughters in equal shares. When the reversionary interest fell in in 1904, the daughters entered into possession of the lands, & in 1906 conveyed same to B. for valuable consideration. B. thereupon entered into possession of the lands, & subsequently sold same under the Land Purchase Acts. 6380. Trustee not entitled to—Certificate prior to 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 127.]—The above sect. does not extend to the case where a trader has twice become bkpt. & obtained certificates, not paying 15*s.* in the pound under the last commission, but both bkpcies. & certificates are prior to the Act. In that case the after-acquired effects do not vest in the assignees under the second commission, & the Act does not prevent the assignees under a third commission from claiming property of which bkpt. has had the reputed ownership within s. 72 since the second commission. But, if the second certificate were subsequent to May 2, 1825, when the Act took effect as to certificates, s. 127 applies.—BENJAMIN v. BELCHER (1840), 11 Ad. & El. 350; 3 Per. & Dav. 317; 9 L. J. Only a small dividend had been paid in the bkpcy., & bkpt. had not, after the close of the bkpcy., made any further payments to the creditors who had proved. An action was brought by one of the new creditors to administer bkpt.'s estate. The estate was sufficient to pay the costs of the action, to pay the new creditors in full, & to leave a surplus, which was claimed by the old creditors:—Held: the administratrix was entitled to the surplus, & the old creditors had no right to it.

6398. —— —— —— Death before discharge without revoking will.]—Under a settlement H. had a general testamentary power of appointment over a fund. In 1892 he made his will, executed the power in favour of E., & appointed him exor. A receiving order was made against H., & he was adjudicated a bkpt. E. proved in the bkpcy. for £1,131. H. never obtained his discharge, & in 1904 he died. At the time of his death he was indebted to various persons for debts incurred since the date of the receiving order :—Held : (1) the property divisible amongst the creditors in the bkpcy. did not include the appointed fund, & the trustee was not entitled to receive the fund; (2) the duty of dividing it devolved upon the exor.; & the creditors who had become so after the bkpcy. were the only creditors who had a right to share in the fund.—Re GUEDALLA, LEE v. GUEDALLA'S TRUSTEE, [1905] 2 Ch. 331; 75 L. 6399. —— —— —— ——.]—The donee of a general testamentary power of appointment over a fund of £15,000 was adjudicated bkpt. in Jan., 1890, & a small dividend was paid. Early in 1892 the donee was again adjudicated bkpt., but no dividend was paid. The donee never obtained his discharge in either bkpcy., & died in July, 1911, having by his will duly exercised his power of appointment. In an action for the administration of his estate, which consisted almost entirely of the appointed fund, the creditors in the bkpcies. claimed to be paid the balance still remaining unsatisfied of their respective debts :—Held : the creditors in the bkpcies. were precluded from claiming against the appointed fund & their claims must be disallowed.—Re BENZON, BOWER v. CHETWYND, [1914] 2 Ch. 68; 83 L. 6400. Limited power of appointment—Appointment after bankruptcy.]—By marriage settlement the husband took an estate for life, with power of appointment to children, remainder to trustees to preserve, etc., remainder to children in tail in default of appointment, remainder to husband in fee in default of issue. The husband became bkpt., & afterwards executed an appointment to his son in fee, after his own life estate. The assignees sold the life estate to bkpt.'s mother :—Held : the son took nothing under the appointment, but was entitled to an estate tail under the original settlement.—BADHAM v. MEE (1831), 7 Bing. 695; 1 Moo. & S. 14; 9 L. 6401. —— To husband & wife jointly or survivor—Joint appointment after bankruptcy—Appointment by widow after bankrupt's death.]—A husband, upon marriage, settled an estate to the use of himself for life, with remainder to the use of trustees, to preserve contingent remainders, with remainder to the use of trustees for a term of years, to secure a jointure for the wife, with remainder to the use of such children of the marriage as the husband & wife jointly, or, in default of a joint appointment, the survivor of them should appoint, with remainder, in default of such appointment, to the children of the marriage equally, with remainder to the right heirs of the husband. The husband became bkpt., & after his bkpcy. he & his wife made a joint appointment in favour of two of the children of the marriage. The husband died, & a bill having been filed by a person claiming under the bkpcy. for an account of the rents of the settled estate, the wife executed a separate appointment in favour of the same children, which she stated in her answer :—Held : (1) the joint appointment was inoperative, on the ground that the husband could not, by a subsequent execution of the power, deprive his assignees of an estate which had been once vested in them by his bkpcy.; (2) the wife's separate appointment after the husband's death was a good exercise of the power, & the account of the rents prayed by the bill could not be extended beyond the date of that appointment.—HOLE v. ESCOTT (1838), 4 My. & Cr. 187; 8 L. 6402. —— To survivor of husband & wife—Appointment by bankrupt after death of wife.]—By a post-nuptial settlement, a fund was settled in trust for the husband for life, or until he should become an insolvent debtor, with remainder to the wife for life, remainder to their children or issue, as the survivor should appoint, & in default of such appointment, in trust for the children then living & the issue of deceased children then living. The husband's interest ceased by his insolvency, & his wife afterwards died :—Held : the interests of the children & their issue in default of appointment thereupon became vested, & could no longer be varied by the execution by the surviving husband of his power of appointment.—HASWELL v. HASWELL (1860), 2 De G. 6404. —— —— Power not effected by insolvency.]—Testator gave his interest in leasehold property to trustees to pay half of the rents to his son H. for life, or until his bkpcy. or insolvency, & after his decease, or bkpcy., or insolvency to pay same for the benefit of all or any of his children as he should appoint, & in default of appointment to pay same for the benefit of all the children equally. H. carried on business at Adelaide for some years, & while residing there filed, in July, 1863, a declaration in insolvency. After obtaining his certificate in Dec., 1864, he returned to England. He had five children, one being born after the date of the insolvency. There was a gift for the benefit of another son, F., & his children in similar terms of the remaining half of the rents, & there was a proviso in the will, that if at the death of testator's wife F. or H., or the issue of either who should be dead, should become entitled in possession, to certain other estates, he or they should take no part of the rents of the leasehold property, but that the other son, or his issue, should take the whole of such rents. Testator's widow died in 1866, & thereupon F. became entitled to the other estates :—Held : (1) the power of appointment was unaffected by the insolvency, & it was subsisting ; & (2) on the death of the widow new trusts affecting the entirety of the rents arose, which, subject to H.'s power of appointment, were for the benefit of his five children.—Re AYLWIN'S TRUSTS (1873), L. 6405. —— —— No appointment by bankrupt.]—S. bequeathed residue to children in equal shares, & directed that a part of each son's share should be set apart on trust for the son until bkpcy., then for such of his children as he should appoint, & in default of appointment for such children as should attain twenty-five. One son became bkpt., without having exercised his power of appointment :—Held : the fund set apart vested in his trustee & not in his children by implication in default of appointment.

All testator's children had executed a settlement reciting that the trust in default of appointment was void, & declaring that the son's shares should be held on the trusts of the will :—Held : this was a valid resettlement by the sons on themselves until bkpcy., & their children at twenty-five.—Re SPRAGUE, MILEY v. CAPE (1880), 43 L. 6406. —— Donee's right to release for own benefit—Whether exercisable by trustee.]—The capacity which the donee of a limited power of appointment has of releasing the power of appointment for his own benefit cannot, on his bkpcy., be exercised by his trustee for the benefit of his estate.—Re ROSE, ROSE v. ROSE, [1904] 2 Ch. 348 ; *sub nom. 6407. Power of revocation—Not in possession but expectant on contingency.]—Qu. : whether a power of revocation was an interest capable of passing to the assignees under a bkpcy., the power being not in possession, but expectant on a contingency.—ANON. (1772), Lofft, 71 ; 98 E. R. 538.

6408. Power to consent to advancement—Must be exercised with sanction of trustee—Under direction of court of bankruptcy.]—Testatrix, who died in 1884, gave a moiety of a trust fund to trustee, in trust to pay the income to J. during his life, & after his death in trust for W., an infant, empowering the trustees to raise any part not exceeding one-half of W.'s share for his advancement, subject to the consent in writing of J. during his life. The trustees were desirous of exercising the power, but J. had become a bkpt., & was still undischarged :—Held : J.'s power of consenting to the advancement was not extinguished by his bkpcy., but could not be exercised without the sanction of his trustee in bkpcy. acting under the direction of the Ct. of Bkpcy.

I must take it now as well settled that where the tenancy for life & ultimate reversion are vested in one & the same person, there being intervening interests or limitations, & there is a power of appointment given to that person which might defeat his own interest, then if he becomes bkpt., or assigns his property for the benefit of his creditors, that power is not extinguished, but he is not allowed to exercise it so as to defeat the interest of his trustee in bkpcy. or of his assignee. So that the power not being extinguished, if the trustee in bkpcy. or the assignee chooses to say, "I do not object to the exercise of your power," it may be exercised. If he does object, then he has the right to say, "You shall not exercise it." Of course the trustee in bkpcy. could not give his consent without the sanction of the Ct. of Bkpcy. 6411. —— —— —— & incumbrancers & trustee in bankruptcy.]—Trustees, having power of sale with the consent of the tenant for life, sold land. The tenant for life had created incumbrances on his life estate, & was bkpt. :—Held : the tenant for life could still give his consent, but the concurrence of the incumbrancers & of the trustee in bkpcy. were also necessary to enable the trustees to give a good title.—Re BEDINGFELD & HERRING'S CONTRACT, [1893] 2 Ch. 332 ; 62 L. The settlement contained a power to pltf., & after his death to the wife, & after the death of the survivor to the trustee, to renew leases for lives, & take fines on renewals, but so that the usual rents were still reserved. Pltf. subsequently became bkpt. :—Held : the power of granting renewed leases was not extinguished or suspended by pltf.'s bkpcy.—SIMPSON v. BATHURST, SHEPHERD v. BATHURST, [1896] 5 Ch. 6413. —— Under Settled Land Acts—Not suspended by bankruptcy.]—Debtor was tenant for life, under a will, of a settled estate, which his trustee in bkpcy. desired to let on building leases, & he prayed that the power of leasing might be exercised by the trustees of the will :—Held : (1) whether the powers of the tenant for life under the settlement were suspended or not, his bkpcy. did not suspend his powers of leasing under Settled Land Act, 1882 (c. 38) ; (2) the petition should stand over for a scheme to be arranged by consent, with liberty to apply if the tenant for life contumaciously refused to exercise his powers.—Re MANSEL'S SETTLED ESTATES, [1884] W. N. 209.

6414. —— —— ——.]—An old family mansion-house & estate became vested, under a settlement, in a tenant for life, against whom bkpcy. proceedings were pending, & who had mortgaged his life estate to a money-lender, who had commenced a foreclosure action & taken possession by a receiver. The tenant for life entered into a contract, under Settled Land Acts, for the sale of the entire estate, including the mansion-house, to a purchaser, & applied, under Settled Land Act, 1890 (c. 69), s. 10, for the sanction of the ct. to the sale of the mansion-house & demesne lands : —Held : the sale of the mansion-house & demesne lands ought to be sanctioned.

Settled Land Act, 1882, gives tenants for life power to sell settled estates, however long they may have been in families. There are clauses in it, I refer specially to ss. 50 & 51, which prevent the tenant for life from doing anything to incapacitate himself from exercising those powers. He is not deprived of them by becoming a bkpt. ; he cannot release them ; he can do nothing to destroy them, either by agreement or otherwise. It cannot be said that, because [the tenant for life] is bkpt., or because he has parted with all his interest, & because he has no further interest in this estate, it must be inferred that he is unable to sell (LINDLEY, L.J.). — Re AILESBURY'S (MARQUIS) SETTLED ESTATES, [1892] 1 Ch. 506 ; 61 L. 6415. Power to elect—Between methods of payment to donee—Partnership deed.]—A deed of partnership for life between two solrs. contained a covenant that on the death of either the survivor should, during the joint lives of himself & the widow of the deceased partner, pay to such person or persons as the deceased partner should appoint, an annuity of £200 per annum, or one-fourth of the annual profits of the survivor, as the survivor should elect, & also provided for the admission on certain conditions of a son of the deceased partner into the "said" partnership business. One of the partners, by an ante-nuptial settlement made shortly after the execution of the partnership deed, exercised the power of appointment in favour of his wife, & several years afterwards died greatly indebted to the firm. The survivor continued to practise as a solr. for some years, & realised profits by his business, if estimated without regard to the former business, but they were insufficient to make good the outstanding liabilities of the late partnership, & he became bkpt. without having made any payment to the widow of the deceased partner or electing between the two modes of payment mentioned in the articles :—Held : (1) the assignees were entitled to make the election ; (2) on their electing not to pay the annuity of £200, the widow had no provable demand, the business carried on by the survivor being, according to the true construction of the deed, a continuation of the partnership business, & the payments made on account of the partnership being properly set off against the profits of the sole business.—Re JONES, Ex p. HARPER (1857), 1 De G. & J. 180 ; 26 L. 6421. —— Debts.]—R. contracted to supply meat to a lunatic asylum, but, being unable to carry out the contract, assigned it to H., who delivered his own meat, but in R.'s name, the governing body of the asylum having no notice of the assignment, & not being aware that the contract was not being performed by R. The contract having been put an end to by notice from the committee of visitors of the asylum, & R. having become bkpt., the assignee under the bkpcy. claimed the sum then due for meat supplied as being "goods & chattels" in the possession, order, or disposition of R., at the time of his bkpcy., as reputed owner, with the consent & permission of H., the true owner, within 1849 Act, s. 125 :—Held : the debt in question was within the above sect., & passed to the assignee.—COOKE v. HEMMING (1868), L. 6424. —— Trade fixtures—In general—Fixtures in shop.]—Articles were annexed by a shopkeeper to the premises of which he was a tenant for the purposes of the business, without any intention, except so far as might be inferred from the degree of annexation, of permanently making them part of the freehold. These articles he assigned to a moneylender by a bill of sale. In considering whether the articles were "goods" in the possession, order, or disposition of the shopkeeper in his trade or business within 1883 Act, s. 44 :—Held : the mere fact of annexation of the articles to the freehold, for the more efficient use of the articles as chattels, was not of itself sufficient to convert them into realty, & those articles remained "goods" within s. 44, but where the articles by their nature & by the degree of fixing were so annexed to the freehold as to lead to the inference that they were affixed for the better enjoyment of the freehold during the occupancy of the shopkeeper, they were not "goods" within the sect., although probably severable under the term.—HORWICH v. SYMOND (1915), 84 L. A. remained in possession of the premises & became bkpt.:—Held: (1) the fixtures, consisting of ordinary house fixtures & trade fixtures, were not in the order & disposition of bkpt. within 1849 Act, s. 125; (2) by the word "fixtures," was meant such things as were 6429 i. —— Trade fixtures—Steam engine, shafting, & gearing.]—M., tenant for lives renewable for ever of a flax-mill, erected in connection with it a steam-engine, boiler, shafting, & gearing. The boiler could not have been removed without substantial injury to the structure & the boiler-house. The steam-engine was attached to the boiler by screws & nuts, & was attached to the engine-house by various supports, all of which were capable of being removed without material injury to the structure of the engine-house or to the engine. The shafting & gearing could also have been so removed. The engine-house was constructed to contain a steam-engine, & was not suited for any other purpose. The steam-engine, shafting, & gearing were all fixtures, removable as between landlord & tenant. M. mortgaged the flax-mill, together with the steam-engine, boiler, shafting, & gearing, & other machinery. After the mtge., M. remained in possession of the flax-mill & machinery, & while in possession became bkpt.:—Held: the steam-engine, shafting, & gearing were not chattels in the order & disposition of bkpt.—Re M'KIBBIN, Ex p. MONTGOMERY & BRISTOW, (1855), 4 I. Bkpt., after making some additions to the fixtures, assigned them, but not the mill, to petitioners, by way of mtge. for securing a sum of money, & the assignees under the fiat sold bkpt.'s interest in the mill & the fixtures for the remainder of the term:—Held: the assignees were bound to account to the mtgees. for the value of bkpt.'s interest in the fixtures.—Re ALLNUTT, Ex p. SPICER (1837), 3 Mont. & A. 213; 2 Deac. 335; *sub nom. 6435. —— —— Machinery easily removable without damage to itself or property.]—In Jan., 1797, several persons carried on business in partnership as calico printers, & in the same month certain premises on which their works were principally carried on were conveyed to one of the partners in fee. The conveyance mentioned the premises to consist, besides land, of dwelling houses, machine-house, & other buildings & erections, & stated them to be in the possession of the partner to whom they were conveyed & another partner. Various buildings & machines were afterwards from time to time erected on the premises by the firm, for the purpose of extending the works. The whole was firmly fixed to the freehold, & stood on that part of the land which was conveyed to one of the partners in 1797, but the part in question could be removed without material injury to the buildings. In the different stock-takings of the firm, the land & buildings were always valued & classed separately from the machinery & fixtures. In the part of the country, where the premises were situated, machinery of that description was constantly bought & sold distinctly from the freehold. The freehold in the premises having been subsequently conveyed to two of the partners, they, in 1828, mortgaged them to pltf.'s wife, under the description of all the messuages, dwelling-houses, lands, & buildings therein mentioned, "& also, all that & those the steam-engine, mill-gearing, heavy gear to millwright work, fixed machinery, & other matters & things, etc., then standing & being in & upon the thereby demised buildings, works, & premises, which in any manner constituted fixtures & appendages to the freehold of the same or any part thereof." All the machinery, fixtures, etc., appeared to have been in the reputed ownership of the partners who carried on the works until 1831, when they became bkpt., & defts. were appointed their assignees. Pltf., who was the husband of the mtgee., had inspected statements of the affairs of the partners, which treated the machinery as not included in the mtge., & had made no objections to such statements. In Apr., 1831, the assignees sold all the machinery & fixtures, with the exception of two steam-engines, two water-wheels, an iron flooring, & other small articles, & the greater part of them were removed by the purchasers. The articles claimed by the mtgee. were all firmly fixed to the freehold, but in such a manner that they might easily be removed without material injury to themselves or to the buildings:—Held: the machinery did not belong to the inheritance, but was part of the personal estate of bkpts., & it passed to the assignees.—TRAPPES v. HARTER (1833), 2 Cr. & M. 153; 3 Tyr. 602; 3 L. 6436. —— —— Machinery not removable without damage.]—The owner in fee of a mill entered into a partnership, & out of the partnership funds erected new machinery, which could not be removed without damage. The owner mortgaged the mill & machinery to secure a partnership debt. The partnership became bkpt.,

6433 i. —— —— Machinery & fixtures.]—On June 23, 1893, A., the owner of a flour mill, mortgaged all the machinery engines, plant, stock, implements, utensils, trade fixtures, chattels & effects specified in sched. annexed to the deed of mtge., to pltf., & power was given to pltf. to sell same in default of payment. In Mar., 1899, A. became insolvent, & his estate thereupon vested in the official assignee. The greater portion of the mortgaged property consisted of articles fixed to various parts of the flour mill or of the machinery therein:—Held: (1) as to the articles not so fixed, they passed to the official assignee; (2) as to the fixed articles, they were not goods & chattels in the possession, order or disposition of insolvent as the reputed owner, & they were not in his reputed ownership.

6441. —— —— Signboard of inn.]—At the Royal Oak Inn, Bettws-y-Coed, there was, in 1847, a signboard affixed to the wall of the house by staples. The inn was then held by E. as tenant from year to year. In 1866, owing to alterations in the house, the signboard, on which a picture of an oak tree with horsemen riding underneath had been painted by David Cox in 1847, was taken down & placed, first in a sitting-room & afterwards, being framed & glazed, in the hall of the inn, where it was affixed to the wall. In 1861 E. died, & was succeeded in the tenancy of the house by his son, R., who took a lease of the house from Lord W. for twenty-one years, containing a covenant to surrender the house & fixtures at the end of the term. In 1863 R. died, having devised all his property to his wife, who subsequently married X. In Aug., 1871, X. surrendered the lease to Lady W., who on the same day granted him a lease for fifty-eight years, containing a like covenant to surrender. X. died in 1876, & his widow thereupon conveyed all her interest in the inn, expressly reserving the signboard, to M., who, by arrangement, retained the signboard at the inn for two years. At the end of the two years Mrs. X. sent for the signboard, but Lady W.'s agents forbade its removal, & it remained in the hall of the inn till the filing of a petition for liquidation by M. :—Held : the signboard was not a chattel of which reputed ownership could be predicated, &, as against M. & her trustee in liquidation, Lady W. had a clear right of preventing the removal of the fixture.—Re THOMAS, Ex p. WILLOUGHBY D'ERESBY (BARONESS) (1881), 44 L. 6442. —— —— Distinguished from house fixtures.]—As to trade fixtures, the assignees are entitled to such as the exor. could claim against the heir, or the tenant remove as against his landlord, having regard to the quality of the estate ; as to house fixtures, it is too much to say that whatever comes within the most comprehensive meaning of the word fixture forms part of the realty, but only such as by their removal would do injury & waste to the premises. In ordinary cases, house fixtures, as that term is commonly understood, are for the most part looked upon as a part of the house to which they are attached, & do not raise any credit from the possession thereof, but in the case of trade utensils & fixtures, it is otherwise, & the fact of the possession by the trader raises the presumption of property, & induces credit. In the former, instance, the possession may well remain in bkpt., without affecting the title of the mtgee., it not being within the mischief of 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 72 (SIR J. ROSE).—Re WALSH, Ex p. KING (1840), 1 Mont. D. & De G. 119 ; 4 Jur. 510, Ct. of R.

6443. —— —— Fixtures purchased with copyhold.]—Bkpts. had purchased copyhold property with fixtures erected thereon, which were in law removable between landlord & tenant, as well as on the principle of the benefit of trade. They mortgaged the property, together with the fixtures, describing the property in the words of the purchase deed. After the mtge., they erected other fixtures of like nature, & continued in possession till their bkpcy. :—Held : all the fixtures were

a. —— —— Railway or tramway.]—A mtge. of freehold or leasehold property with fixtures thereon, although they are trade fixtures removable by the tenant, will pass the property with fixtures to the mtgee., & take such property out of the order & disposition clause, & gives such mtgee. a title to retain, as against assignees in bkpcy., fixtures not removable without injury to the freehold, although as between the landlord & tenant they might be removable during the tenancy. A tramway or railway is a fixture that is not removable.—THE PATENT PEAT CO., LTD. (1867), 17 L. T. 69.—IR.

b. —— —— Seizable under fi. fa.]—Where trade fixtures are seizable under a fi. fa. they will pass to the assignee under the reputed ownership clause in case of bkpcy.

Where there is a permanent annexation of machinery to the freehold, it will not be regarded as goods & chattels that will pass under the reputed ownership clause, but movable fixtures, that are chargeable with the condition of chattels by the severance of a tenant, will be held to be chattels for the benefit of his creditors generally, as well as for the benefit of a particular creditor who might seize under a fi. fa.

Fixtures that are totally unannexed to the freehold & are made steady by their own weight, but are worked by movable belts put on to communicate motive power, will pass to the assignees as goods & chattels, & where machinery is attached to the freehold for the purpose of making it steady in working, it will not be held to be so attached to the freehold as to prevent it becoming goods & chattels under the reputed ownership clause.—Re TREVEY (1866), 14 L. 6468. —— Right to receive proceeds of sale of real estate—After conversion.]—A., in 1833, mortgaged certain real estate to B., with a power of sale, under which the property was sold in 1842 to a purchaser, who transferred his contract to B. There was a balance after paying off B., & there being accounts between A. & C., the balance was placed, under a deed of June 25, 1842, in the hands of trustees, to be dealt with by arbn. between A. & C. to whom in 1834 A. had made an equitable mtge. of the property. In Jan., 1840, C. deposited the deeds with pltf., by way of equitable mtge. In Apr., 1842, C. applied to pltf. for the loan of the deeds, telling him he wanted them to enable the purchase to be completed, & promising to return them forthwith. He did not return them forthwith, & pltf. never applied to have the deeds back for more than four years. In May, 1843, C. deposited the deeds, by way of mtge., with D. In 1846 C. became bkpt. :—Semble : the real estate, being converted into personalty before the bkpcy., the right of C. was merely a right to receive a certain sum of money, & no notice having been given by the pltf. or the holder of the deeds to the trustees, the right to receive the money remained in the order & disposition of C., & passed to his assignees.—WALDRON v. SLOPER (1852), 1 Drew. 193 ; 61 E. 6469. —— Right to sum charged on real estate —Not yet payable.]—By a marriage settlement real estate was vested in trustees for a term of five hundred years, upon trust, after the death of the survivor of H. & his wife, to raise, by sale or mtge., £2,000 for the portions of their younger children. T., one of such younger children, assigned, by way of mtge., his interest in the £2,000, & notice of the mtge. was given to the surviving trustee of the settlement. Afterwards he executed a deed of further charge, of which, until after his bkpcy., no notice was given to the trustee, & subsequently he became bkpt. At the date of the deed of further charge the £2,000 had not become raisable. As between the owner of the further charge & the assignees in bkpcy. claiming under 1849 Act, s. 125:—Held: T.'s interest under the settlement was a chose in action only, & not an interest in land, & the claim of the assignees was entitled to priority.—Re HUGHES (1864), 33 L. The creditor, upon notice of the insolvency, filled up the blanks with his own name, & took possession of the goods on the day before the trader committed an act of bkpcy. In trover by the assignees against the creditor:—Held: goods lying in bkpt.'s name on any part of the day of the bkpcy. were within 21 Jac. 1, c. 19.—ARBOUIN v. WILLIAMS (1824), Ry. & M. 72, N. SUB-SECT. 3.—"IN THE POSSESSION, ORDER, OR DISPOSITION OF BANKRUPT."

A. Sufficiency of Possession, etc.

(a) In General.

6475. Possession—Question of fact—Sufficiency of evidence.]—In Sept., 1861, A. contracted with B. for the purchase of B.'s interest in the lease of a public-house, but it being found that, owing to his official capacity, A. was unable to hold the licence in his own name, it was arranged that C., his father-in-law, should be put forward in his stead. On Oct. 10 following, the lease was assigned by B. to C., to whom also the licence was duly transferred, & to enable C. to complete the purchase deft. advanced him £230 on a mtge., by assignment, of the lease & the furniture & effects then in & upon the premises. The mtge.-deed, which was made between C., therein described as of the public-house, of the one part, & deft. of the other part, bore date Oct. 10, 1861, & the money which was advanced by deft. to C. was by him immediately paid to B. A. was present at the negotiation between C. & deft. for the loan, at the execution of the mtge. & the payment of the money, all of which was effected on Oct. 10. C.'s name was painted up outside the door where B.'s name 6470 i. Refers to date of act of bkpcy.]—The grantor of a bill of sale was adjudged bkpt. on Jan. 11, having committed an act of bkpcy. on Nov. 5 previous. After the act of bkpcy., & with notice thereof, but before the order of adjudication, the grantee took possession of the goods, which till then continued in bkpt.'s order & disposition:—Held: the goods were in bkpt.'s order & disposition "at the time he became bkpt." because they were so at the time of his committing the act of bkpcy.—JAMES v. MACKEN, Re CAMPBELL (1878), 12 I. L. T. 161.—IR.

6470 ii. ——.]—M. was adjudicated bkpt. on Aug. 21, 1914, upon an act of bkpcy. committed on June 21. Between those dates he had deposited share certificates & a policy of insurance with a bank as security for his account:—Held: M. had become bkpt. within the order & disposition sect. at the date of the act of bkpcy.—Re MACKAY, [1915] 2 I. PART XX. SECT. 9, SUB-SECT. 3.—A (a).

6475 i. Possession—Must be actual.]—The difference between the reputed ownership clause in bkpcy. & the analogous clause in Bills of Sale Act is that under that Act the "apparent" possession is sufficient to work a forfeiture, whilst in bkpcy. there must be actual possession calculated to obtain a false credit.—Re HANKS (1858), 31 L. had been, but A. had the management of the business of the tavern behind the bar. A. became bkpt., & on trover being brought against deft. by A.'s assignees, for a wrongful conversion of the goods comprised in deft.'s mtge. :—Held : there was not sufficient evidence to warrant the conclusion that the goods were in the possession of A. at the time of the bkpcy. the conclusion to be drawn from the whole case being rather, that they were in the possession of C. with the consent of deft., the true owner.—EDMANDS v. BEST (1862), 1 New Rep. 30 ; 7 L. T. 279.

6476. —— —— ——.]—By a voluntary post-nuptial settlement, debtor assigned certain life policies & furniture to trustees upon trust for his wife, himself, & his family. The deed was duly registered as a bill of sale under Bills of Sale Act, 1854 (c. 36), but became void for want of renewal of registration. In Sept., 1887, the furniture was removed to the house of debtor's son & about the same time debtor & his wife took up their residence with their son, who was assisting to support them. On Oct. 11, 1887, debtor executed a deed supplemental to, & confirming the original deed, & the deed of 1887 was registered as a bill of sale :—Held : (1) the question whether the goods were in the actual possession of bkpt. was a question of fact ; (2) when the goods were removed to the son's house, while in transit they would be regarded as in the possession of the trustees of the deed, but afterwards on the facts they must be regarded as being in the possession of bkpt.—Re EMERY, Ex p. CHIEF OFFICIAL RECEIVER (1888), 21 Q. 6479. —— Application in equity as in law.]—The mtgee. of a ship at sea, by bill of sale, who has omitted to procure an indorsement thereof on the certificate of registry, within thirty days after the return of the ship to port, the registered owner having after that time become bkpt., has no equity, distinct from his legal rights, to restrain the sale of the ship by the assignees, the title to the ship, after the bkpcy., depending upon the application of the rule of law with regard to order & disposition.—CAMPBELL v. THOMPSON (1842), 2 Hare, 140 ; 7 Jur. 59 ; 67 E. 6481. Bankrupt having possession—Acting as owner till bankruptcy.]—A. being indebted to pltf. in £1,400, for securing payment thereof mortgaged to pltf. some leasehold estates, wharfs, & three hoys, but kept possession of the hoys, & some time after became bkpt. Pltf. brought an ejectment, & got possession of the leasehold estate, but the assignees got the hoys. The leasehold not being sufficient to pay pltf. his principal & interest, he brought a bill to foreclose, & to compel the assignees to redeem the hoys, or that they might be sold to pay his demands. The assignees insisted on their right to the hoys under 21 Jac. 1, c. 19, s. 11 ; bkpt. having the possession, & acting as owner thereof till declared bkpt. :—Held : the bill should be dismissed so far as it required an account of the profits of the hoys, which should be sold for the benefit of the creditors in general.—STEPHENS v. SOLE (1736), cited 1 Ves. 6482. —— Right of disposition restricted—Indorsement of restrictions on share certificates.]—By a clause in the deed of settlement of a banking co. it was stipulated that the co. should have a lien on the shares of such proprietors as were customers & indebted to the bank, & that no share should be transferred without the consent of the directors, & an abstract of those provisions was indorsed on the certificates of the shares held by each proprietor. Bkpt. at the time of his bkpcy. was the owner of thirty shares & had in his possession the certificates of ownership thus indorsed, being then largely indebted to the bank for advances :—Held : the shares did not pass to his assignee under the clause of reputed ownership in the Bkpcy. 6491. —— —— To creditor—Unfinished ship.]—Shipbuilders on Apr. 11, by a written agreement of that date, agreed to build a vessel for a purchaser, at a price payable by instalments. The agreement had been negotiated for the purchaser by a shipbroker, who had, pending the negotiations, & before the agreement was signed, advanced £400 to the shipbuilders, who had already commenced building the vessel upon the understanding that it was to be secured to him by an assignment of the agreement when perfected, & by a charge or lien on the vessel. By an indenture dated Apr. 12, the builders, in consideration, as was therein stated, of £500 on or immediately before the execution of the indenture paid by the broker to the builders, assigned the agreement of Apr. 11 to the broker, & it was agreed that, subject to a lien given by the agreement of Apr. 11 to the purchaser, the vessel & all stores about the builders' yard should be the property of the broker, to be held in lien to the extent of all money due from the builders to the broker, & that the aggregate of moneys secured should not exceed £500. Upon the execution of the agreement the broker advanced to the builders the further sum of £100. On May 19 the agreement of Apr. 11 was cancelled owing to differences between the builders & the purchaser, & the former, for the purpose of securing the broker from loss by reason of the cancellation, proposed to him that he should become the absolute owner of the vessel. He assenting thereto, an agreement was signed by the parties on & dated May 20, whereby the builders agreed to sell, & the broker agreed to purchase, the hull of a new vessel then in course of building by the builders at their yard, to be completed according to specification for £1,150, & it was agreed that £500, then already advanced by the broker to the builders, should be taken as part payment of the purchase-money, & that if the builders did not finish the vessel by June 21, or should before its completion cease working at it, the broker might enter the builders' yard & complete with their materials & at their cost. The builders made no further progress with the vessel, & were adjudicated bkpts. on June 2 :—Held : the vessel was not in the order & disposition of bkpts.—SWAINSTON v. CLAY (1863), 3 De G. merchants carrying on business at Calcutta, & S. & Co., merchants carrying on business at London. A. & Co. alleged that they were the owners of certain goods, & sold same to B. & Co. & S. & Co., & drew for the price on S. & Co., who accepted the drafts, that the goods were shipped to B. & Co. at Calcutta, that at the time when the acceptances were given it was agreed upon between A. & Co., S. & Co., & B. & Co. that they should be met & paid out of the sale-proceeds of the goods, "which were thereupon specially appropriated thereto," that S. & Co. & B. & Co. subsequently suspended payment, in Dec., 1866, & Jan., 1867, that in Feb., 1867, B. & Co. filed their petition in the Ct. for the Relief of Insolvent Debtors at Calcutta, having previously delivered a portion of the goods, & indorsed the bills of lading for the remainder to J. & Co., who had notice of the insolvent state of S. & Co. & B. & Co., without any consideration & without the consent or authority of S. & Co., although the acceptances had not been met or returned, nor the goods in any way paid for, that the proceeds arising from the sale of the goods had been handed over by J. & Co. to the assignee, who threatened & intended to apply same in payment of the general body of creditors of B. & Co. NORMAN, J., decided the goods were in the possession, order, & disposition of B. & Co., as reputed owners, with the consent of A. & Co., & the goods & the sale-proceeds rightly passed to the assignee, & dismissed the suit :—Held : on other grounds, the ct. had jurisdiction to entertain the suit.—STERLING v. COCHRANE (1868), 1 B. 6508 i. Possession as tenant—Distillery utensils held under conditional sale.]—The landlord of a distillery, who was also proprietor of the distillery utensils, granted a missive assigning the utensils to the tenant, & stipulating for 8 per cent. on the purchase-money while he had possessed them, & further bearing, "It is hereby declared & understood that you are to be obliged to take the utensils, betwixt the term of Martinmas, 1824, at the amount of what I paid for same, at which period the payment of 8 per cent. will cease upon the amount." The tenant was sequestrated subsequent to Martinmas, 1824, without payment of the price :—Held : the utensils were the property of the landlord.—WIGHT v. FORMAN (1828), 7 Sh. 6510. —— —— Rent payable in advance—No default at bankruptcy.]—The rent of a cotton mill was made payable in advance, & the tenant covenanted with the landlord to keep in the mill machinery of the value of £3,000, as a security for the rent. The lessee became bkpt., no rent being due. The official assignee immediately entered, & claimed to be entitled to remove the machinery before the next instalment of rent became due, which claim the landlord resisted, on the ground that the covenant gave him a lien on the machinery:—Held: the provision as to reputed ownership applied, & the assignee was entitled to remove the machinery.—SHUTTLEWORTH v. HERNAMAN (1857), 1 De G. & J. 322; 29 L. 6511. —— Fixtures after expiry of original & pending granting of new lease—New lease agreed to be deposited with creditor—Bankruptcy before new lease granted.]—A firm deposited a lease with their bankers as a security. Several fixtures on the premises were the property of the firm. The lease expired, & the firm continued to occupy the premises as yearly tenants, & afterwards made an agreement for a new lease, the counterpart of which was deposited with the bankers, & they engaged to deposit the new lease when they obtained it. The firm having become bkpt., the landlord declared forfeited the lease which had not been signed by himself:—Held: the tenant's fixtures were not in their order & disposition, so as to pass to their assignees.—FEARENSIDE v. DERHAM, THOMPSON v. DERHAM (1844), 13 L. 6513. Possession as bailee—Securities deposited in sealed packet—For safe keeping.]—Bkpt., on Mar. 1, deposited with petitioner certificates of shares in a mining co., for securing a loan of money, with an agreement accompanying the deposit, by which he engaged to complete the transfer of the shares, when required. Petitioner sealed up the documents in a packet, which she entrusted to bkpt. to keep in his iron safe, for better security, where they remained until three weeks before the bkpcy., when it was reclaimed by petitioner:—Held: the shares were not in the order & disposition of bkpt. at the time of his bkpcy.—Re RICHARDSON, Ex p. RICHARDSON (1839), 3 Deac. 496; 1 Mont. & Ch. 43; 8 L. 6514. —— Hired goods.]—Pltf. lent furniture on hire to defts., hotel-keepers, at a fixed sum to be paid by instalments, with a provision that until all the instalments were paid, the property should remain in pltf. & if any instalments should not be paid when due, pltf. was to be at liberty to retake possession of his goods & the instalments were to be forfeited, but upon all the instalments being paid the furniture was to become the property of defts. Upon one instalment being unpaid pltf. put a man in possession of the furniture, & defts. executed an assignment of the lease of the hotel, which had been previously mortgaged to persons whom pltf. had paid off, & of all their personal chattels & effects, including the hired furniture, to pltf., & afterwards became bkpt.:—Held: pltf.'s furniture, not having been paid for, remained the property of pltfs., & was not in the order & disposition of bkpts.—CRAWCOUR v. SALTER (1881), 18 Ch. 6515. —— —— No right to use as own without fraud.]—H., on Aug. 30, 1869, agreed with B., a furniture dealer, to hire furniture from B., at the rate of £2 per week. In the memorandum of agreement there was a provision that if H. should be sued or become bkpt., etc., B. should be at liberty to possess himself of the furniture. The agreement was never registered under Bills of Sale Act, 1854 (c. 36). B., being still in possession of the furniture became bkpt. on June 9, 1871, & on July 6 the trustee under the bkpcy. took possession. On July 7 the trustee first received notice of B.'s claim to the furniture. The trustee applied that the furniture might be declared to be in the order & disposition of H., with the consent of the alleged true owner:—Held: the furniture was not in the order & disposition of bkpt. with the consent of the true owner, as bkpt. could not have used it as his own without a direct fraud.—Re HAWKINS, Ex p. EMERSON (1871), 41 L. machinery. Neither the sale note nor the agreement was registered under Bills of Sale Act, 1854 (c. 36), & P. paid two instalments of £73 10*s.* due under the agreement & no more. P., without the consent or knowledge of pltfs., & after he had made default in payment of the instalments, parted with the possession of the steam-engine & thrashing machine, with their appurtenances, & delivered same to deft., who had no notice of the above agreement, for the purpose of having them sold by auction, & deft. advanced £100 to P. on them, & also incurred expenses in attempting to sell them. P. then committed an act of bkpcy., & pltfs. demanded possession of the steam-engine & thrashing machine, with their appurtenances, from deft., who claimed a lien upon them in respect of his commission & charges as auctioneer in such attempted sale, & also in respect of the advance of £100 which had not been repaid by him to P. In an action to recover the steam-engine & machinery, with their appurtenances or their value & damages for their detention :—Held : pltfs. were entitled to judgment on the ground that the steam-engine & machinery, whether the agreement amounted to a bill of sale or not, were not in the order & disposition of P. within 1869 Act, s. 15 (5).—LINCOLN WAGGON & ENGINE CO. v. MUMFORD (1871), 41 L. 6517. Possession through devastavit by bankrupt's wife.]—Testator bequeathed furniture to his wife, upon trust for sale with all convenient speed, & appointed her extrix. Eight years afterwards she married, having still the goods in her possession, & she & her husband used the furniture for six years, after which the husband became bkpt. :—Held : the assignees were entitled to the goods, which were in the order & disposition of bkpt., his possession not being consistent with the trust.—Re MOORE, Ex p. MOORE (1842), 2 Mont. 6518. Possession of daughter's furniture—Bought by her from trustee in previous liquidation.]—A daughter purchased, with her own money, from her father's trustee in liquidation, his household furniture, but took no formal assignment. She lived with her father as before, & paid the rent, & her father paid the rates, taxes & other outgoings. Her father carried on his trade at the house, his name was on the door plate, & he voted at elections in respect of his occupation. He became bkpt. :—Held : the furniture passed to his trustee as in his order & disposition.—Re COOK, Ex p. MOORE (1877), 36 L. T. 560.

6519. Possession after sale of sheriff's officer—Purchaser allowing bankrupt to use goods on payment of interest.]—In 1877 a sheriff's officer took possession of the furniture & effects of debtor under a fi. fa. He sold the goods privately to a hosier, a friend of debtor, for £194 15*s.* It was agreed between debtor & the purchaser, that debtor should remain in possession of the furniture & effects, paying interest at the rate of 5 per cent. upon the purchase money. Debtor remained in possession until Apr. 15, 1879, when he filed his petition for liquidation. In Oct., 1882, the trustee applied to the county ct. for an order to enforce delivery of the furniture to him :—Held : the furniture was in the order & disposition of debtor as reputed owner, at the time of filing the petition for liquidation, & belonged to the trustee. —Re FOWLER, Ex p. BROOKS (1883), 23 Ch. 6521. Possession with consent of assignees for creditors—To assist in carrying on business.]—A., a horse-dealer & jobber, by a deed of trust, assigned all his stock-in-trade, etc., to trustees, for the benefit of his creditors, until all his then debts should be paid off, to hold on certain trusts (inter alia) that, so long as A. should observe the orders of the trustees, he was to be allowed to carry on & conduct the business, subject to their orders, but that they should have the power to determine his possession on his failing to observe their orders, that all money received in the business was to be paid to the account of the trustees, & all money paid by their cheques, & that A. was to receive a certain weekly salary. The creditors also advanced a large sum of money to carry on the business. The business was carried on by A. for some time, his name being over the door at the place of business, & he had dealings with various persons as if he carried on the business on his own account ; but on his neglecting to observe the orders of the trustees, they determined his right to carry on the business, & he admitted, in writing, that they had a right to & did assume possession of the stock-in-trade, etc. The trustees thereupon gave notice to the parties who had some of the horses, part of the stock-in-trade, that they belonged to them. Two days after such notice A. committed an act of bkpcy. :—Held : the trustees, by allowing A. to carry on the business in his own name, were not estopped from denying that the horses were A.'s, & the horses were not in the possession, order, & disposition of bkpt. at the time of the bkpcy., within 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 72.—PRICE v. GROOM (1848), 2 Exch. 542 ; 17 L. 6523. —— Unfinished ship.]—A shipbuilder, contracted to build a ship, to be paid for by four instalments. The ship was measured with the builder's privity, to the intent that the purchaser might get her registered in his name. On June 25 the shipbuilder signed the usual certificate of her building, & on the 26th the ship was registered in the purchaser's name, & on the same day the third instalment was paid. On the 30th the builder committed an act of bkpcy., upon which a commission issued. On July 2, the ship not being then completed, or launched, the purchaser, & a crew hired by him, took possession of her, & a rudder & cordage, the former of which was made by the shipbuilder, and the latter bought by him, for the express purpose of completing the ship: —Held: the property was not in the possession of bkpt. as reputed owner.—WOODS v. RUSSELL (1822), 5 B. & Ald. 942; 1 Dow. & Ry. A. took the note, but in consequence of its not being negotiable, returned it to A., in order that B. might give him a negotiable security instead of it, & C. did, at A.'s request, accept negotiable bills of exchange, drawn by A. upon him, instead of the note, & at the same time that that was done, A. desired C. to hand the bills to B. 6554. —— Possession through agent & manager.]—A Scottish firm had a branch in London, which was wholly conducted by an agent & manager at a salary, but in their name. By contract, he was to have a lien on goods consigned to him for bills accepted by him for the firm. The firm became bkpt. in Scotland :—Held : the goods under the manager's control at the time were within the order & disposition of bkpts., & passed to their assignees unaffected by his lien.—HOGGARD v. MACKENZIE (1858), 25 Beav. 493 ; 4 Jur. 6556. —— Temporary possession by party to whom engine hired.]—L., a maker & seller of agricultural implements, having purchased a portable steam-engine of pltfs., assigned it to them by deed, to secure the payment of the balance of the purchase-money, with power to them to take possession of it at any time & sell, & after paying themselves any balance due to them, to pay the residue to L., with a proviso that, until default by L. in payment of the balance due after a demand, L. might possess & use the engine, & a proviso that, on payment of the balance by L. before a sale, the assignment should be void. The engine was delivered to L., & he was in the habit of letting it out on hire in the ordinary way of his trade. He afterwards, while a balance was still due to pltfs., became bkpt., & at the time of his bkpcy. the engine was in the possession of a farmer, to whom it had been let on hire :—Held : temporary possession by the farmer at the time of the bkpcy. did not make the engine the less in the possession, order & disposition of bkpt. as reputed owner.—HORNSBY v. MILLER (1858), 1 E. & E. 192 ; 28 L. 6557. —— Temporary possession by party to whom horses lent.]—A horse-dealer supplied a customer with a pair of horses, for which she paid £170, but finding the horses not according to warranty, she returned them. The dealer sent another pair, requesting the customer to keep them until he could furnish her with a better pair. That she did, until the dealer became bkpt., without having repaid the £170, when it was found that the horses did not belong to him but to an employer, for whom he was agent to sell, but not to pledge, the horses :—Held : the horses were in bkpt.'s order & disposition, & the customer could not enforce a lien on them as against the trustee.—Re SILLENCE, Ex p. ROY (1877), 7 Ch. (b) Possession, etc., of Firm or continuing Partner.

6558. Possession for purposes of firm—House taken & furnished in name of partner.]—A member of a firm took & furnished a house in his own name. The house was used entirely for the purposes of the firm as a boarding-house for their apprentices :—Held : the arrangement made the furniture partnership property, independently of the operation of 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 72. Semble : the furniture was in the reputed ownership of the partners (SIR J. CROSS).—Re FEAR & COWARD, Re COWARD, Ex p. HARE (1835), 1 Deac. 16 ; 2 Mont. & A. 478, Ct. of R.

6559. Possession by firm as bailees—Goods of another firm in which one partner was member.]—S. & O. called a meeting of creditors, at which trustees were appointed to wind up their affairs as in bkpcy. An agreement to that effect was signed by most of the creditors, but no assignment was executed. The partnership was dissolved, & S. obtained permission from the trustees to use the premises for a new branch of trade. He afterwards took H. into partnership, upon the terms that the business should be carried on in S.'s 6557 i. Possession through others—Temporary possession by wife to whom jewels lent.]—V. bequeathed, to trustees, jewels upon trust that the trustees for the time being should permit his widow to enjoy them for life, & that after her decease they should form part of the residue of his personal estate. Shortly after his death the widow lent the ornaments to her daughter on her marriage. In the daughter's possession they remained until near her death, when she pledged them. Her husband released them, & became insolvent :—Held : they did not pass to the assignees as being in insolvent's order & disposition with the consent of the legal owners, the trustees.—Re ROBERTSON (1864), 10 L. T. 105 ; 15 Ir. Jur. 418.—IR.

name. H. put capital into the business & had a share of the profits, but he took no part in the business & was not known to be a partner. Part of the stock of S. & O. remained on the premises separately warehoused. It was not adapted for the trade of S. & H., & was insured in the names of S. & O., & the premiums were paid by the trustees out of their assets. There was no evidence that H. was aware of the existence of that stock. H. & S. & O. became bkpts. :—Held : 6 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 72, did not apply & the assignees of S. & O. were entitled to the stock.

There is no authority for saying that when two persons are the joint owners of property, & one becomes bkpt., the claim of reputed ownership applies to the joint property of the other partner (SIR J. CROSS).—Re SWANSBOROUGH & OAKE, Re HARRIS, Ex p. VARDON (1842), 2 Mont. D. & De G. 694, Ct. of R.

6560. Possession after announcement of partnership—No real partnership—Alleged partner mere servant.]—A merchant announced by circular that he had taken his nephew into partnership but in fact the nephew received a salary, & did not participate in the capital, profits, or losses. Both became bkpts. Part of the stock-in-trade was at the docks, which the uncle, on announcing the partnership, directed the dock co. to deliver to the order of the new firm :—Semble : the stock was in the reputed ownership of the two.—Re REAY & REAY, Ex p. ARBOUIN, Ex p. GONNE (1846), De G. 359, Ct. of R.

6561. Possession by firm—Only one partner bankrupt.]—Premises with the machinery & plant thereon were let on lease to two partners, one of whom was an infant. Both partners committed an act of bkpcy., but the adult partner was alone made bkpt. :—Held : in order to bring goods within 1869 Act, s. 15 (5), they must be in the sole possession & sole reputed ownership of bkpt., & the goods which belonged to the landlord, & which were by his permission in the possession of the firm, did not pass to bkpt.'s trustee.—Re LAKE, Ex p. DORMAN (1872), 8 Ch. 6562. —— ——.]—B., as trustee & exor. of his father's will, became entitled to one half share in a business lately carried on in partnership between his father & another. In pursuance of a provision in the will, B. continued the partnership business, & afterwards purchased the interest of the beneficiaries under the will, & executed mtges. to secure the purchase-money. New articles of partnership were then entered into between B. & the old partner, in which the former appeared as the owner of one half the business. B. was afterwards adjudicated bkpt., & his share in the partnership was sold to the other partner :—Held : to bring partnership goods within 1869 Act, s. 15 (5), they must have been in the sole & absolute possession of bkpt., &, as the mtgee. of B.'s share had not acquired the right to take possession of any of the partnership property, B. was not in possession with the consent of the true owner.—Re BAINBRIDGE, Ex p. FLETCHER (1878), 8 Ch. 6563. Possession by purchaser of firm assets—Sale under order of court.]—By the decree in a suit a partnership between pltf. & deft. was dissolved, & the business & partnership property were ordered to be sold as a going concern, either party being at liberty to bid. Under a subsequent order pltf. became the purchaser, he having in the meantime been carrying on the business for the benefit of the purchaser. Under the order approving of the purchase by him he was allowed to go into possession at once as purchaser. He continued in possession for some time, & ultimately became bkpt. :—Held : in the circumstances the business & partnership property were in the order & disposition of bkpt. with the consent of the true owner.—GRAHAM v. MCCULLOCH (1875), L. 6576. Assignment of furniture to trustee for wife—Not registered as bill of sale.]—A married woman gave up to her husband £500, held upon trust for her separate use, upon the understanding that the husband would settle his furniture upon her for her separate use. The husband assigned the furniture to a trustee to hold for the use & benefit of his wife, & the property remained in the joint possession of husband & wife. The assignment was not registered under Bills of Sales Act, 1854 (c. 36), & the husband afterwards became bkpt. Upon bill filed by the wife to have the assignment reformed, so as to create a binding trust for her separate use, & to restrain the assignee from keeping possession of the furniture :—Held : independently of the above Act, pltf. would have been entitled to have the furniture secured for her separate use, but the assignment operating as a bill of sale came within the Act, & not being registered under the Act, the furniture remained in the order & disposition of bkpt., & could not be protected against the assignee.—ASHTON v. BLACKSHAW (1870), L. 6579. —— Lodged with wharfinger—Reweighing & rehousing unnecessary.]—The lodging a delivery order with a wharfinger is sufficient to transfer the property in goods lying at a wharf, without any reweighing or rehousing, & if the party giving the order afterwards become bkpt., his assignees cannot maintain trover in such circumstances, as for goods in his order & disposition.—TUCKER v. RUSTON (1825), 2 C. & P. 86, N. 6580. Order on bill discounter to pay proceeds to creditor—Bankruptcy when funds in transit.]—Bkpt. before his bkpcy. drew a bill, which he discounted, & gave a creditor an order directing the discounter to transmit the money to the creditor. While the money was in the hands of a carrier, bkpt. committed an act of bkpcy. His assignees brought assumpsit against the creditor to recover the amount :—Held : while the money was in the hands of the carrier the property remained unaltered, & the assignees were entitled to recover it as being in bkpt.'s order & disposition.—HERVEY v. LIDDIARD (1815), 1 Stark. 123 ; 2 Rose, 463, N. 6581. Possession by man left in possession by sheriff—Bankrupt continuing to carry on his trade as usual.]—A. levied an execution on the goods of B., a trader, & directed the sheriff's officer not to sell, but to leave a man in possession with the warrant. B. carried on his trade as usual, &, five months afterwards, became a bkpt. :—Held : notwithstanding the execution, & the possession of the officer, the goods seized passed to the assignees, by virtue of 21 Jac. 1, c. 19, s. 11.—TOUSSAINT v. HARTOP (1816), Holt, N. 6582. Possession by agent for creditor—Bankrupt & his servants allowed to continue in house.]—M., in consideration of money lent & advanced by W., covenanted with W. that if default were made by him in payment, W. should be at liberty to enter & take possession of the premises & effects of M. & to sell same & apply the purchase-money in payment of expenses & of the debts due to him, & account to M. for the surplus. M. made default in payment, & W. by his agent entered in & took possession of the premises, but did not sell. A few days after W. had taken possession M. was adjudicated a bkpt. :—Held : (1) the premises & effects passed to the assignees ; (2) if bkpt. & his servants were allowed to continue in the house, the goods would pass to the assignees as being in the use, order, & disposition of bkpt.—Re MELLOR, Ex p. WAYMAN (1854), 1 Bankr. & Ins. 6577 i. Delivery order on warehouseman—Indorsed for value & presented before bankruptcy.]—P. & Co. sold to H. several parcels of whiskey in bond. Delivery orders were made out by P. & Co., their store-keeper, to deliver the whiskey to H. or order. The payment was by bills. H. indorsed some of the delivery orders to C. for value before bkpcy., & C. presented the orders to the store-keeper of H. Some formalities were required to be gone through at the Custom-house, & the whiskey was not immediately delivered to C. Nothing remained to be done by P. & Co., in order to complete the sale to H. :—Held : the whiskey was not in the order & disposition of H. at the date of the bkpcy.—Re HUGHES (1862), 12 I. Ch. 6582 i. Possession by agent for creditor—Bankrupt & his servants allowed to continue in house.]—A. executed the following document in favour of M. & Co. : " In consideration of your having advanced to me R8,700, I hereby assign to you the whole of the furniture & fittings now lying at my house, the whole of which I declare to be my property, free & unencumbered, & hereby authorise you to proceed to a sale of the property by auction, should I fail to refund the R8,700 on or before July 10 next." The document was duly stamped & registered under Registration Act, s. 53. A. failed to pay the R8,700, & on the following day, M. & Co. placed a durwan, their own servant, on the premises, to assert their right to the possession of the furniture & to prevent its removal without their premission. A. continued to reside in the house, & to use & enjoy the furniture as before, with the knowledge & consent of M. & Co. Before any sale took place, A. filed his petition in the Insolvent Ct., & the usual vesting order was made :—Held : the furniture was in the " possession, order & disposition " of insolvent.—Re AGABEG (1867), 2 Ind. at a certain rent therein mentioned. The lease contained a proviso for re-entry in case the rent should be in arrear for the space of thirty days, & also a proviso that on the expiration, or other sooner determination of the demise, the lessee should leave & yield up to the lessor all engines, machines, effects, & things belonging to & used in the colliery, & that an inventory & valuation should, three months previous thereto, be made & taken by two indifferent persons, to be appointed by the parties respectively, or by an umpire, & such inventory should be compared with the then present inventory & valuation, & that the difference in the value of the engines, etc., should be paid by the landlord or tenant to the other, according as it was greater or less than the value at the time of the letting. The tenant failing in payment of the rent, the lease became forfeited, & the landlord recovered judgment in ejectment in Trinity term 1818, but did not execute his writ of possession until Nov. 9, 1819. On the following day the tenant committed an act of bkpcy. The lease having become forfeited by the act of the tenant, no inventory or valuation of the machines, & other effects & things belonging to the collieries, was made three months before the determination of the demise :—Held : if the fixtures or movable articles had been in the tenant's possession, etc., within 21 Jac. 1, c. 19, s. 11, that would have ceased when the landlord resumed possession on Nov. 9.—STORER v. HUNTER (1824), 3 B. & C. 368 ; 5 Dow. & Ry. 6584. Disclaimer of lease of works with loose tools & machinery.]—Iron works with loose tools & machinery were demised together at an entire rent. The trustee of the lessee disclaimed the lease, & afterwards claimed the tools & machinery as being in the order & disposition of debtor :—Held : the tools & machinery were, upon the execution of the disclaimer, surrendered to the lessor, & the trustee could not claim them under 1869 Act, s. 15.—Re FUSSELL, Ex p. ALLEN (1882), 20 Ch. 6585. Goods distrained.]—Goods of a third party on the premises of bkpt. at the time of his committing an act of bkpcy., are not in the order & disposition of bkpt. if at the time of such act of bkpcy. there is a distress for rent upon such goods.—SACKER v. CHIDLEY (1865), 11 Jur. 6586. —— Goods left after appraisal for use of bankrupt's wife.]—A landlord distrained for rent & left the goods when appraised on the premises for the use of bkpt.'s wife, while the tenant was in prison. On the tenant's bkpcy. :—Held : the goods passed to the assignees as being in the order & disposition of bkpt.—Re DEANE, Ex p. SHUTTLEWORTH (1832), 1 Deac. & Ch. 223, Ct. of R.

6587. —— For fictitious rent.]—On the demise of a bakery by W. to debtor, certain chattels were to become the property of debtor at the end of the term, upon his regularly paying the rent reserved. The lease contained a proviso for re-entry on breach of covenant. On Apr. 6, 1880, W. put a man in possession for breach of covenant & non-payment of rent. A liquidation petition was filed in Apr. 8, 1880 :—Held : 1869 Act, s. 15, had no application, because actual apparent possession had been taken by W. before the commencement of the liquidation, & the fixtures, machinery, & apparatus included in the so-called lease had never become the property of debtor, & the trustee was not entitled to them, but he was entitled to the proceeds of the distress which W. had levied on chattels of debtor, the so-called rent being a fiction.—Re GELDER, Ex p. SERGEANT, [1881] W. 6588. Taking goods out of possession—By best delivery available.]—A. having contracted with a canal co. to build locks & bridges on the canal as their engineer, purchased timber & other materials for the purpose, which were laid on the co.'s premises on the banks of the canal, & on the co.'s advancing money to him, they took a bill of sale of those goods, & a symbolical delivery of them by a halfpenny. Afterwards the co. took out execution upon a judgment confessed by A., & the sheriff seized the goods, & A. became a bkpt. :—Held : A. had not such a possession of the goods as would enable his assignees to take them under 21 Jac. 1, c. 19, s. 11, for the best delivery was given that the nature of the goods would admit of, they being before on the co.'s premises.—MANTON v. MOORE (1796), 7 Term Rep. 67 ; 101 E. 6589. —— Wrongfully.]—Goods, the property of a widow & children, were upon her second marriage assigned to trustees in trust to suffer the husband to enjoy them, on condition he should pay to the trustees for the use of the children £800 by yearly instalments of £100 from 1789. He continued in possession till 1797, having paid only £250, & the day before his bkpcy. the trustees repossessed themselves of the goods :—Held : this was fraudulent as against creditors, & the assignee of bkpt. was entitled to the goods under 21 Jac. 1, c. 19.—DARBY v. SMITH (1798), 8 Term Rep. 82 ; 101 E. 6593. —— Not mere colourable possession—Proper direction to jury.]—The holder of a bill of sale of the household furniture & other effects of a trader, other than his stock-in-trade, by agreement with the trader sent a woman to take & preserve possession of the furniture & effects for the holder, who lived with the trader in all respects as one of his family, the apparent possession of the trader continuing as before. The trader became bkpt., & his assignees having brought an action against the holder of the bill of sale to recover the value of the goods assigned by it, the jury were directed to find a verdict for deft., if they believed that the woman actually & not merely colourably, took possession of the goods on the part of the holder of the bill of sale, & would not allow them to be dealt with without his instructions :—Held : this was not a misdirection, &, the jury having found for deft., the furniture & effects were not in the "possession, order, or disposition" of the trader at the time of his bkpcy.—VICARINO v. HOLLINGSWORTH (1869), 20 L. 6594. —— Day after act of bankruptcy—No notice of act of bankruptcy—Notice of intention to file petition.]—The holder of a bill of sale, given to secure a debt, received notice on Mar. 10 from debtor's solr. that debtor was about to file a liquidation petition. The creditor at once sent a man to demand payment of the debt, & to take possession of the property comprised in the bill of sale, if payment was not made. Possession was obtained on Mar. 11. The petition had been filed on Mar. 10, but neither the creditor, nor the man who was sent to take possession, knew that until after possession had been obtained :—Held : the taking possession of the property took the goods out of the order & disposition of bkpt., notwithstanding the prior act of bkpcy.—Re WRIGHT, Ex p. ARNOLD (1876), 3 Ch. 6595. —— Possession by receiver—Action to enforce agreement to give bill of sale.]—In an action to enforce an agreement by B., an innkeeper, to give a bill of sale of his furniture & effects, A. obtained the appointment of a receiver, who entered into possession on Mar. 16, & served the customers. During the night B. absconded, & next day filed a petition, under which a receiver was appointed in bkpcy. The two receivers remained in joint possession :—Held : the possession of A.'s receiver had taken the goods out of the order & disposition of B. at the time of his bkpcy.—TAYLOR v. ECKERSLEY (1877), 5 Ch. He granted a bill of sale over trade utensils & equipment in the three houses. At the commencement of the bkpcy. the mtgees. of the houses had entered, & had appointed managers who were carrying on the business, but they allowed debtor to reside at the house of which he held the licence. The goods in the bill of sale remained on the premises, & there was no default under the bill of sale :—Held : the goods at all three houses were at the commencement of the bkpcy. in the possession of bkpt. in his trade or business, & they passed to his trustee.—Re ELLIOTT, Ex p. THE TRUSTEE (1901), 84 L. m. —— No notice of act of bankruptcy.]—G. gave a bill of sale over goods to defts., & subsequently gave a second bill of sale over the same goods to pltfs. Defts. seized the goods with notice of an available act of bkpcy. committed by G., & afterwards assigned the goods to pltfs. In an action by pltfs. against defts. for breach of covenant for title, defts. sought to give evidence that the goods were not in the order & disposition of bkpt., because pltfs. had previously seized under the bill of sale without notice of an available act of bkpcy., but such evidence was rejected :—Held : the evidence should have been admitted.—DENHAM v. FOLEY (1889), 19 N. n. —— Goods left in custody of bankrupt's caretaker.]—A trader executed a bill of sale to pltf. The goods were subsequently seized formally by pltf., but left in the custody of the trader's caretaker & on his premises. They were then seized by the sheriff under a fi. fa., & were claimed by pltf., but refused. While they remained in the sheriff's possession the trader was adjudicated bkpt. on a subsequent act of bkpcy :—Held : the seizure & demand by the true owner, though actuated by a mixed motive partly for the trader's benefit, prevented the operation of the reputed ownership clause.—MCCUE v. JAMES (1870), 19 W. 6600. —— —— ——.]—Testator directed his debts to be paid & gave the residue of his estate to his wife, whom he appointed extrix. The widow proved the will, paid some of the debts, & for four years carried on, ostensibly on her own account, her late husband's business of a cow-keeper. At the end of that period she married a second husband, who shortly afterwards became bkpt. There were then creditors of testator still unsatisfied, who had been throughout aware of the widow's dealings in relation to the business: —Held : they had no interest in the stock & property of the business as against the trustee.—Re FELLS, Ex p. ANDREWS (1876), 4 Ch. The will contained no power for the trustees to carry on his farming business. The widow, with the sanction of her co-trustee, took a lease of testator's farm. An account was opened at a bank by the trustees, as "exors." into which all money received from the produce of the farm were paid, & from which all outgoings were drawn. Thirteen years after testator's death, the widow filed a petition, & the trustees claimed the furniture & the stock on the farm :—Held : the property claimed was earmarked as trust property, & only the life interest of the widow passed to the trustees.—Re ANSLOW, Ex p. BARBER (1880), 42 L. 6602. Attempt to take possession early on day of act of bankruptcy—Possession successfully taken next day.]—H. discounted for P. two bills of exchange payable on Oct. 12, & P. gave H. a bill of sale as security, requesting him not to register it unless the bills were dishonoured at maturity. H. did not register it. The bills were dishonoured, on which H. took them up, & P. gave him two fresh bills for the same amount, & a new bill of sale of the same chattels. On Oct. 30 the new bills were dishonoured, & H. gave directions to take possession of the chattels. Early on the 31st a broker went to take possession, but could not on that day get into the house where they were. On the same day the bill of sale was registered, & P. committed an act of bkpcy. by filing a petition, on which he was adjudged bkpt. On Nov. 1 H. obtained possession of the goods :—Held : the goods belonged to H. & not to the trustee in bkpcy. for they were not in the order & disposition of bkpt. with the consent of the true owner at the time of the act of bkpcy.—Re PULLING, Ex p. HARRIS (1872), 8 Ch. 6614. Attornment by parties holding goods for bankrupt.]—Bankers from time to time made advances to traders to enable them to purchase goods for shipment to the East. The course of business was for the traders to send the goods to bleachers to be bleached, & afterwards they were returned to the traders or sent to packers to be packed for shipment ; & on the occasion of each advance the traders sent the bank a letter of lien accompanied by the bleachers' receipts for the goods. The letter was a printed form & was in the following terms : "We beg to advise having drawn a cheque on you for £——, which amount please place to the debit of our loan account, as a loan on the security of goods in course of preparation for shipment to the East. As security for this advance we hold on your account & under lien to you the under-mentioned goods in the hands of (here followed list of goods & names of bleachers) as per their receipt enclosed. These goods when ready will be shipped to Calcutta, & the bills of lading, duly indorsed, will be handed to you, & we then undertake to repay the above advance . . ." A few days before the commencement of the bkpcy. the bank gave notice to the bleachers whose receipts they held, claiming all the goods specified in such receipts, & on the same day also gave notice to the traders claiming the goods held by bleachers against which the bank had outstanding advances made to the traders. Bleachers holding for the traders goods not covered by any letters of lien then, at the request of the traders, attorned to the bank before the commencement of the bkpcy., except in one case in which the attornment was made subsequently :—Held : none of the goods either specified in the receipts or in respect of which attornment had been made before the commencement of the bkpcy. were, at the commencement of the bkpcy., in the possession, order, or disposition of bkpts. as the reputed owners thereof within 1887 Act, s. 44.—Re HAMILTON, YOUNG & CO., Ex p. CARTER, [1905] 2 K. 6639. —— Delivery of transfers blank as to transferee & date—Name of purchaser from transferee filled in—Bankruptcy between dates of sale—Acknowledgment by company that it held certificate.]—A holder of shares in a co. instructed his broker to sell them, which the broker did, & handed to the purchaser transfers executed by the shareholder, but with blanks for the dates & the name of the transferees. The purchaser on receiving the transfers paid the purchase-money, & subsequently resold some of the shares & filled up the transfers with the names of the sub-purchasers & the dates of the sub-purchases. In the interval the original vendor had been adjudicated bkpt., & the co. on that account declined to register the transfer so filled up. The omission to register had arisen from press of business in the co., & its practice at the time was to give an acknowledgment to a shareholder intending to sell that the co. held the certificates of his shares. The vendor obtained such an acknowledgment on the occasion of the sale & handed it to the purchaser, but neither vendor nor purchaser gave notice to the co. otherwise of the sale:—Held: the shares were not in the vendor's reputed owner-
